Robertson Certain ROK Roadblock To Armistice Cleared

PANMUNJOM, Wednesday, July 15 (AP) — Allied and Communist truce delegates met again today for 21 minutes and recessed until tomorrow with no indication they were any closer to a cease-fire in Korea.

PANMUNJOM, Wednesday, July 15 (AP)—The Reds clouded truce prospects today with protests, demands and heavy fighting but President Eisenhower's homeward-bound special envoy reiterated confidence that the South Korean roadblock to an armistice agreement has been cleared.

Sent to Korea to get President Syngman Rhee back in line, the special envoy, Walter S. Robertson, said before departing Tokyo:

"Nothing agreed upon (with Rhee) is inconsistent with an immediate implementation of the truce and the long-announced objectives of the United Nations, the United States and the Republic of Korea for an independent, unified Korea and a just and lasting peace in the Far East."

Eisenhower Optimistic

In Washington, President Eisenhower was described after a White House session with congressional leaders as optimistic over chances for a cease-fire.

Red and U. N. truce teams meet again today at 11 a.m. (9 p.m., EST, Tuesday).

The only concrete word to come out of Tuesday's 39-minute session was that the Reds lodged another protest. They charged that an Allied shell landed Sunday in the Panmunjom neutral zone.

At Monday's session, the Reds also lodged protest, charging that Allied planes had bombed and strafed a prisoner of war camp north of Pyongyang.

The U. N. Command has not commented on either charge.

Reds Renew Demands

The Red radio at Pyongyang broadcast renewed demands that the U. N. Command recapture "immediately" the more than 27,000 anti-Red North Korean prisoners released last month on orders of South Korea's President Syngman Rhee.

The broadcast heard in Tokyo Tuesday night brushed aside the contention of Gen. Mark Clark, U. N. Far East commander, that the Red demand was impossible to meet because the prisoners had melted away into the civilian population. Pyongyang radio argued that 90 per cent were in "concentration camps before the very eyes of U. S. military authorities."

Stanley Wins Demo Primary In Virginia

RICHMOND, Va., July 14 (AP)—Former Congressman Thomas B. Stanley won a comparatively easy victory over State Sen. Charles R. Fenwick in today's Democratic primary for governor.

The southside Virginia furniture manufacturer overcame an early lead piled up by the state senator from Arlington and steadily opened the gap as downstate returns began to pour in.

There was no doubt on the outcome when half the returns were in.

Stanley, heavily supported by the operating forces of the state Democratic organization although U. S. Sen. Byrd, its leader, took no public part, bid fair to sweep the state with the exception of the Washington metropolitan area of Northern Virginia where Fenwick counted on a large majority.

Draft Board Quits After Legislator's Son Is Deferred

WABASH, Ind., July 14 (AP) —A draft deferment granted in Washington for the son of an Indiana Congressman caused the resignation of the Wabash County draft board today and the postponement of all local inductions.

The three-man local board resigned in protest to what it called "apparent political influence" in the case of John V. Beamer Jr., 24-year-old son of Rep. John V. Beamer of Wabash.

The board also protested the deferment of Vaughan P. Peebles, a 20-year-old farmer. Both Peebles and young Beamer had been reclassified by the local board from 2A to 1A and ordered to report for induction July 27.

East Berliners Rush To Get Food At West Market

BERLIN, July 14 (AP)—A go-getter Western mayor cut red tape and fed thousands of hungry East Germans today in a heart-warming demonstration of practical food relief on Berlin's Iron Curtain border.

Communist propagandists let out a roar of rage at the act. The Soviet zone news agency ADN. denounced it as "an American propaganda trick."

While the United States and the Bonn Republic were still discussing ways and means of getting 15 million dollars of free American food to the stricken Soviet zone, Willy Kressmann went into action this morning.

As mayor of the American sector borough of Kreuzberg, he opened a relief market at 9 a.m. in Oranienplatz facing the police-guarded frontier of Soviet East Berlin.

By collecting private donations and drawing on borough charitable funds, he stocked the market with milk and fruits for sale to East Germans at less than a fifth their normal price.

Five thousand East Germans swarmed past the Communist police posts to gather up 1,820 quarts of milk, 2,200 pounds of cherries, and 11,200 oranges before the market closed at 7 p.m.

Kressman announced it would reopen tomorrow morning with potatoes featured.

The East Germans' depreciated currency was accepted at par with the West mark at Oranienplatz. In regular exchange, the rate is 5.8 to 1. So the food today was far cheaper than East Germans had ever been able to buy it at home in eight years of Communist rule.

The West Berlin government, meanwhile, took up with West German Vice Chancellor Franz Bluecher its proposals to issue 5-mark food coupons monthly to East Germans, redeemable at numerous food sitrubition centers to be st food distribution centers to be set up along the Iron Curtain, like Oranienplatz.

Bluecher, responsible for administering U. S. Mutual Security Agency aid, flew here tonight from Bonn.

27 Iran Deputies Quit

TEHRAN, Iran, July 14 (AP)—All but one of the 28 Parliament deputies belonging to Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's National Movement resigned today.

The situation, unprecedented in modern Iranian history, gives Mossadegh a chance to govern without consulting Parliament which has been increasingly opposed to his policies.

She Cruised With Navy

Joan L. Garrison, 18, unemployed waitress, waits to be arraigned yesterday before the U. S. commissioner at Long Beach, Calif., on charges of illegally wearing a Navy uniform. She was discovered aboard the cruiser Los Angeles during a one-day firing practice cruise wearing Navy blues and a sailor hat. Authorities said she boarded the ship in the middle of the night on a dare with the aid of two sailors who gave her a crew cut and supplied her with Navy clothes.

House Finds Out Today What Bill Is OK'd Provides

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP)—The House unanimously passed a bill today and decided to wait until tomorrow to find out what it provides.

Chairman Reed (R-NY) of the Ways and Means Committee asked at the close of the session that the bill (he gave its number) be passed by unanimous consent. Nobody objected, so Speaker Martin declared the bill passed and it headed for the Senate.

Reed, whose committee approved the measure, then asked for permission to put an explanation of the bill in the Congressional Record, which comes out tomorrow morning. Nobody objected to that, either.

Newsmen, whose bosses think today's news should be written today, discovered that the bill would permit the duty-free importation of foreign articles for display at the Washington State International Trade Fair to be held next February in Seattle.

25,000 Fun-Bent Shriners Parade

NEW YORK, July 14 (AP)—Twenty-five thousand fun-bent Shriners took over upper Fifth Avenue to day to show half a million parade-wise New Yorkers how a parade should go.

For six hours they frolicked over a two-mile route, mainly along the edge of Central Park.

Colorful costumes, blaring horns, trick vehicles, flashing scimitars—all spilled into the heavy noontime traffic of Mid-Manhattan's main thoroughfares, where additional tens of thousands stopped to watch in smiling good humor.

The brilliant, multi-colored spectacle was a feature of the 79th annual convention of the Ancient Arabic Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, a Masonic organization.

British Are Accused Of Killing Egyptians

CAIRO, Egypt, July 14 (AP)—Maj. Salah Salem, minister of National Guidance, declared today "lots of Egyptians are being killed, injured and robbed by British troops" and two were killed in the Suez Canal Zone yesterday.

Salem told foreign correspondents at a news conference that if present British "provocations" continued he doubted that the government "could control the people's anger for long." He issued a list of 44 instances of what he called British aggression in the Canal Zone in May and June.

McCarthy Fails To Get Approval For Bundy Quiz

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP)—Senator McCarthy (R-Wis) failed at least temporarily today to prevail upon the Eisenhower administration to let him question William P. Bundy, official of the super-secret Central Intelligence Agency.

After a conference with Allen Dulles, head of the intelligence Unit, he announced his Senate subcommittee would turn over to CIA all information it had on Bundy. Then, McCarthy said, the CIA "will re-evaluate Mr. Bundy's security status under President Eisenhower's new security order."

Meantime, he said, his aides and those of Dulles would confer "with a view to working out a formula whereby the committee could carry out its proper investigative functions in protecting the security of the United States, without impairing in any way the security of the intelligence agency."

McCarthy has charged that Bundy, a son-in-law of former Secretary of State Acheson, gave $400 to the defense fund of Alger Hiss. McCarthy declared the Senate subcommittee wanted to question Bundy but was blocked because Dulles had directed lesser CIA officials not to testify before congressional committes. McCarthy accused Dulles, brother of Secretary of State Dulles, of a "most blatant attempt to thwart the authority of the Senate."

Condon Blames Political Charges, Unfair Evaluation For A-Test Ban

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP)—Rep. Robert L. Condon (D-Calif) told the House today he was barred from watching an atom bomb test because of old political charges which the Atomic Energy Commission "did not fairly evaluate."

Similar charges of "Red sympathies" were made against several other Democratic candidates in last year's California election campaign, he said, and "these tactics are almost standard in the campaigns in my state."

He expressed the opinion they would be used again "by my political opponents in 1954", but said he is willing to let the voters of his district decide the question of his loyalty.

Condon took the House floor to explain in detail his being barred from a May 7 atomic test blast at Las Vegas, Nev., which all congressmen had been invited to witness.

He said he first decided not to go, but later accepted and went to Las Vegas as "a stopover on my journey to California," where he was to participate in the launching of a Navy minesweeper at Mare Island on May 11.

Not until he arrived at Las Vegas, he said, was he told he would be barred from witnessing the blast. He said two AEC employes told him, to his complete surprise, that he would be barred on orders from Gordon Dean, then AEC chairman.

He later talked with Dean in Washington, he said, and learned that Dean himself knew little of the matter and had not issued the order. "This had been done by a subordinate in his name."

Dean later was able to give him more information, Condon said, and "after full discussion with him, I left satisfied that the episode was closed."

He said the information on which the AEC acted consisted basically "of anonymous allegations that in the past I had associations with individuals or organizations now considered hostile to our government."

Seven Killed, 130 Injured In Paris Bastille Day Clash

PARIS, July 14 — Seven persons were killed and 130 others wounded today in a clash between police and a group of about 2,000 North Africans participating in a Bastille Day workers' parade.

The seven dead were members of the North African contingent in a Communist-sponsored parade.

Eyewitnesses attributed the fight to an unexpected cloudburst which drenched the marchers and spectators near the end of the demonstration. Another factor was the coincidental arrival on the place of three bus loads of police homeward bound from duty in various parts of the city.

Among the casualties were 80 policemen, 18 of them seriously wounded. About 50 of the demonstrators were wounded—45 of them seriously.

The eyewitnesses said the North African group, among the last in the parade, had reached the reviewing stand when the downpour started.

The marchers scattered for shelter, and in doing so burst through police lines. Scuffles developed, and the demonstrators began swinging their banners and sticks holding the banners. Police fought back with clubs.

At that moment the busloads of police drove up. Panic seized the crowd, and a battle royal broke out.

The demonstrators overturned two police cars and set them afire. Police officials denied having fired on the crowd, but eyewitnesses told of hearing shots fired. One of the wounded policemen suffered a bullet injury.

Police reinforcements finally cleared the place.

Autumn Talks With Molotov To Be Sought

Red China Is Warned Against Aggression In Korea After Truce

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP)—The Big Three foreign ministers proposed tonight a meeting "in the early autumn" with Russia's Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov.

Ending their five-day conference, they issued a final communique saying the meeting with Russia should consider "directly the first steps which should lead to a satisfactory solution of the German problem" and conclusion of an overdue Austrian peace settlement.

In an earlier statement on Far Eastern affairs, they joined in warning Red China that their governments would fight once more if Communist forces "should renew their aggression in Korea after an armistice."

Will Support Joint Policies

The United States, British and French leaders also declared they would support existing common policies indefinitely toward Communist China even after a Korean cease fire.

An American spokesman said this means continued opposition to admission of Communist China into the U. N. and tight controls on strategic shipments to the Communist mainland until these moves are changed through consultation.

In announcing their decision to seek a Western foreign ministers meeting with Russia, the communique said:

"Mindful of the special urgency which recent events have given to the question of the unification of Germany, the Three Powers have resolved to make a new effort to bring to an end the division of Germany.

Bonn Consulted

"The three governments have therefore decided, in consultation with the German federal government, to propose a meeting in the early autumn of the foreign ministers of France, the United Kingdom, the United States of America and the USSR to discuss directly the first steps which should lead to a satisfactory solution of the German problem, namely the organization of free elections and the establishment of a free all-German government.

"This meeting should also consider the conclusion of the Austrian treaty."

The three-power statement, outlining their Far East decisions, also warned the Chinese Communist government against launching any new aggression "in any other part of Asia" after a Korea cease-fire.

The communique also pledged strong support to the United Nations truce efforts in Korea and promised to work for reunification of this divided country by peaceful means afterward.

Terrorists Recaptured

NAIROBI, Kenya, July 14 (AP) — Four Kikuyu tribesmen doomed to die on Saturday broke out of prison at dawn today, only to be recaptured in a few hours. The four were sentenced to hang for the slaying of a British farmer, his doctor wife and their son, 6, last January.

Eisenhower Is Victor In Scrap Over Treaty

Foreign Courts' Right To Try GIs Upheld

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP)—Heeding an appeal from President Eisenhower, the Senate tonight rejected an amendment which would have cut the heart out of a treaty giving foreign courts the rights to try American servicemen for civil offenses overseas.

The Senate turned down, 53 to 27, a proposal by Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) which would have given American military authorities exclusive jurisdiction over United States troops "with respect to all offenses" in all of the 13 North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) nations.

CHUTES SIX MILES — Maj. Charles Garino, 33, Framingham, Mass., is shown after he parachuted nearly six miles to safety from his jet fighter when it collided with another jet over the Olympic Peninsula. The planes were from McChord Air Force Base, Tacoma, Wash. Two men flying in the other jet were killed.

The vote on Bricker's proposal came shortly after Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) read a letter from Eisenhower saying failure of the Senate to ratify the treaty could "seriously affect the security of the United States" and could undermine this nation's entire military position in Europe.

President Disagrees

The President said he did not share the fears expressed by opponents of the treaty. Bricker and Sen. McCarran (D-Nev) told the Senate earlier today that the treaty would surrender the constituional rights of American troops abroad.

The treaty, they said, would leave American troops to the mercy of foreign courts and possibly subject them to foreign death penalties.

Knowland said a Senate resolution to accompany the treaty would insure safeguarding the constituional rights of American servicemen accused of violating the laws of NATO nations. However, the resolution would not be binding on the other 13 nations.

Final Vote Delayed

This resolution, Knowland said, would express the Senate's belief that American military commanders have the right to ask the foreign nations to waive their jurisdiction under the treaty in any case where a serviceman's rights were in jeopardy.

A vote on the treaties had been expected tonight but after the rejection of Bricker's amendment, Knowland suddenly got a recess of the Senate until 11 a.m. (EST) tomorrow.

Excess Profits Tax Bill Okayed By Senate Unit

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP)—In sharp contrast to its House counterpart, the Senate Finance Committee approved quickly and without change today a House-passed bill to continue the excess profits tax for the remainder of this year.

The House Ways and Means Committee had delayed action for months on the extension requested by President Eisenhower. It sent the measure along to the House for passage last week only after the administration had threatened to by-pass the tax-writing group. The Senate committee acted after a 2½-hour closed-door session.

Senate Approval Seen

Chairman Millikin (R-Colo) said the committee approved the bill "By a comfortable vote," and he predicted the Senate would send the measure direct to the White House without change, possibly later this week.

The tax expired June 30, but can be restored retroactively to keep it in effect.

Committee approval of the bill without change gave strength to the administration's drive to get the measure through the Senate in the same form in which it passed the House.

Changes May Be Sought

That would avoid any need for sending it back to the House for action on Senate amendments, and would permit the bill to go directly to Eisenhower for his signature.

The House considered the bill under a rule which permitted no amendments. The Senate has no such procedure, and several senators have indicated they plan to seek changes on the Senate floor.

Among them, Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala) wants to exempt from the excess profits tax firms making less than $100,000 a year. The present exemption is $25,000.

Russian Parliament Called To Meet July 28

LONDON, June 14 (AP)—Russia's Supreme Soviet (Parliament), which last met four months ago to confirm Georgi M. Malenkov as Premier, is to meet again July 28, the Moscow radio announced tonight.

The call was issued by Marshal Klementi Voroshilov, chairman of the Supreme Soviet's Presidium, and Nikolai Pegov, secretary of the Presidium, without disclosing the topics that will be considered.

The likelihood, however, is that the session will be concerned primarily with two things:

1. The Malenkov regime's first budget.

2. Rubber-stamping of the removal of Lavrenty P. Beria as internal affairs minister and his replacement by Sergei Kruglov.

Chinese Pour Fresh Troops Into Offensive

Enemy Spearheads Knife At Least Four Miles Into U. N. Line

SEOUL, Wednesday, July 15 (AP)—Rain, ROKs, and roaring big guns checked the raging Chinese offensive on the Korean East-Central Front today after it had smashed miles inside Allied territory.

By 11 a. m. (9 p. m., EST., Tuesday) it was apparent at U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters that the Communist drive on the 20-mile sector had stalled—at least for the moment.

SEOUL, Wednesday, July 15 (AP)—Chinese Communists poured fresh troops from eight divisions into a roaring offensive along a 20-mile stretch of the rain-drenched East-Central Front today.

Four hard-hit South Korean divisions and attached American artillery and advisory units reeled back for miles under the Red hammer blows.

More than 100,000 Chinese and South Korean soldiers were locked for a second day in the biggest Korean battle in two years.

Bad weather hindered Allied air support at a time when it was needed most urgently.

The outcome of the feverish fighting was still not clear. Red spearheads knifed at least four miles into the flanks of Allied lines along the Kumsong Bulge.

Yanks Forced To Flee

One U. S. battalion, assigned to long-range harrassing fire, suddenly found itself firing directly at Chinese storming down a slope just in front of it.

Destroying its weapons, the battalion was forced to flee to the hills but later was re-equipped and firing again late Tuesday.

A U. S. rocket platoon, suddenly cut off, had to shoot its way out. About half the men fought through Red encirclement.

The entire northward bulge of the Allied line between Kumhwa and the winding Pukhan River was endangered by the Communist penetrations on the flanks, front reports said.

Soldiers of the Republic of Korea's Capital 6th, 8th and 3rd Divisions fought valiently to stem the Red tide. All were battle tested, but even the best could not stand against the Red "human sea" attacks.

Eight Red Divisions In Fight

Frontline officers estimated the Chinese had eight full divisions in the fight, with more than four of them committed the first day and the others steadily funnelling in reinforcements. Estimates of Red troops actually in the battle ranged between 60,000 and 70,000 men.

Late Tuesday night Allied officers still were unable to give a clear picture of the Communist gains in the heaviest Chinese offensive since May, 1951.

Gen. Maxwell Taylor, 8th Army commander, flew to the front for conferences with division commanders. He said afterwards that withdrawals were made north and east of the Kumsong River.

Taylor commended Republic of Korea (ROK) soldiers for heroism in the face of the human sea assaults that engulfed many Allied outposts. ROK troops fought to the last man at many of these posts.

Other outposts were believed still fighting, although they had been cut off and out of communication since the bugle-blowing Chinese began to swarm south shortly before midnight Monday.

Freighter Sinks After Collision

SAN FRANCISCO, July 14 (AP)—Two big freighters slashed into each other 18 miles off the Golden Gate today sending the heavily laden Jacob Luckenbach to the bottom in 200 feet of water.

The Hawaiian Pilot, damaged at the bow, picked up the 49 crew members of the Luckenbach and made harbor safely under its own power.

The collision occurred in the dim pre-dawn during one of the worst coastal fogs of the season.

Those who watched the Hawaiian Pilot come through the Golden Gate under the watchful eyes of a Coast Guard escort marveled that she remained float, with the huge gaping hole in her prow.

The Jacob Luckenbach was outbound for Pusan and Yokohama, under charter to the Pacific Far East Lines.

The Hawaiian Pilot, owned by Matson Navigation Company, with nine passengers and 50 crew, was inbound from Hawaii, heavy with a bulk sugar, molasses and pineapple cargo.

Blast Apparently Plunged Big Airliner Into Pacific

HONOLULU, July 14 (AP)—Searchers said today that a violent explosion aboard a Transocean Airlines four-engined plane apparently plunged its 58 occupants to death without warning Saturday night 350 miles east of Wake Island in Pacific waters teeming with sharks.

"The cause of the crash was believed to be an explosion," radioed the Navy transport Barrett while proceeding to Guam with 14 mangled bodies aboard.

"No possible chance find survivors alive."

The Barrett's crew deduced the explosion from such evidence as:

None of the bodies recovered wore a life jacket.

The bodies and debris were spread over a wide area.

Only one of the plane's five life rafts was inflated. Some were torn into remnants.

Twelve of the bodies were stripped of clothing. The clothing of the other two was in shreds.

The Hawaiian Sea Frontier ordered all ships and planes to wind up search at 4 p.m., (9 p.m., EST) and return to their bases.

Six military ships and a tanker had continued the search after the Barrett left the scene.

Recovery of the 14 bodies found by the Barrett was made dangerous by sharks which were voraciously attacking them.

"None of the bodies recovered wore a life jacket or showed any evidence of preparing for the impending crash," the Barrett radioed.

The 14 bodies were those of a boy, a girl, nine women and three men.

An American spokesman said this means continued opposition to admission of Communist China into the U. N. and tight controls on strategic shipments to the Communist mainland until these moves are changed through consultation.

In announcing their decision to seek a Western foreign ministers meeting with Russia, the communique said:

"Mindful of the special urgency which recent events have given to the question of the unification of Germany, the Three Powers have resolved to make a new effort to bring to an end the division of Germany.

Bonn Consulted

"The three governments have therefore decided, in consultation with the German federal government, to propose a meeting in the early autumn of the foreign ministers of France, the United Kingdom, the United States of America and the USSR to discuss directly the first steps which should lead to a satisfactory solution of the German problem, namely the organization of free elections and the establishment of a free all-German government.

"This meeting should also consider the conclusion of the Austrian treaty."

The three-power statement, outlining their Far East decisions, also warned the Chinese Communist government against launching any new aggression "in any other part of Asia" after a Korea cease-fire.

The communique also pledged strong support to the United Nations truce efforts in Korea and promised to work for reunification of this divided country by peaceful means afterward.

McCarthy Fails To Get Approval For Bundy Quiz

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP)—Senator McCarthy (R-Wis) failed at least temporarily today to prevail upon the Eisenhower administration to let him question William P. Bundy, official of the supersecret Central Intelligence Agency.

After a conference with Allen Dulles, head of the intelligence Unit, he announced his Senate subcommittee would turn over to CIA all information it had on Bundy. Then, McCarthy said, the CIA "will re-evaluate Mr. Bundy's security status under President Eisenhower's new security order."

Meantime, he said, his aides and those of Dulles would confer "with a view to working out a formula whereby the committee could carry out its proper investigative functions in protecting the security of the United States, without impairing in any way the security of the intelligence agency."

McCarthy has charged that Bundy, a son-in-law of former Secretary of State Acheson, gave $400 to the defense fund of Alger Hiss. McCarthy declared the Senate subcommittee wanted to question Bundy but was blocked because Dulles had directed lesser CIA officials not to testify before congressional committes. McCarthy accused Dulles, brother of Secretary of State Dulles, of a "most blatant attempt to thwart the authority of the Senate."

Terrorists Recaptured

NAIROBI, Kenya, July 14 (AP) — Four Kikuyu tribesmen doomed to die on Saturday broke out of prison at dawn today, only to be recaptured in a few hours. The four were sentenced to hang for the slaying of a British farmer, his doctor wife and their son, 6, last January.

Condon Blames Political Charges, Unfair Evaluation For A-Test Ban

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP)—Rep. Robert L. Condon (D-Calif) told the House today he was barred from watching an atom bomb test because of old political charges which the Atomic Energy Commission "did not fairly evaluate."

Similar charges of "Red sympathies" were made against several other Democratic candidates in last year's California election campaign, he said, and "these tactics are almost standard in the campaigns in my state."

He expressed the opinion they would be used again "by my political opponents in 1954", but said he is willing to let the voters of his district decide the question of his loyalty.

Condon took the House floor to explain in detail his being barred from a May 7 atomic test blast at Las Vegas, Nev., which all congressmen had been invited to witness.

He said he first decided not to go, but later accepted and went to Las Vegas as "a stopover on my journey to California," where he was to participate in the launching of a Navy minesweeper at Mare Island on May 11.

Not until he arrived at Las Vegas, he said, was he told he would be barred from witnessing the blast. He said two AEC employes told him, to his complete surprise, that he would be barred on orders from Gordon Dean, then AEC chairman.

He later talked with Dean in Washington, he said, and learned that Dean himself knew little of the matter and had not issued the order. "This had been done by a subordinate in his name."

Dean later was able to give him more information, Condon said, and "after full discussion with him, I left satisfied that the episode was closed."

He said the information on which the AEC acted consisted basically "of anonymous allegations that in the past I had associations with individuals or organizations now considered hostile to our government."

Eisenhower Is Victor In Scrap Over Treaty

Foreign Courts' Right To Try GIs Upheld

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP)—Heeding an appeal from President Eisenhower, the Senate tonight rejected an amendment which would have cut the heart out of a treaty giving foreign courts the rights to try American servicemen for civil offenses overseas.

The Senate turned down, 53 to 27, a proposal by Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) which would have given American military authorities exclusive jurisdiction over United States troops "with respect to all offenses" in all of the 13 North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) nations.

CHUTES SIX MILES — Maj. Charles Garino, 33, Framingham, Mass., is shown after he parachuted nearly six miles to safety from his jet fighter when it collided with another jet over the Olympic Peninsula. The planes were from McChord Air Force Base, Tacoma, Wash. Two men flying in the other jet were killed.

The vote on Bricker's proposal came shortly after Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) read a letter from Eisenhower saying failure of the Senate to ratify the treaty could "seriously affect the security of the United States" and could undermine this nation's entire military position in Europe.

President Disagrees

The President said he did not share the fears expressed by opponents of the treaty. Bricker and Sen. McCarran (D-Nev) told the Senate earlier today that the treaty would surrender the constituional rights of American troops abroad.

The treaty, they said, would leave American troops to the mercy of foreign courts and possibly subject them to foreign death penalties.

Knowland said a Senate resolution to accompany the treaty would insure safeguarding the constituional rights of American servicemen accused of violating the laws of NATO nations. However, the resolution would not be binding on the other 13 nations.

Final Vote Delayed

This resolution, Knowland said, would express the Senate's belief that American military commanders have the right to ask the foreign nations to waive their jurisdiction under the treaty in any case where a serviceman's rights were in jeopardy.

A vote on the treaties had been expected tonight but after the rejection of Bricker's amendment, Knowland suddenly got a recess of the Senate until 11 a.m. (EST) tomorrow.

Excess Profits Tax Bill Okayed By Senate Unit

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP)—In sharp contrast to its House counterpart, the Senate Finance Committee approved quickly and without change today a House-passed bill to continue the excess profits tax for the remainder of this year.

The House Ways and Means Committee had delayed action for months on the extension requested by President Eisenhower. It sent the measure along to the House for passage last week only after the administration had threatened to by-pass the tax-writing group. The Senate committee acted after a 2½-hour closed-door session.

Senate Approval Seen

Chairman Millikin (R-Colo) said the committee approved the bill "By a comfortable vote," and he predicted the Senate would send the measure direct to the White House without change, possibly later this week.

The tax expired June 30, but can be restored retroactively to keep it in effect.

Committee approval of the bill without change gave strength to the administration's drive to get the measure through the Senate in the same form in which it passed the House.

Changes May Be Sought

That would avoid any need for sending it back to the House for action on Senate amendments, and would permit the bill to go directly to Eisenhower for his signature.

The House considered the bill under a rule which permitted no amendments. The Senate has no such procedure, and several senators have indicated they plan to seek changes on the Senate floor.

Among them, Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala) wants to exempt from the excess profits tax firms making less than $100,000 a year. The present exemption is $25,000.

Russian Parliament Called To Meet July 28

LONDON, June 14 (AP)—Russia's Supreme Soviet (Parliament), which last met four months ago to confirm Georgi M. Malenkov as Premier, is to meet again July 28, the Moscow radio announced tonight.

The call was issued by Marshal Klementi Voroshilov, chairman of the Supreme Soviet's Presidium, and Nikolai Pegov, secretary of the Presidium, without disclosing the topics that will be considered.

The likelihood, however, is that the session will be concerned primarily with two things:

1. The Malenkov regime's first budget.

2. Rubber-stamping of the removal of Lavrenty P. Beria as internal affairs minister and his replacement by Sergei Kruglov.

Freighter Sinks After Collision

SAN FRANCISCO, July 14 (AP)—Two big freighters slashed into each other 18 miles off the Golden Gate today sending the heavily laden Jacob Luckenbach to the bottom in 200 feet of water.

The Hawaiian Pilot, damaged at the bow, picked up the 49 crew members of the Luckenbach and made harbor safely under its own power.

The collision occurred in the dim pre-dawn during one of the worst coastal fogs of the season.

Those who watched the Hawaiian Pilot come through the Golden Gate under the watchful eyes of a Coast Guard escort marveled that she remained float, with the huge gaping hole in her prow.

The Jacob Luckenbach was outbound for Pusan and Yokohama, under charter to the Pacific Far East Lines.

Chinese Pour Fresh Troops Into Offensive

Enemy Spearheads Knife At Least Four Miles Into U. N. Line

SEOUL, Wednesday, July 15 (AP)—Rain, ROKs, and roaring big guns checked the raging Chinese offensive on the Korean East-Central Front today after it had smashed miles inside Allied territory.

By 11 a. m. (9 p. m., EST., Tuesday) it was apparent at U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters that the Communist drive on the 20-mile sector had stalled—at least for the moment.

SEOUL, Wednesday, July 15 (AP)—Chinese Communists poured fresh troops from eight divisions into a roaring offensive along a 20-mile stretch of the rain-drenched East-Central Front today.

Four hard-hit South Korean divisions and attached American artillery and advisory units reeled back for miles under the Red hammer blows.

More than 100,000 Chinese and South Korean soldiers were locked for a second day in the biggest Korean battle in two years.

Bad weather hindered Allied air support at a time when it was needed most urgently.

The outcome of the feverish fighting was still not clear. Red spearheads knifed at least four miles into the flanks of Allied lines along the Kumsong Bulge.

Yanks Forced To Flee

One U. S. battalion, assigned to long-range harrassing fire, suddenly found itself firing directly at Chinese storming down a slope just in front of it.

Destroying its weapons, the battalion was forced to flee to the hills but later was re-equipped and firing again late Tuesday.

A U. S. rocket platoon, suddenly cut off, had to shoot its way out. About half the men fought through Red encirclement.

The entire northward bulge of the Allied line between Kumhwa and the winding Pukhan River was endangered by the Communist penetrations on the flanks, front reports said.

Soldiers of the Republic of Korea's Capital 6th, 8th and 3rd Divisions fought valiently to stem the Red tide. All were battle tested, but even the best could not stand against the Red "human sea" attacks.

Eight Red Divisions In Fight

Frontline officers estimated the Chinese had eight full divisions in the fight, with more than four of them committed the first day and the others steadily funnelling in reinforcements. Estimates of Red troops actually in the battle ranged between 60,000 and 70,000 men.

Late Tuesday night Allied officers still were unable to give a clear picture of the Communist gains in the heaviest Chinese offensive since May, 1951.

Gen. Maxwell Taylor, 8th Army commander, flew to the front for conferences with division commanders. He said afterwards that withdrawals were made north and east of the Kumsong River.

Taylor commended Republic of Korea (ROK) soldiers for heroism in the face of the human sea assaults that engulfed many Allied outposts. ROK troops fought to the last man at many of these posts.

Other outposts were believed still fighting, although they had been cut off and out of communication since the bugle-blowing Chinese began to swarm south shortly before midnight Monday.

Blast Apparently Plunged Big Airliner Into Pacific

HONOLULU, July 14 (AP)—Searchers said today that a violent explosion aboard a Transocean Airlines four-engined plane apparently plunged its 58 occupants to death without warning Saturday night 350 miles east of Wake Island in Pacific waters teeming with sharks.

"The cause of the crash was believed to be an explosion," radioed the Navy transport Barrett while proceeding to Guam with 14 mangled bodies aboard.

"No possible chance find survivors alive."

The Barrett's crew deduced the explosion from such evidence as:

None of the bodies recovered wore a life jacket.

The bodies and debris were spread over a wide area.

Only one of the plane's five life rafts was inflated. Some were torn into remnants.

Twelve of the bodies were stripped of clothing. The clothing of the other two was in shreds.

The Hawaiian Sea Frontier ordered all ships and planes to wind up search at 4 p.m., (9 p.m., EST) and return to their bases.

Six military ships and a tanker had continued the search after the Barrett left the scene.

Recovery of the 14 bodies found by the Barrett was made dangerous by sharks which were voraciously attacking them.

"None of the bodies recovered wore a life jacket or showed any evidence of preparing for the impending crash," the Barrett radioed.

The 14 bodies were those of a boy, a girl, nine women and three men.

Seven Killed, 130 Injured In Paris Bastille Day Clash

PARIS, July 14 — Seven persons were killed and 130 others wounded today in a clash between police and a group of about 2,000 North Africans participating in a Bastille Day workers' parade.

The seven dead were members of the North African contingent in a Communist-sponsored parade.

Eyewitnesses attributed the fight to an unexpected cloudburst which drenched the marchers and spectators near the end of the demonstration. Another factor was the coincidental arrival on the place of three bus loads of police homeward bound from duty in various parts of the city.

Among the casualties were 80 policemen, 18 of them seriously wounded. About 50 of the demonstrators were wounded—45 of them seriously.

The eyewitnesses said the North African group, among the last in the parade, had reached the reviewing stand when the downpour started.

The marchers scattered for shelter, and in doing so burst through police lines. Scuffles developed, and the demonstrators began swinging their banners and sticks holding the banners. Police fought back with clubs.

At that moment the busloads of police drove up. Panic seized the crowd, and a battle royal broke out.

The demonstrators overturned two police cars and set them afire. Police officials denied having fired on the crowd, but eyewitnesses told of hearing shots fired. One of the wounded policemen suffered a bullet injury.

Police reinforcements finally cleared the place.

Writers Refuse To Answer Book Probers' Queries

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP)—Two writers invoked the constitutional guarantee of free speech and press today in refusing to answer questions before Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and his Senate investigations subcommittee. The group is investigating Mc Carthy's charge that 30,000 Communist books have been in the government's overseas libraries.

The witnesses, Harvey O'Connor of Little Compton, R. I., and Leo Huberman of New York, cited the First Constitutional Amendment as ground for their refusal to testify about their political beliefs.

Works of both writers are represented in the 189 State Department libraries abroad.

The First Amendment says in part "Congress shall make no law . . . abridging the freedom of speech or of the press . . . "

McCarthy insisted the writers could not refuse to reply to questions unless they honestly believed their answers would tend to incriminate them.

This is a protection afforded by the Fifth Amendment, which many witnesses have invoked in the past.

One question O'Connor refused to answer was whether he was a member of the "Communist conspiracy" at the time he wrote the books the government has circulated.

He said he did not think an answer would tend to incriminate him, but that he believed that under the First Amendment his writings and political opinions were of no legitimate concern to the subcommittee.

"If I have violated any laws," O'Connor said, "then that is the concern of the proper law enforcement agencies."

Soviet Chess Players Return To Moscow

LONDON, July 14 (AP)—The team of Soviet chess players which had intended to play a United States squad in New York returned to Moscow today, Radio Moscow reported.

The chess masters turned back at Paris on orders from Moscow after a dispute arose over American permission to make trips outside of New York.

Woman Jailer, Prisoner Escape To West Berlin

BERLIN, Wednesday, July 15 (AP)—A woman jailer in full People's Police uniform reported to West Berlin police early today—with her female prisoner.

Police said the East zone policewoman made a successful getaway from Eberswalde Prison, 25 miles north of Berlin in the Russian zone.

The police said the jailer was to have taken her prisoner to the dentist, but sneaked instead into West Berlin.

50 Injured When Wind Collapses Big Circus Tent

FRANKFORT, Germany, July 14 (AP) — Two thousand spectators watching a circus that features a wild animal act were trapped tonight when a strong gust of wind collapsed the huge show tent.

Frankfurt police said 50 persons were injured, 20 seriously. The officers said none of the animals escaped.

The tent's main poles snapped and the huge canvas cover settled on the startled spectators at the height of a wind and rain storm just 20 minutes before the wild animal act.

Stevenson Distressed By U. S. Prestige Loss

BONN, Germany, July 14 (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson, commenting today on the activities of Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis), said he is distressed by the "loss of American prestige and respect abroad."

Newsmen asked the 1952 U. S. Democratic candidate for president, now on a world tour, to comment on McCarthy's recent activities and their effect on foreign opinion and U. S. morale. Stevenson replied:

"I have been distressed by what I observed in the 4½ months of my travels in the loss of American prestige and respect abroad as a result of activities there. I will have more to say about this when I return to the United States."

Hotel Clerk Given Three Years For Theft

BALTIMORE, July 14 (AP) — A 49-year-old hotel clerk was sentenced today to three years for embezzling $2,100 which he used mostly to pay for treatment of alcoholism for his wife and himself.

The sentence was received by Robert Lassiter who disappeared May 14 from a hotel with $1,701 in cash and $400 in traveler's checks.

He was found in a hospital in Atlanta, Ga., with only $32 left. The hospital said he had spent nearly $1,000 there for treatments for himself and wife.

Robert Louis Stevenson died in the South Pacific and was buried in the Samoan islands.

Argentine Quints Now 10 Years Old

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, July 14 (AP)—The Diligenti quintuplets, who had their last birthday party when they were eight, will be 10 years old tomorrow. Like last year, no celebration is planned for the two sons and three daughters of Franco Diligenti, wealthy manufacturer.

Diligenti is trying to raise them as individuals rather than a group. The abandonment of birthday parties is a step in that process.

The quints, however, are reunited for the anniversary. They are on vacation at Mendoza with their parents and two older sisters after living separately since last year at the five English boarding schools in Buenos Aires.

Vice Presidency No Spare Tire Job To Richard Nixon

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP) — If Richard M. Nixon is right in the way he sizes up his work he has succeeded in something no one else has done in the history of the republic.

For Nixon says he has made a full time job of the vice presidency.

Under the Constitution, the V-P is left practically unemployed. His only chore is to preside over the Senate. From the start what should be the nation's No. 2 job often has been looked upon as something of a joke.

Nixon says he spends only 20 per cent of his time presiding over the Senate. The rest of the time, he says, is spent as a smoother-outer between President Eisenhower and Congress and the administration and various agencies.

"I'm far busier," Nixon said, "than when I served in the House and when I was a senator from California."

Oddly, the job was low rated even before it definitely was established.

Ben Franklin suggested the vice president be called "His Superfluous Excellency."

George Mason, who helped draft the Constitution and later tried to defeat it, had as one of his objections: "Hence also springs the unnecessary officer, the vice president, who for want of other employment is made president of the Senate."

The first vice president, John Adams, seems to have summed up the view of most of those who later held the job when he called it "the most insignificant office that ever invention of man contrived."

National Monument To Carver Dedicated

DIAMOND, Mo., July 14 (AP)—Dedication of a national monument to George Washington Carver, Negro scientist, was described today by Interior Secretary McKay as a demonstration that there "must be no second-class citizens in this nation."

The country's first such tribute to a Negro, McKay said, "should be a striking object lesson to those at home and abroad who in their reckless desire to destroy liberty, preach racial hatred and encourage discrimination."

McKay spoke on a platform only a few yards from the site of the log cabin where the noted agricultural scientist was born in slavery during the War Between the States.

Your Newspaper-Genuine Miracle

BY BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, July 14 (INS)—Came face to face with a genuine miracle today. Opened the door of my house and there at my feet lay an object which, when unfolded, brought the whole world before my eyes. It was a world of war and peace, high resolve and despair, love and hate, tears and laughter—and it was all there before me.

This miraculous object was easy to lift. Its leaves were easy to turn. Yet once it had been a massive part of a tree in Canada or Sweden, a tree that had needed years to grow. The tree was felled at the proper moment, stripped of its bark by intricate devices, pulled through forests, transported down rivers, fed into the maw of a mill, mixed with strange chemicals and metamorphosed into paper.

There were words on these folded sheets of paper I found at my door. And pictures to explain the words. Here, to make these words and pictures visible and enduring, a substance named ink had been introduced—a substance made of a varnish prepared from linseed oil, rosin and soap, to which the proper pigment had been added and the lot ground to a great fineness in a levigating mill.

The infinite tragedy of war in Korea came to me, snug in my home, through the intercession of a reporter who had studied and worked for years to obtain his job, and who drank in his impression only by living with the muddied warriors and sharing their terror and bravery.

His story had been shouted into a crackling field phone, or tapped out in a battered press hostel, moved to a seething place named Pusan or a broken one named Seoul, flung across the Sea of Japan by the confounding miracle of radio, revised in Tokyo, then hurled on.

In San Francisco it had been further polished and placed on a "printer," and fed electronically to hundreds of outlets at 60 words a minute. Then it had been taken off the machine, edited, interpreted in headlines that contained the exact number of letters and spaces, reduced to metal, pressed against a yielding pulpy sheet named a matrix, which in turn gave birth to its image in metal, attached to a printing press that cost a million dollars, inked, and wedded to an endless sheet of surging paper.

It had been bound, transported in trucks, trains, planes, earmarked for me for a few pennies, and put at my door by a lad I've never seen.

The world unfolded. From Moscow there was word that deeply affected me, an intra-mob fight in the Kremlin — where previous machinations had brought to mankind an incomparable scourage, and had caused us of the free world to teeter on the brink of bankruptcy.

Puzzled by the significance of the strife, I turned to a story written by a man who had lived in Russia and who knew the purgers and the purged. And from there to stories of what the great ones had said of all this, in London, Paris, Washington, Ottawa, Mexico City, Melbourne, Manila, Rio de Janeiro, Johannesburg. . . .

But there was so much more. There was word of the progress of the latest political revolution ir our own country, of changes in the law of the land, the cost of continuing to be a citizen, the cost of a skyscraper and of a pat of butter.

Some of my future was being shaped in Washington and some of it in Panmunjom, and yet I knew it almost instantly—its scope and meaning—and, being a person who employs these representatives by my vote, I could begin to decide then and there whether to dismiss them or retain them in office.

There was news of the atom, our smallest weapon, and of the projected carrier, our largest. The miracle in my hand took me through the Brandenburg Gate in Berlin and showed me the wrath of risen slaves. It let me into the study of Marshal Tito. I was with Adlai Stevenson in Vienna and Dwight Eisenhower in drought-stricken Texas, and with Cambodian Premier Penn Nouth in Saigon. And Marilyn Monroe in Hollywood.

I left London with the queen of Tonga, was in the hospital with Senator Taft, and helped lasso a Hereford bull in the streets of Charlotte, N. C. I went to a stylish first night on Broadway, and to a couturier's opening in Paris. Mr. Truman told me why his side had lost last November. "People let demagoguery get the best of them," he snapped at me.

My ball club won, my comic hero was saved in the nick of time, my wife learned how to cook and make over the entire house, my two shares of stock would stand the impact of peace, my fear of polio dispelled by gamma globulin, my slice could be cured by a change of grip.

All through the miracle I held in my hand (and had come to accept as routine)—my newspaper.

Trouble For Ivan

Russian peasants and workers may be looking hopefully westward at the resistance offered to the Soviet rulers in Czechoslovakia, and, reportedly, in Poland, and at the concessions the workers have achieved by demonstrations in East Berlin, East Germany, and Hungary. Political unrest could be contagious. Peasants and workers in the USSR have rioted in the past, and even against the Bolshevik government.

The present causes of trouble in the satellite states seem primarily economic. The grievances of the Russian workers and peasants in 1920 and 1921 were economic, too. They resulted in Lenin's New Economic Policy (NEP), officially declared a "temporary retreat" from communism.

The economic policy pursued by the Bolshevik government after the October revolution in 1917, together with the effects of devastating civil war and the Allied blockade, brought the Russian economy to almost complete collapse by 1921. Industrial and agricultural production declined sharply. Food and fuel shortages, particularly in the cities, were aggravated by widespread disorganization of transportation.

Peasant uprisings were numerous in 1920. In February 1921 there were strikes in factories in Petrograd (now Leningrad). There was similar trouble in Moscow, and some of the army regiments showed sympathy for the workers. Then, in March 1921, came the revolt of the garrison at Kronstadt, "the bulwark of Bolshevism." This uprising had none of the aims of a counter-revolutionary movement, but it was put down only with difficulty and after much bloodshed, and it contributed to the general unrest.

Lenin immediately forced through his New Economic Policy. Grain seizures were abolished in favor of a limited grain tax. Freedom of trade within the country was partially restored. The following year (1922) a new land statute made possible the reconstruction of small farms and even permitted, under certain conditions, limited use of hired labor and leasing of lands.

Some small plants were returned to former owners. Licenses were granted allowing private persons to start new enterprises. Private commercial establishments were permitted in the cities.

The NEP lasted until Stalin's consolidation of political control in 1926. Even as late as 1928, when collectivization of agriculture under the first five year plan was begun, there were 24 million small private farms in the USSR.

Other uprisings of the Russian people had worked to their gain, temporarily. The uprisings of March 1917 overthrew the czardom and resulted in the "liberal" regime that the Communists supplanted seven months later. The uprisings and the general strike of 1905 had obtained for Russia a constitution, a parliament (duma) with real legislative power, extension of the franchise, some guarantee of civil liberties. But some of these gains the czar later wrote off.

The Polish revolution of 1863-64, which spread into Lithuania and White Russia, had influenced Alexander II, already disposed toward reform. The peasants gained a reform of the judiciary, some measure of self-government. But these gains, and others projected, were negated when Alexander fell victim to terrorists' bombs on March 13, 1881.

For Better Air Defense

While the nation drowses in midsummer heat, those responsible for its air defense are taking steps to plug some of the holes which now exist in the wide meshes of the air screen.

At Shannon Airport in Ireland, the main terminus for east-west transatlantic airline flights, U. S. Air Force officers have started instructing pilots of all west-bound planes in a new system of identification which may help relieve air defense commanders of a great deal of sentry duty.

All planes entering the United States in any one day are supposed to hold to a specific route and the pilot is given a secret password which will relieve him of investigation by American interceptor jets if he gets off course. The challenge can be made by radio and thus a great deal of wear and tear on interceptor planes and pilots alike is saved. Routes and code signals are changed daily.

The point is to reduce to a minimum the chance of a surprise violation of U. S. borders by enemy planes. The danger of such attacks and the nation's vulnerability to them, was stressed in the Kelly report which was handed to the President and the National Security Council last spring following an investigation of the country's air defense potential by a group of civilian scientists and industrialists.

The essence of those portions of the report which were made public was that the U. S. is woefully lacking in real air defense. The report recommended that the screen be strengthened and that existing measures be sharpened up. The new flight orders are apparently an attempt to follow through on these recommendations.

Perhaps coincidentally, the Air Force announced that after one year of operation the Ground Observer Corps, made up wholly of civilians, has now reached a complement of 302,000 persons who operate 10,000 lookout posts. While this organization is far short of the 500,000 persons and 15,000 posts considered the necessary minimum ,the Air Force says it is pleased with the progress made thus far. Efforts are now being made to expand the network in rural areas where interest has been lowest.

Absolute defense of such a vast area as the nation's perimeter is a mammoth undertaking involving men, money, machines and—above all—national awareness of the danger from without. It is evident that progress along the road to complete understanding and achievement has not been adequate.

He Did It Alone

Most persons, if they had to choose, would rather be the Englishman who sailed his 23-foot sloop singlehanded across the Atlantic than one of the Germans and Austrians who have just climbed Mount Nanga Parbat, the second highest peak ever conquered by human beings. Or, for that matter, than the Englishman and the Sherpa guide who accomplished the ascent of Mount Everest, world's highest mountain.

Only confirmed Alpinists will disagree, and they are in the minority. The master of that tiny sloop accomplished his remarkable voyage on his own resources, whereas the men who climbed Nanga Parbat were part of an elaborate expedition including no less than 500 porters.

This is not to belittle their achievement. Nanga Parbat is a killer. In the last 60 years it has claimed 29 lives of men who had the temerity to attempt its conquest. It took courage, endurance, skill, intelligence, tenacity to stand where no others had ever succeeded in standing.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

The Control Of Pernicious Anemia

Pernicious Anemia probably is of hereditary origin. Most victims come from northern climates, especially England, Iceland, Canada, and the Scandinavian countries. The typical sufferer from this disease is fair skinned, blue eyed, of stocky build, who tends to turn gray prematurely. This type of anemia is rare before the age of 40, and in one study covering more than 1,000 cases only four were younger than 20 years.

The condition seldom is recognized in its early stages unless a blood count is done in the course of a physical checkup. When questioned concerning the onset, the majority of afflicted persons are unable to pin down the appearance of symptoms to a definite date. They recall feeling weak and having difficulty completing tasks that previously were finished wtih ease. One woman recognized that something was amiss when she "lost her oomph"; a man who previously was active and energetic found he had to take several naps in the day and could hardly wait to get home to rest.

Now and then the inkling comes when someone comments on the pallor of the skin or the individual notices his paleness on looking in the mirror. As anemia progresses, numbness and tingling of the arms and legs will be noted, as well as increased fatigue. Nausea, lack of appetite, and soreness of the tongue develop. There is a relationship between soreness and the appearance of the tongue; this organ is beefy red and smooth when symptoms are pronounced but redness and smoothness decrease in the quiescent periods.

Involvement of the nervous system is a more serious manifestation. Initially there is loss of coordination along with weakness and unless pernicious anemia is treated, paralysis will ensue. This complication is the sole reason why treatment is so vital. Various products are available to improve the blood but unless they help the nervous system they are of no value in pernicious anemia. To date, liver and vitamin B12 are the only remedies fulfilling this requirement.

Prior to 1926 everyone with pernicious anemia died within one to three years after acquiring the disease. When the usefulness of liver became known, patients remained alive by eating enormous amounts of this food and many complained that the treatment was worse than the disease. Later, a refined liver extract was prepared for hypodermic injection and good health was possible without too much discomfort. More recently, vitamin B12 has become an important milestone in the history of the malady. Some sufferers do better with liver and others with B12; occasionally a combination is used. It must be reassuring to the victim to know that there are two effective preparations because this doubles the chance of controling the ailment.

The cause of pernicious anemia is thought to be lack of a key substance that normally is released by the liver. This substance encourages the red blood cells to mature and without it they develop poorly, if at all. The life of a red corpuscle is only 120 days and unless replacements occur at a constant rate, anemia results. The liver substance is formed originally in the stomach, partly from food (extrinsic factor) and partly from gastric juice (intrinsic factor). The pernicious anemia patient has no intrinsic factor. This essential substance recently was identified as B12. There is a good possibility that the majority of patients received sufficient vitamin B12 in their meals in the period that pernicious anemia developed but the defective gastric juice prevented absorption of the vitamin into the blood. Liver extract contains B12, which explains why liver injections were so helpful.

Democratic Senators Accuse White House Of Playing Politics With Surplus Food For Europe; Sen. Humphrey's Bill To Send Surplus Food Abroad Yanked

WASHINGTON—C. D. Jackson, Ike's dynamic psychological warfare adviser, deserves chief credit for pushing through the $15,000,000 food gift to East Germany which has put Moscow on the spot. Certain State Department officials also deserve credit.

But the peculiar thing is that for several weeks they couldn't get any action at the top. That was why the food offer was not made at the height of the East Berlin restlessness. Secretary of State Dulles, asked at a press conference over a week ago whether he had considered sending food to East Berliners, said no. He seemed puzzled at the question as if the idea had never crossed his mind though the food plan had been hammered in this column and others for three weeks.

However, Dulles promptly sent a cable to U. S. High Commissioner Conant in Germany asking what he thought of the idea and got back a favorable reply.

Meanwhile, in the White House, the food plan for East Germany had got sidetracked by two things: 1. An attempt to get a much wider authorization for the President to use surplus food in any area in any amount and at any time; and 2. A piece of political throat-cutting aimed at Senator Hubert Humphrey, Minnesota Democrat by the Republican rival Congressman Walter Judd also of Minnesota and an old friend of Ike's who plans to run against Humphrey next year.

This is what made Democratic senators sore, made them accuse the administration of playing politics with foreign policy.

As early as last January, Humphrey began proposing that U. S. farm surpluses be sent to have-not nations. On June 8, Senator Humphrey after securing White House approval introduced a bill to that end. Three weeks later the White House pulled the rug out from under Humphrey and withdrew its support. Then it submitted virtually the identical word-for-word bill as Humphrey's but under Republican sponsorship and with no limits on time or spending.

What happened was that when Congressman Judd heard that his Democratic rival might get credit for solving the farm-surplus problem, he phoned the White House in a lather and demanded that the Humphrey bill be stopped.

Knowland Says No

Irony is that the administration had actually helped Humphrey draft his bill. This was brought out behind closed doors of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee as it was about to approve the Humphrey amendment unanimously. Just before the vote, California's Senator Bill Knowland, acting majority leader, walked in. Senators exhibit the written transcript of proof of what happened.

"It seems to me, I having just come in and this perhaps being a desirable amendment," Knowland observed, "it seems to me that it is rather far-reaching . . . Before it actually goes into the bill, even on a tentative basis, I would like to have the judgment of the Treasury Department and the Commodity Credit Corporation and perhaps the Agriculture people on this, because this is of considerable importance, and I do not think we ought to act too hastily. This is the first time I have seen this particular language and I do not think we ought to put it into the bill until we have at least had a chance to study it a bit and have some testimony."

However, Tyler Wood, representing the Mutual Security Agency at the closed-door meeting, spoke up: "I believe, Senator Knowland, our people discussed this, when they were asked to draft it, quite fully with the Bureau of the Budegt, the Agriculture Department, I believe —and, I know—the State Department; and I believe the Treasury Department was also consulted. I could check that."

"I wish you would," suggested Knowland.

Wood then left the room to telephone the various agencies. He returned a few minutes later and announced: "Mr. Chairman, I find out that this language has been thoroughly checked and agreed by all the departments mentioned."

The Amazed Aiken

Despite this, the White House promised Judd to block the Humphrey amendment. So, when it came up for a Senate vote three weeks later, Agriculture Chairman George Aiken, Vermont Republican, made the amazing statement: "I have had (from the White House) this afternoon a communication to the effect that if the senator from Minnesota undertook to give any impression that they had not approved this amendment, that definitely is not so."

Aiken then offered an amendment in behalf of the White House. With two exceptions—no limitation on time or money—it was almost word-for-word what Humphrey had already introduced. Aiken couldn't believe it. The administration hadn't even gone to the trouble of changing Humphrey's wording.

When the Minnesota senator pointed this out, the amazed Aiken asked:

"Does the senator from Minnesota understand why he received a copy of the President's bill, which I introduced today, over three weeks before the White House cleared the bill and before it was sent to the senator from Vermont?"

"I never knew that I had a pipeline into the White House with such good connections," laughed Humphrey.

Afterward, when Aiken learned all the facts, he apologized.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Inside Russia

As word seeps through the iron curtain, the difference of view which is shaking the Soviet world is between Malenkov and Molotov. Beria is the first of the troika to go. Maybe he needs a fair trial, but he will not have that. Who will be next to go? Stalin played it that way after Lenin's death when he used Kamenev and Zinoviev against Trotzky while he sat back to await the destruction of all three.

The issues involved in the quarrel are not clear but whatever they are, they are pawns in the struggle for the first place in the succession to Stalin's power. It would appear that Molotov, having had experience in foreign relations, is moving toward the unification of Germany on a basis more satisfactory to the Western Powers. Malenkov's view seems to be that the Western Powers do not matter, but that the Communist parties must be preserved in all countries. If concessions are made to the Western Powers, which imperil the European Communist parties, the bulwarks of the defense of Soviet Russia will be imperilled.

The quarrel reminds me of that between Stalin and Trotzky over the question as to whether socialism can succeed in one country. This type of ideological warfare is a device to line up supporters behind the contenders. In the end, Stalin exiled Trotzky and ultimately had him murdered. Did that prove Stalin ideologically right? From a Marxist standpoint it did because Stalin survived. In a system in which those are fittest who survive, the test of correctness can only be survival.

Molotov is a heavy-minded, clerkish type of bureaucrat who has managed to survive all the inner quarrels in the Kremlin. He and Kaganovitch are the only old Bolsheviks who have outlived the purges. They not only continued to live but both have remained in high office. Molotov is one of the troika (trio) who succeeded Stalin; Kaganovitch is in the Presidium.

Compared to these two, such men as Malenkov and Beria are babies, both in years and experience. Yet, whereas Molotov has had long tenure, Malenkov and Beria were personally trained by Stalin, who was a man of singular political astuteness, whose rise to power was marked by few false steps. He could be subservient almost to fawning. He could withdraw from a situation so that others might think their day had come. He could kill with the swiftness of a panther.

Molotov was never more than a servant to Stalin, but Malenkov and Beria were Stalin's pupils. The difference will be clear to anyone who studies the art of revolution and empire-building.

My guess is that the next step for real trouble will not be in Germany but in Japan. Whoever is strongest in the Kremlin needs some kind of a success, something to prove that his judgment is correct, his initiative effective, and his maneuvers successful. Germany is a very complicated situation and difficult to work out because of French and American suspicions of British policy. The failure of the Bermuda conference must have been a great disappointment to the Kremlin.

Japan is another story. The Japanese are hungry for Asiatic trade. They want to trade with Manchuria and China. They want to do business in Harbin, Mukden, Dairen, Shanghai, Hankow, Tientsin, Canton. These places are all held by the Chinese Communists. They would also like to trade in Southeast Asia, from Hongkong to Colombo, but the British want that trade for themselves.

This issue is going to come to a head sooner than we like and again the United States will be in the middle between British policy and our support of some Asiatic country. The Eisenhower administration has never yet been able to meet such a situation head on. It seeks a "middle-of-the-road" answer, something that will please everybody and make a gay world. There are no such answers, with the result that all sides become violently angry at us. Then the Russians step in with some tricky solution like the Indian truce scheme for Korea.

All this is part of the inner fight in the Kremlin. Each side, the Malenkov side and the Molotov side, needs a big success to knock off the adversary. And there is some hope that the United States might make the false step that will provide the means to that success. So, they guess on, even as we do.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Timing is perhaps the most delicate factor in the putting on and taking off of taxes on business. It can make all the difference between survival or failure.

Hence the policy of Congress, in refusing to remove the excess-profits tax as of June 30 and extending it till December 30, can conceivably increase the number of business failures.

The pinch will come during 1954 when the tax collector requires all businesses to pay 45 per cent of their 1953 taxes by March 15 and 90 per cent by June 15, instead of through the customary quarterly payments spread throughout the year.

This speedup in tax collections arises under a law wholly separate from the excess-profits legislation, but it nevertheless becomes related to the problem of a tax take in the form of 1954 payments high- e. than anticipated on 1953 earnings.

Will Require Six Months

Many businesses had planned their 1953 operations on the basis of the existing law and the end of excess-profits taxes. They anticipated that these taxes would be applicable only to half of the calendar year 1953. This meant quite a savings to small business. Now the high excess-profits tax applies for the full year 1953.

If a loss year is in sight, it is possible under current laws, which have not been altered by the present Congress, to ask for an abatement of tax payments by a simple request that the payment be deferred until the following January, and then a refund can be obtained provided there was a profit the previous year equal to or larger than the loss in the current year.

If, for example, a taxpayer during the calendar year 1953 had paid only a fourth of his taxes on March 15, he could have asked for a deferment of the remaining three quarters when he discovered that his business was going to incur a loss for the whole calendar year 1953. After other quarterly payments, he could apply for a similar deferment for the rest.

But during the year 1954, the business man who by June 15 has paid 90 per cent of his taxes and learns on July 1 that he is going to have a loss year will be able to abate only the remaining 10 per cent of his taxes. If he is entitled by law to a refund and has been planning on use of that money for working capital when times get tough, he cannot actually get his money back until after January 1, 1955. Six months' wait can mean the collapse of a business. A Senate subcommittee has said: "The principal reason for small-business mortality is inadequate financing."

What Congress ought to do is to amend the existing catch-up law so that not only can taxes be abated during a year when the business goes into the red but a quick refund authorized currently for any taxes already paid during the year 1953 or 1954 and thereafter.

Already there are signs that business failures are increasing among small enterprises. The figures for June 1953 show an incerase in business failures over June 1952, and, as for the liabilities involved, these are higher for June 1953 than for any June since 1934.

According to a report just issued by the Senate Small Business Committee, the impact of taxation on the enterprises of the nation has been severe in recent years. The report of its subcommittee on taxes says:

Pose Serious Threat

"For all but the smallest corporations, the excess-profits tax represents the highest hurdle on the federal tax track. Imposing a rate of 30 per cent on top of the normal and surtax levies of 52 per cent on all earnings above $25,000, the excess-profits tax results in a total tax bite of 82 cents out of every dollar earned above an arbitrarily determined normal-earnings figure. Your committee regrets that the terms used in tax legislation are words which inevitably arouse strong emotional reactions. No one can defend excessive profits and during a period of war or emergency, a method of heavily penalizing all earnings above normal levels does not seem too harsh when wages and prices are also frozen. Any serious reflection on this subject, however, brings one to the conclusion that such high tax levels post a most serious threat to our economy and, if long endured, will spell the doom of the competitive nature of our productive system."

Thus the committee calls attention to a development little noticed by the general public but which probably has already resulted in some business failures — namely, the ending of price and wage controls before removing the high excess-profits taxes, thereby tending to narrow even further the profit margin for the coming calendar year, 1954. Also, with the cost of materials and labor higher than ever before, many small enterprises would have been benefitted immeasurably by being able to save some of the tax money they will be paying out in 1954 on the earnings of 1953. With refunded tax money unavailable promptly for working capital, inventories probably will be allowed to run down, thus adding to the severity of any business decline that is developing at the time.

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, July 14—(INS)—A child named Deborah said something recently that has proved to be a thought-provoking tonic without a quinine taste. It may have been the ultimate thing said about a cocktail party.

The institution of the cocktail party should, course, have been abandoned many years ago—on the evening when the first hostess served the first purple hors d'oeuvre and warm three-and-one martini. But it has hung on and spread malevolently through the world, attacking the healthy tissue of conversation, devouring good manners, warping normal appetites.

The cocktail party's sound has become universal. It has very little to do with any known language, this sound. It is just sound, sound made by words—to be sure—but words which lose their identity when melded with the other words that hammer one another into incoherency and often crack plaster.

The cocktail party has created a generation of non-listeners, most of whom inevitably become hosts or hostesses or both. The next time you go to a cocktail party that is in full swing, and are forced to meet the hostess, say to her, "Sorry I'm late. My entire family was just wiped out in the smallpox plague." Chances are that she'll smile toothily, look anxiously over your shoulder at some newer arrivals, and say to you, "Charmed . . . charmed."

Or say, as you shake her hand, "You'd scare a dog out of a boneyard, you ugly old bag," and you are almost bound to get the same warmly detached response from her.

I've been to cocktail parties in some fairly remote places like New Delhi, Chungking, the Crossroads Club on Bikini, Fairbanks, Syngman Rhee's, Berlin, Rome, Tokyo, BW18 (Greenland), Abadan, Kwajalein and Toots Shor's. The sound was absolutely identical. Probably has something to do with low ceilings and high blood pressures combined.

Anyway, we were having this here cocktail party for this here Ginny Ruark, who was leaving for Spain to live with a writer to whom she is related through marriage. And there we were at 7:30 of this here evening, standing shoulder to shoulder, front to front, back to back, talking without even semicolons, much less pauses.

The usual cloud of cigaret smoke hung overhead, too thick to penetrate by radar. Fortunately, few had brought their radars. The drinks came too fast for those who didn't want one and too slow for those who did. A neighbor walking past would not have been able to understand a single word that billowed out the transom, though all of the component parts of the roar started out in English, or a reasonable facsimile thereof.

A man from a news syndicate was telling a man from a New York paper what a synecure he had, working for only one paper, but the fellow from the paper was saying much the same thing, in reverse, and at precisely the same volume. Two saloon keepers were talking about saloons. Two actors were talking to each other about themselves. The two babes who showed up with the same "original" were talking about each other. One whole section of a room was busy exchanging pictures of children, saying "ahh . . . sweet," and forgetting the child's face immediately.

The host, one of nature's true-blue noblemen, was telling a 10,000 word anecdote to a deaf cellist, and at the same time showing the bartender the trophy he won as Mr. Rheingold, 1913, when this child Deborah—whom we mentioned at the start and promptly abandoned—stopped at his knee. She had been permitted to stay up late because she and all of us love Ginny Ruark.

Deborah made a motion and the host bent down to her. "Daddy," asked the puzzled little girl, "haven't we had this party before?"

Trouble For Ivan

Russian peasants and workers may be looking hopefully westward at the resistance offered to the Soviet rulers in Czechoslovakia, and, reportedly, in Poland, and at the concessions the workers have achieved by demonstrations in East Berlin, East Germany, and Hungary. Political unrest could be contagious. Peasants and workers in the USSR have rioted in the past, and even against the Bolshevik government.

The present causes of trouble in the satellite states seem primarily economic. The grievances of the Russian workers and peasants in 1920 and 1921 were economic, too. They resulted in Lenin's New Economic Policy (NEP), officially declared a "temporary retreat" from communism.

The economic policy pursued by the Bolshevik government after the October revolution in 1917, together with the effects of devastating civil war and the Allied blockade, brought the Russian economy to almost complete collapse by 1921. Industrial and agricultural production declined sharply. Food and fuel shortages, particularly in the cities, were aggravated by widespread disorganization of transportation.

Peasant uprisings were numerous in 1920. In February 1921 there were strikes in factories in Petrograd (now Leningrad). There was similar trouble in Moscow, and some of the army regiments showed sympathy for the workers. Then, in March 1921, came the revolt of the garrison at Kronstadt, "the bulwark of Bolshevism." This uprising had none of the aims of a counter-revolutionary movement, but it was put down only with difficulty and after much bloodshed, and it contributed to the general unrest.

Lenin immediately forced through his New Economic Policy. Grain seizures were abolished in favor of a limited grain tax. Freedom of trade within the country was partially restored. The following year (1922) a new land statute made possible the reconstruction of small farms and even permitted, under certain conditions, limited use of hired labor and leasing of lands.

Some small plants were returned to former owners. Licenses were granted allowing private persons to start new enterprises. Private commercial establishments were permitted in the cities.

The NEP lasted until Stalin's consolidation of political control in 1926. Even as late as 1928, when collectivization of agriculture under the first five year plan was begun, there were 24 million small private farms in the USSR.

Other uprisings of the Russian people had worked to their gain, temporarily. The uprisings of March 1917 overthrew the czardom and resulted in the "liberal" regime that the Communists supplanted seven months later. The uprisings and the general strike of 1905 had obtained for Russia a constitution, a parliament (duma) with real legislative power, extension of the franchise, some guarantee of civil liberties. But some of these gains the czar later wrote off.

The Polish revolution of 1863-64, which spread into Lithuania and White Russia, had influenced Alexander II, already disposed toward reform. The peasants gained a reform of the judiciary, some measure of self-government. But these gains, and others projected, were negated when Alexander fell victim to terrorists' bombs on March 13, 1881.

For Better Air Defense

While the nation drowses in midsummer heat, those responsible for its air defense are taking steps to plug some of the holes which now exist in the wide meshes of the air screen.

At Shannon Airport in Ireland, the main terminus for east-west transatlantic airline flights, U. S. Air Force officers have started instructing pilots of all west-bound planes in a new system of identification which may help relieve air defense commanders of a great deal of sentry duty.

All planes entering the United States in any one day are supposed to hold to a specific route and the pilot is given a secret password which will relieve him of investigation by American interceptor jets if he gets off course. The challenge can be made by radio and thus a great deal of wear and tear on interceptor planes and pilots alike is saved. Routes and code signals are changed daily.

The point is to reduce to a minimum the chance of a surprise violation of U. S. borders by enemy planes. The danger of such attacks and the nation's vulnerability to them, was stressed in the Kelly report which was handed to the President and the National Security Council last spring following an investigation of the country's air defense potential by a group of civilian scientists and industrialists.

The essence of those portions of the report which were made public was that the U. S. is woefully lacking in real air defense. The report recommended that the screen be strengthened and that existing measures be sharpened up. The new flight orders are apparently an attempt to follow through on these recommendations.

Perhaps coincidentally, the Air Force announced that after one year of operation the Ground Observer Corps, made up wholly of civilians, has now reached a complement of 302,000 persons who operate 10,000 lookout posts. While this organization is far short of the 500,000 persons and 15,000 posts considered the necessary minimum ,the Air Force says it is pleased with the progress made thus far. Efforts are now being made to expand the network in rural areas where interest has been lowest.

Absolute defense of such a vast area as the nation's perimeter is a mammoth undertaking involving men, money, machines and—above all—national awareness of the danger from without. It is evident that progress along the road to complete understanding and achievement has not been adequate.

He Did It Alone

Most persons, if they had to choose, would rather be the Englishman who sailed his 23-foot sloop single-handed across the Atlantic than one of the Germans and Austrians who have just climbed Mount Nanga Parbat, the second highest peak ever conquered by human beings. Or, for that matter, than the Englishman and the Sherpa guide who accomplished the ascent of Mount Everest, world's highest mountain.

Only confirmed Alpinists will disagree, and they are in the minority. The master of that tiny sloop accomplished his remarkable voyage on his own resources, whereas the men who climbed Nanga Parbat were part of an elaborate expedition including no less than 500 porters.

This is not to belittle their achievement. Nanga Parbat is a killer. In the last 60 years it has claimed 29 lives of men who had the temerity to attempt its conquest. It took courage, endurance, skill, intelligence, tenacity to stand where no others had ever succeeded in standing.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

The Control Of Pernicious Anemia

Pernicious Anemia probably is of hereditary origin. Most victims come from northern climates, especially England, Iceland, Canada, and the Scandinavian countries. The typical sufferer from this disease is fair skinned, blue eyed, of stocky build, who tends to turn gray prematurely. This type of anemia is rare before the age of 40, and in one study covering more than 1,000 cases only four were younger than 20 years.

The condition seldom is recognized in its early stages unless a blood count is done in the course of a physical checkup. When questioned concerning the onset, the majority of afflicted persons are unable to pin down the appearance of symptoms to a definite date. They recall feeling weak and having difficulty completing tasks that previously were finished wtih ease. One woman recognized that something was amiss when she "lost her oomph"; a man who previously was active and energetic found he had to take several naps in the day and could hardly wait to get home to rest.

Now and then the inkling comes when someone comments on the pallor of the skin or the individual notices his paleness on looking in the mirror. As anemia progresses, numbness and tingling of the arms and legs will be noted, as well as increased fatigue. Nausea, lack of appetite, and soreness of the tongue develop. There is a relationship between soreness and the appearance of the tongue; this organ is beefy red and smooth when symptoms are pronounced but redness and smoothness decrease in the quiescent periods.

Involvement of the nervous system is a more serious manifestation. Initially there is loss of coordination along with weakness and unless pernicious anemia is treated, paralysis will ensue. This complication is the sole reason why treatment is so vital. Various products are available to improve the blood but unless they help the nervous system they are of no value in pernicious anemia. To date, liver and vitamin B12 are the only remedies fulfilling this requirement.

Prior to 1926 everyone with pernicious anemia died within one to three years after acquiring the disease. When the usefulness of liver became known, patients remained alive by eating enormous amounts of this food and many complained that the treatment was worse than the disease. Later, a refined liver extract was prepared for hypodermic injection and good health was possible without too much discomfort. More recently, vitamin B12 has become an important milestone in the history of the malady. Some sufferers do better with liver and others with B12; occasionally a combination is used. It must be reassuring to the victim to know that there are two effective preparations because this doubles the chance of controling the ailment.

The cause of pernicious anemia is thought to be lack of a key substance that normally is released by the liver. This substance encourages the red blood cells to mature and without it they develop poorly, if at all. The life of a red corpuscle is only 120 days and unless replacements occur at a constant rate, anemia results. The liver substance is formed originally in the stomach, partly from food (extrinsic factor) and partly from gastric juice (intrinsic factor). The pernicious anemia patient has no intrinsic factor. This essential substance recently was identified as B12. There is a good possibility that the majority of patients received sufficient vitamin B12 in their meals in the period that pernicious anemia developed but the defective gastric juice prevented absorption of the vitamin into the blood. Liver extract contains B12, which explains why liver injections were so helpful.

Democratic Senators Accuse White House Of Playing Politics With Surplus Food For Europe; Sen. Humphrey's Bill To Send Surplus Food Abroad Yanked

WASHINGTON—C. D. Jackson, Ike's dynamic psychological warfare adviser, deserves chief credit for pushing through the $15,000,000 food gift to East Germany which has put Moscow on the spot. Certain State Department officials also deserve credit.

But the peculiar thing is that for several weeks they couldn't get any action at the top. That was why the food offer was not made at the height of the East Berlin restlessness. Secretary of State Dulles, asked at a press conference over a week ago whether he had considered sending food to East Berliners, said no. He seemed puzzled at the question as if the idea had never crossed his mind though the food plan had been hammered in this column and others for three weeks.

However, Dulles promptly sent a cable to U. S. High Commissioner Conant in Germany asking what he thought of the idea and got back a favorable reply.

Meanwhile, in the White House, the food plan for East Germany had got sidetracked by two things: 1. An attempt to get a much wider authorization for the President to use surplus food in any area in any amount and at any time; and 2. A piece of political throat-cutting aimed at Senator Hubert Humphrey, Minnesota Democrat by the Republican rival Congressman Walter Judd also of Minnesota and an old friend of Ike's who plans to run against Humphrey next year.

This is what made Democratic senators sore, made them accuse the administration of playing politics with foreign policy.

As early as last January, Humphrey began proposing that U. S. farm surpluses be sent to have-not nations. On June 8, Senator Humphrey after securing White House approval introduced a bill to that end. Three weeks later the White House pulled the rug out from under Humphrey and withdrew its support. Then it submitted virtually the identical word-for-word bill as Humphrey's but under Republican sponsorship and with no limits on time or spending.

What happened was that when Congressman Judd heard that his Democratic rival might get credit for solving the farm-surplus problem, he phoned the White House in a lather and demanded that the Humphrey bill be stopped.

Knowland Says No

Irony is that the administration had actually helped Humphrey draft his bill. This was brought out behind closed doors of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee as it was about to approve the Humphrey amendment unanimously. Just before the vote, California's Senator Bill Knowland, acting majority leader, walked in. Senators exhibit the written transcript of proof of what happened.

"It seems to me, I having just come in and this perhaps being a desirable amendment," Knowland observed, "it seems to me that it is rather far-reaching . . . Before it actually goes into the bill, even on a tentative basis, I would like to have the judgment of the Treasury Department and the Commodity Credit Corporation and perhaps the Agriculture people on this, because this is of considerable importance, and I do not think we ought to act too hastily. This is the first time I have seen this particular language and I do not think we ought to put it into the bill until we have at least had a chance to study it a bit and have some testimony."

However, Tyler Wood, representing the Mutual Security Agency at the closed-door meeting, spoke up: "I believe, Senator Knowland, our people discussed this, when they were asked to draft it, quite fully with the Bureau of the Budegt, the Agriculture Department, I believe —and, I know—the State Department; and I believe the Treasury Department was also consulted. I could check that."

"I wish you would," suggested Knowland.

Wood then left the room to telephone the various agencies. He returned a few minutes later and announced: "Mr. Chairman, I find out that this language has been thoroughly checked and agreed by all the departments mentioned."

The Amazed Aiken

Despite this, the White House promised Judd to block the Humphrey amendment. So, when it came up for a Senate vote three weeks later, Agriculture Chairman George Aiken, Vermont Republican, made the amazing statement: "I have had (from the White House) this afternoon a communication to the effect that if the senator from Minnesota undertook to give any impression that they had not approved this amendment, that definitely is not so."

Aiken then offered an amendment in behalf of the White House. With two exceptions—no limitation on time or money—it was almost word-for-word what Humphrey had already introduced. Aiken couldn't believe it. The administration hadn't even gone to the trouble of changing Humphrey's wording.

When the Minnesota senator pointed this out, the amazed Aiken asked:

"Does the senator from Minnesota understand why he received a copy of the President's bill, which I introduced today, over three weeks before the White House cleared the bill and before it was sent to the senator from Vermont?"

"I never knew that I had a pipeline into the White House with such good connections," laughed Humphrey.

Afterward, when Aiken learned all the facts, he apologized.

Inside Russia

As word seeps through the iron curtain, the difference of view which is shaking the Soviet world is between Malenkov and Molotov. Beria is the first of the troika to go. Maybe he needs a fair trial, but he will not have that. Who will be next to go? Stalin played it that way after Lenin's death when he used Kamenev and Zinoviev against Trotzky while he sat back to await the destruction of all three.

The issues involved in the quarrel are not clear but whatever they are, they are pawns in the struggle for the first place in the succession to Stalin's power. It would appear that Molotov, having had experience in foreign relations, is moving toward the unification of Germany on a basis more satisfactory to the Western Powers. Malenkov's view seems to be that the Western Powers do not matter, but that the Communist parties must be preserved in all countries. If concessions are made to the Western Powers, which imperil the European Communist parties, the bulwarks of the defense of Soviet Russia will be imperilled.

The quarrel reminds me of that between Stalin and Trotzky over the question as to whether socialism can succeed in one country. This type of ideological warfare is a device to line up supporters behind the contenders. In the end, Stalin exiled Trotzky and ultimately had him murdered. Did that prove Stalin ideologically right? From a Marxist standpoint it did because Stalin survived. In a system in which those are fittest who survive, the test of correctness can only be survival.

Molotov is a heavy-minded, clerkish type of bureaucrat who has managed to survive all the inner quarrels in the Kremlin. He and Kaganovitch are the only old Bolsheviks who have outlived the purges. They not only continued to live but both have remained in high office. Molotov is one of the troika (trio) who succeeded Stalin; Kaganovitch is in the Presidium.

Compared to these two, such men as Malenkov and Beria are babies, both in years and experience. Yet, whereas Molotov has had long tenure, Malenkov and Beria were personally trained by Stalin, who was a man of singular political astuteness, whose rise to power was marked by few false steps. He could be subservient almost to fawning. He could withdraw from a situation so that others might think their day had come. He could kill with the swiftness of a panther.

Molotov was never more than a servant to Stalin, but Malenkov and Beria were Stalin's pupils. The difference will be clear to anyone who studies the art of revolution and empire-building.

My guess is that the next step for real trouble will not be in Germany but in Japan. Whoever is strongest in the Kremlin needs some kind of a success, something to prove that his judgment is correct, his initiative effective, and his maneuvers successful. Germany is a very complicated situation and difficult to work out because of French and American suspicions of British policy. The failure of the Bermuda conference must have been a great disappointment to the Kremlin.

Japan is another story. The Japanese are hungry for Asiatic trade. They want to trade with Manchuria and China. They want to do business in Harbin, Mukden, Dairen, Shanghai, Hankow, Tientsin, Canton. These places are all held by the Chinese Communists. They would also like to trade in Southeast Asia, from Hongkong to Colombo, but the British want that trade for themselves.

This issue is going to come to a head sooner than we like and again the United States will be in the middle between British policy and our support of some Asiatic country. The Eisenhower administration has never yet been able to meet such a situation head on. It seeks a "middle-of-the-road" answer, something that will please everybody and make a gay world. There are no such answers, with the result that all sides become violently angry at us. Then the Russians step in with some tricky solution like the Indian truce scheme for Korea.

All this is part of the inner fight in the Kremlin. Each side, the Malenkov side and the Molotov side, needs a big success to knock off the adversary. And there is some hope that the United States might make the false step that will provide the means to that success. So, they guess on, even as we do.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Timing is perhaps the most delicate factor in the putting on and taking off of taxes on business. It can make all the difference between survival or failure.

Hence the policy of Congress, in refusing to remove the excess-profits tax as of June 30 and extending it till December 30, can conceivably increase the number of business failures.

The pinch will come during 1954 when the tax collector requires all businesses to pay 45 per cent of their 1953 taxes by March 15 and 90 per cent by June 15, instead of through the customary quarterly payments spread throughout the year.

This speedup in tax collections arises under a law wholly separate from the excess-profits legislation, but it nevertheless becomes related to the problem of a tax take in the form of 1954 payments high- e than anticipated on 1953 earnings.

Will Require Six Months

Many businesses had planned their 1953 operations on the basis of the existing law and the end of excess-profits taxes. They anticipated that these taxes would be applicable only to half of the calendar year 1953. This meant quite a savings to small business. Now the high excess-profits tax applies for the full year 1953.

If a loss year is in sight, it is possible under current laws, which have not been altered by the present Congress, to ask for an abatement of tax payments by a simple request that the payment be deferred until the following January, and then a refund can be obtained provided there was a profit the previous year equal to or larger than the loss in the current year.

If, for example, a taxpayer during the calendar year 1953 had paid only a fourth of his taxes on March 15, he could have asked for a deferment of the remaining three quarters when he discovered that his business was going to incur a loss for the whole calendar year 1953. After other quarterly payments, he could apply for a similar deferment for the rest.

But during the year 1954, the business man who by June 15 has paid 90 per cent of his taxes and learns on July 1 that he is going to have a loss year will be able to abate only the remaining 10 per cent of his taxes. If he is entitled by law to a refund and has been planning on use of that money for working capital when times get tough, he cannot actually get his money back until after January 1, 1955. Six months' wait can mean the collapse of a business. A Senate subcommittee has said: "The principal reason for small-business mortality is inadequate financing."

What Congress ought to do is to amend the existing catch-up law so that not only can taxes be abated during a year when the business goes into the red but a quick refund authorized currently for any taxes already paid during the year 1953 or 1954 and thereafter.

Already there are signs that business failures are increasing among small enterprises. The figures for June 1953 show an incerase in business failures over June 1952, and, as for the liabilities involved, these are higher for June 1953 than for any June since 1934.

According to a report just issued by the Senate Small Business Committee, the impact of taxation on the enterprises of the nation has been severe in recent years. The report of its subcommittee on taxes says:

Pose Serious Threat

"For all but the smallest corporations, the excess-profits tax represents the highest hurdle on the federal tax track. Imposing a rate of 30 per cent on top of the normal and surtax levies of 52 per cent on all earnings above $25,000, the excess-profits tax results in a total tax bite of 82 cents out of every dollar earned above an arbitrarily determined normal-earnings figure. Your committee regrets that the terms used in tax legislation are words which inevitably arouse strong emotional reactions. No one can defend excessive profits and during a period of war or emergency, a method of heavily penalizing all earnings above normal levels does not seem too harsh when wages and prices are also frozen. Any serious reflection on this subject, however, brings one to the conclusion that such high tax levels post a most serious threat to our economy and, if long endured, will spell the doom of the competitive nature of our productive system."

Thus the committee calls attention to a development little noticed by the general public but which probably has already resulted in some business failures — namely, the ending of price and wage controls before removing the high excess-profits taxes, thereby tending to narrow even further the profit margin for the coming calendar year, 1954. Also, with the cost of materials and labor higher than ever before, many small enterprises would have been benefitted immeasurably by being able to save some of the tax money they will be paying out in 1954 on the earnings of 1953. With refunded tax money unavailable promptly for working capital, inventories probably will be allowed to run down, thus adding to the severity of any business decline that is developing at the time.

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, July 14—(INS)—A child named Deborah said something recently that has proved to be a thought-provoking tonic without a quinine taste. It may have been the ultimate thing said about a cocktail party.

The institution of the cocktail party should, course, have been abandoned many years ago—on the evening when the first hostess served the first purple hors d'oeuvre and warm three-and-one martini. But it has hung on and spread malevolently through the world, attacking the healthy tissue of conversation, devouring good manners, warping normal appetites.

The cocktail party's sound has become universal. It has very little to do with any known language, this sound. It is just sound, sound made by words—to be sure—but words which lose their identity when melded with the other words that hammer one another into incoherency and often crack plaster.

The cocktail party has created a generation of non-listeners, most of whom inevitably become hosts or hostesses or both. The next time you go to a cocktail party that is in full swing, and are forced to meet the hostess, say to her, "Sorry I'm late. My entire family was just wiped out in the smallpox plague." Chances are that she'll smile toothily, look anxiously over your shoulder at some newer arrivals, and say to you, "Charmed . . . charmed."

Or say, as you shake her hand, "You'd scare a dog out of a boneyard, you ugly old bag," and you are almost bound to get the same warmly detached response from her.

I've been to cocktail parties in some fairly remote places like New Delhi, Chungking, the Crossroads Club on Bikini, Fairbanks, Syngman Rhee's, Berlin, Rome, Tokyo, BW18 (Greenland), Abadan, Kwajalein and Toots Shor's. The sound was absolutely identical. Probably has something to do with low ceilings and high blood pressures combined.

Anyway, we were having this here cocktail party for this here Ginny Ruark, who was leaving for Spain to live with a writer to whom she is related through marriage. And there we were at 7:30 of this here evening, standing shoulder to shoulder, front to front, back to back, talking without even semicolons, much less pauses.

The usual cloud of cigaret smoke hung overhead, too thick to penetrate by radar. Fortunately, few had brought their radars. The drinks came too fast for those who didn't want one and too slow for those who did. A neighbor walking past would not have been able to understand a single word that billowed out the transom, though all of the component parts of the roar started out in English, or a reasonable facsimile thereof.

A man from a news syndicate was telling a man from a New York paper what a synecure he had, working for only one paper, but the fellow from the paper was saying much the same thing, in reverse, and at precisely the same volume. Two saloon keepers were talking about saloons. Two actors were talking to each other about themselves. The two babes who showed up with the same "original" were talking about each other. One whole section of a room was busy exchanging pictures of children, saying "ahh . . . sweet," and forgetting the child's face immediately.

The host, one of nature's true-blue noblemen, was telling a 10,000 word anecdote to a deaf cellist, and at the same time showing the bartender the trophy he won as Mr. Rheingold, 1913, when this child Deborah—whom we mentioned at the start and promptly abandoned—stopped at his knee. She had been permitted to stay up late because she and all of us love Ginny Ruark.

Deborah made a motion and the host bent down to her. "Daddy," asked the puzzled little girl, "haven't we had this party before?"

We've Been Took

In 1945 the guy who's wearing out my skin said, "In the last war Germany got even by inflating currency. This time they will inflate diplomacy."

In the eight years evaporating between then and here the pendulum has squared the circle.

There's more politics in divided Germany than was ever packed in the amen corner. Trouble between Russia and America is down the Berlin alley like a frightened cat.

Naturally, the Germans are playing both ends against the middle like a man working on a buttered ear of bantam corn.

Like a boy fishing with a bent pin they have nothing to lose. Syngman Rhee manipulated the same caper in downtown Korea.

Syngman made us the present of a beautiful watch in two instalments. The first year we got the case. The second year he gave us the works.

Ignore "Bad" TV Programs, PTA Told

COLLEGE PARK, Md., July 14 (AP)—What to do about "those awful programs" on radio and television?

"Ignore them," says Mrs. Louise S. Walker.

Mrs. Walker, audio-visional education chairman of the Maryland and National Congresses of Parents and Teachers, told the Maryland congress today:

"The thing to do is ignore the bad programs. That way they die a natural death. If we continue to openly criticize the bad programs we are giving them valuable publicity and assure them long standing.

"The thing to do is praise only the good shows and ignore the bad ones."

Md. Tax Sleuths Raise $1,600,000

ANNAPOLIS, July 14 (AP)—Income tax investigators dragged more than $1,600,000 into the state treasury last year from persons who tried to skip payment or made mistakes in their returns.

Benjamin F. Marsh, chief of the Income Tax Division, reported some of the delinquencies dated back 12 years.

In the fiscal year that ended June 30 tax sleuths uncovered 26,496 cases of failing to file returns for income received between 1941 and 1951.

Their investigations raised $579,174, including almost $10,000 from delinquent withholding taxes for the last five years. Maryland employers may be required to deduct taxes from the pay of workers who live out of state.

Auditors detected errors in 33,553 returns for 1941 through 1952. They were worth $1,054,228. Marsh said some of the mistakes were fraudulent, but mostly poor calculation.

The total take of $1,633,402 was part of the $40,983,448 collected in income taxes during the fiscal year. It was the first time any single state tax had produced more than 40 millions. Of the net, $9,686,487 goes back to counties and municipalities.

Receipts from the income tax exceed any other source of revenue, although the sales tax provided more for the state treasury last year. None of the 2 per cent retail levy is redistributed.

Delinquent collections totaled more than twice the $727,000 budget of the entire Income Tax Division, Marsh noted.

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP) — President Eisenhower today signed legislation permitting wheat growers to plant 62 million acres next year and still get high price supports.

Washington Co. Firemen To Get Two-Way Radio

HAGERSTOWN, July 14 (AP)—Sixteen fire companies in Hagerstown and Washington County are going to get two-way radio communication.

The Board of County Commissioners approved today a contract for the purchase and installation of radio sets on one unit of each company. The total cost was $8,224, with the county paying one-fourth, the state one-fourth, and the federal government, through the Civil Defense organization, one-half.

Eastern Shore Judge Resigns

ANNAPOLIS, July 14 (AP) — The resignation of E. Dale Adkins Jr. of Salisbury as a judge of the First Circuit after little more than one year was announced today.

Gov. McKeldin accepted the resignation effective Aug. 1.

The governor appointed Adkins to the circuit bench for the Eastern Shore on June 30, 1952. Adkins gave up a seat in the State Senate to don the robe in place of the late Levin Claude Bailey.

In his letter of resignation, Adkins said in effect he did not choose to stand for election for a regular 15-year term next year.

"If I resign now, the people of this circuit can have the opportunity to observe and weigh any successor who might be chosen and thus be assured of the full choice which the constitution intends them to have," he wrote the governor.

The constitution provides for an election to fill a vacancy caused by death or resignation one year after it occurs.

Western Md. Crops Badly In Need Of Rain

COLLEGE PARK, Md., July 14 (AP)—Fanciers of those luscious Eastern Shore cantaloupes have a mouth-watering treat in store.

The latest report dealing with progress of Maryland crops says cantaloupes in the Salisbury area have started to mature and picking is imminent.

Southern, Central and Western Maryland are badly in need of rain, and a long dry spell has had its effect on corn, tobacco and fruit. Showers on the Eastern Shore have helped maintain fairly good growth and production there.

with this can here to help you,

why "launder" your dishes?

Packed in a can as it should be—with a dripless spout

Won't break like a bottle. Won't get soggy or take up room like a box. And the dripless spout keeps the liquid from dripping down the side of the can.

Nobody hangs dishes on a washline. But if you did, you'd see your week's dishes are a bigger job than your weekly laundry. A job this big deserves a special product designed for dishwashing—not a strong powder intended for getting dirt out of clothes. And your hands deserve it, too.

Washing powders are great for laundering dirty clothes but dishes aren't clothes. This new Lux Liquid Detergent is especially designed for dishwashing. One canful of this new Lux Liquid Detergent will wash more dishes than several boxes of the most popular laundry powder... And Lux Liquid Detergent is almost as mild as Lux Toilet Soap.

JUDGING from the way this new Lux Liquid Detergent is selling, an awful lot of women have stopped "laundering" their dishes with laundry powder.

Here's why: this can in your kitchen is the next best thing to a dishwashing machine.

Lux Liquid Detergent literally soaks dishes clean. Gets between the clinging grease and the dish. Dissolves the grease. For fast, efficient dishwashing—with or without wiping—no powder can touch it.

It's pre-dissolved. It smells wonderful. And it's almost as mild as Lux Toilet Soap.

Yet for what it does, Lux Liquid Detergent costs less than ANY leading soap or detergent.

Will you try it? There's a money-back Lever Brothers guarantee, of course. But we really believe you'll love it.

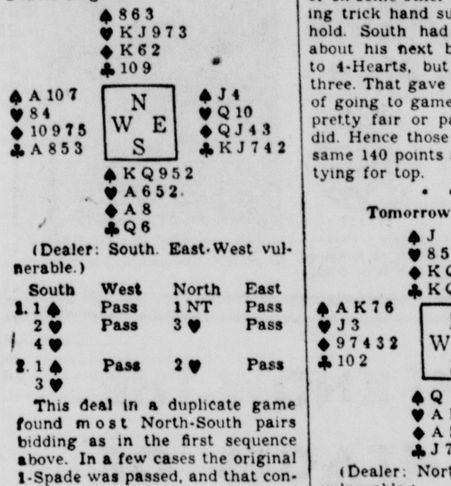
Daily Bridge Lesson

by Shepard Barclay

SAVES A GUESS LATER

MOST players require a hand pretty close to average in high-card strength to justify a bid of two in a suit over the partner's opening suit bid of one, such as 2-Hearts over 1-Spade. With a hand below their general requirements, but probably too strong for a pass, they bid 1-No Trump on the first turn. A few permit such a response of two in a suit if enough playing tricks are held, due to length of the suit, usually a minimum of close to four such tricks. Sometimes such a bid saves the pair a difficult guess at a later stage.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1. 1 ♠	Pass	1 NT	Pass
2 ♥	Pass	3 ♥	Pass
2. 1 ♠	Pass	2 ♥	Pass

This deal in a duplicate game found most North-South pairs bidding as in the first sequence above. In a few cases the original 1-Spade was passed, and that contract produced 90 points for tricks when three-odd were made, plus 50 bonus for making a part-score, which is allowed in all duplicate contests, or a total of 130.

Where North bid 1-No Trump on his first turn and South's rebid was 2-Hearts, in every case North felt constrained to show his splendid fit with a raise to 3-Hearts. That in every case was raised to 4-Hearts by South, who then was set a trick, as he had to lose two tricks in each black suit.

The pairs operating under the playing-trick principle for responses met no such disaster. When North answered 1-Spade with 2-Hearts, South knew that might be on a fair hand or on nothing except a six-card suit headed by the king or queen-jack, or on some other type of 3½ playing trick hand such as North did hold. South had to be gingerly about his next bid, not jumping to 4-Hearts, but raising to only three. That gave North the option of going to game if his hand was pretty fair or passing, which he did. Hence those pairs scored the same 140 points as the 1-Spaders, tying for top.

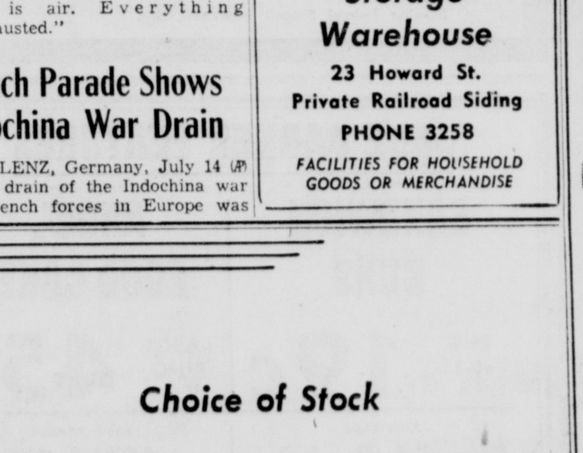
Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

Following natural bidding, West leads the spade K against South's 6-Hearts, which he himself had doubled. How should he then decide what to lead next?

Senate Cloakroom

by Sen. J. Glenn Beall

Disturbing reports that the building industry might be in serious trouble due to the tightening of the money market received prompt attention by Congress and legislation just passed may make it easier for individuals to purchase homes — the result being better housing for Americans and stimulation of the building industry.

The bill passed by Congress gives President Eisenhower special power to lower the down payment requirements and extend the payment period on low cost FHA insured private homes.

The Banking and Currency Committee, of which I am a member, carefully studied the bill and in our opinion it should give more people the opportunity to enjoy a good home of their own, and also help in maintaining a healthy and expanding economy by encouraging the building trades.

The President, under this bill, can direct the Federal Housing Administration to insure loans with down payments as low as five per cent on homes costing up to $12,000 and to extend the loan repayment period from 25 to 30 years.

The law now requires a 20 per cent down payment on a $12,000 home.

Other features of the bill are:

A boost by $1.5 billion in authorizing FHA mortgage insurance on new private homes.

A continuance for another year of federal aid for community services and facilities in critical defense areas.

An extension of the program for new government built defense housing, with a provision that such construction shall be of a temporary nature.

A provision for more attractive terms to encourage construction of more low rent and moderately priced rental housing with large units.

A provision to encourage the building industry, to provide more and better housing for minority groups.

Additional aid to maintain a normal mortgage market.

The Congress, in a separate bill, also extended the Veterans' Administration direct housing loan program for another year.

The building industry has a tremendous effect on the economy of the entire nation, and by making it easier for people to purchase homes we can avoid an industrial slump that might have an adverse effect on other businesses.

When an automobile traveling 60 miles an hour strikes a stationary object, the impact is the same as if the car had been driven off the top of a nine-story building.

De Gasperi To Form New Italian Cabinet

ROME, July 14 (AP)—Alcide de Gasperi, who wanted to sidestep the job, today officially accepted the task of forming a new pro-Western, middle-of-the-road Italian government.

Premier of seven previous governments, he consented in a 2½-hour meeting with President Luigi Einaudi to take the post again.

After the meeting, De Gasperi said he probably would have his new Cabinet ready to present to Einaudi tomorrow. His Ministers are expected to come exclusively from his own majority Christian Democrat party.

Effects Of Famines And Droughts Recorded Since Dawn Of History

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—Ever since man learned to write. He has recorded over and over again the horrible effects of droughts.

Throughout history, and up to this day in many parts of the world, the big question has been: how can I get enough to eat? And all too often, especially when the elements have refused to co-operate, the answer has been: you can't.

Today's drought in the southwestern part of the United States, terrible as it is, has at least one bright spot. Although the economic consequences will be fearful, probably no one will starve.

Nobody knows how many millions have starved because of droughts and similar disasters.

But at the request of Rep. Horan (R-Wash), Julius Allen of the Library of Congress has prepared a study of the great famines in history. Horan put the study in the Congressional Record.

As if the elements weren't enough, with droughts, floods, insect plagues and frosts, man has thought up a few disasters of his own making.

Allen said famines also have been the cause of wars, migrations, revolutions and communists, he said.

India and China, near starvation level even when things are at their best, seem to have been hardest hit by famines. The University of Nanking, for example, figures that China has had 1,829 famines in the past 2,000 years.

The Old Testament contains frequent references to famines, the most familiar being the account of the seven-year famine, in Genesis.

Famines have been no respector of geography. Some 650 famines have been recorded in Europe.

Sometimes things have been so bad that man has turned to cannibalism.

In 936, in Scotland, "people began to devour one another." During that same time the Irish sold their children for food.

There is this description of the Egyptian famine of 1064-1072:

"The wretched resorted to cannibalism, and organized bands kidnaped the unwary passenger in the desolate streets, principally by means of ropes furnished with hooks and let down from the latticed windows."

Even the mere statistics are awesome: five million dead in the India famine of 1876-78, 9½ million dead in North China in the same period, and 12 million dead of starvation during the Russian Revolution.

The first written account of a drought remains one of the best. Two thousand years before the time of Abraham a drought struck Egypt. The king, Tosorthrus, left his report on it, and any Texas or Oklahoma farmer will know how he felt.

"I am mourning on my high throne for the vast misfortune, because the Nile flood has not come for seven years. Light is the grain; there is lack of crops and of all kinds of food.

"Each man has become a thief to his neighbor. They desire to hasten and cannot walk. The child cries, and the youth creeps along, and the old man; their souls are bowed down . . . "

And Tosorthrus ends on a note of almost complete desperation:

"Torn open are the chests of provisions, but instead of contents, there is air. Everything is exhausted."

French Parade Shows Indochina War Drain

COBLENZ, Germany, July 14 (AP)—The drain of the Indochina war on French forces in Europe was shown by a Bastille Day parade here today.

The 10 battalions of infantrymen who marched past French High Commissioner Andre Francois-Poncet on this chief national holiday of France were mostly teen-aged conscripts led by officers who were either elderly and paunchy or extremely young.

The French obviously had not confined the parade to elite troops so this appeared to be a fair cross section of the five divisions they are committed to provide for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's defenses in Germany.

SAVES A GUESS LATER

MOST players require a hand pretty close to average in high-card strength to justify a bid of two in a suit over the partner's opening suit bid of one, such as 2-Hearts over 1-Spade. With a hand below their general requirements, but probably too strong for a pass, they bid 1-No Trump on the first turn. A few permit such a response of two in a suit if enough playing tricks are held, due to length of the suit, usually a minimum of close to four such tricks. Sometimes such a bid saves the pair a difficult guess at a later stage.

	♠ 8 6 3 ♥ K J 9 7 3 ♦ K 6 2 ♣ 10 9
♠ A 10 7 ♥ 8 4 ♦ 10 9 7 5 ♣ A 8 5 3	N W E S	♠ J 4 ♥ Q 10 ♦ Q J 4 3 ♣ K J 7 4 2
	♠ K Q 9 5 2 ♥ A 6 5 2 ♦ A 8 ♣ Q 6

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1. 1 ♠	Pass	1 NT	Pass
2. 1 ♠	Pass	2 ♥	Pass

This deal in a duplicate game found most North-South pairs bidding as in the first sequence above. In a few cases the original 1-Spade was passed, and that contract produced 90 points for tricks when three-odd were made, plus 50 bonus for making a part-score, which is allowed in all duplicate contests, or a total of 130.

Where North bid 1-No Trump on his first turn and South's rebid was 2-Hearts, in every case North felt constrained to show his splendid fit with a raise to 3-Hearts. That in every case was raised to 4-Hearts by South, who then was set a trick, as he had to lose two tricks in each black suit.

The pairs operating under the playing-trick principle for responses met no such disaster. When North answered 1-Spade with 2-Hearts, South knew that might be on a fair hand or on nothing except a six-card suit headed by the king or queen-jack, or on some other type of 3½ playing trick hand such as North did hold. South had to be gingerly about his next bid, not jumping to 4-Hearts, but raising to only three. That gave North the option of going to game if his hand was pretty fair or passing, which he did. Hence those pairs scored the same 140 points as the 1-Spaders, tying for top.

Senate Cloakroom

by Sen. J. Glenn Beall

Disturbing reports that the building industry might be in serious trouble due to the tightening of the money market received prompt attention by Congress and legislation just passed may make it easier for individuals to purchase homes — the result being better housing for Americans and stimulation of the building industry.

The bill passed by Congress gives President Eisenhower special power to lower the down payment requirements and extend the payment period on low cost FHA insured private homes.

The Banking and Currency Committee, of which I am a member, carefully studied the bill and in our opinion it should give more people the opportunity to enjoy a good home of their own, and also help in maintaining a healthy and expanding economy by encouraging the building trades.

The President, under this bill, can direct the Federal Housing Administration to insure loans with down payments as low as five per cent on homes costing up to $12,000 and to extend the loan repayment period from 25 to 30 years.

The law now requires a 20 per cent down payment on a $12,000 home.

Other features of the bill are:

A boost by $1.5 billion in authorizing FHA mortgage insurance on new private homes.

A continuance for another year of federal aid for community services and facilities in critical defense areas.

An extension of the program for new government built defense housing, with a provision that such construction shall be of a temporary nature.

A provision for more attractive terms to encourage construction of more low rent and moderately priced rental housing with large units.

A provision to encourage the building industry, to provide more and better housing for minority groups.

Additional aid to maintain a normal mortgage market.

The Congress, in a separate bill, also extended the Veterans' Administration direct housing loan program for another year.

The building industry has a tremendous effect on the economy of the entire nation, and by making it easier for people to purchase homes we can avoid an industrial slump that might have an adverse effect on other businesses.

When an automobile traveling 60 miles an hour strikes a stationary object, the impact is the same as if the car had been driven off the top of a nine-story building.

De Gasperi To Form New Italian Cabinet

ROME, July 14 (AP)—Alcide de Gasperi, who wanted to sidestep the job, today officially accepted the task of forming a new pro-Western, middle-of-the-road Italian government.

Premier of seven previous governments, he consented in a 2½-hour meeting with President Luigi Einaudi to take the post again.

After the meeting, De Gasperi said he probably would have his new Cabinet ready to present to Einaudi tomorrow. His Ministers are expected to come exclusively from his own majority Christian Democrat party.

Effects Of Famines And Droughts Recorded Since Dawn Of History

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—Ever since man learned to write. He has recorded over and over again the horrible effects of droughts.

Throughout history, and up to this day in many parts of the world, the big question has been: how can I get enough to eat? And all too often, especially when the elements have refused to co-operate, the answer has been: you can't.

Today's drought in the southwestern part of the United States, terrible as it is, has at least one bright spot. Although the economic consequences will be fearful, probably no one will starve.

Nobody knows how many millions have starved because of droughts and similar disasters.

But at the request of Rep. Horan (R-Wash), Julius Allen of the Library of Congress has prepared a study of the great famines in history. Horan put the study in the Congressional Record.

As if the elements weren't enough, with droughts, floods, insect plagues and frosts, man has thought up a few disasters of his own making.

Allen said famines also have been the cause of wars, migrations, revolutions and communists, he said.

India and China, near starvation level even when things are at their best, seem to have been hardest hit by famines. The University of Nanking, for example, figures that China has had 1,829 famines in the past 2,000 years.

The Old Testament contains frequent references to famines, the most familiar being the account of the seven-year famine, in Genesis.

Famines have been no respector of geography. Some 650 famines have been recorded in Europe.

Sometimes things have been so bad that man has turned to cannibalism.

In 936, in Scotland, "people began to devour one another." During that same time the Irish sold their children for food.

There is this description of the Egyptian famine of 1064-1072:

"The wretched resorted to cannibalism, and organized bands kidnaped the unwary passenger in the desolate streets, principally by means of ropes furnished with hooks and let down from the latticed windows."

Even the mere statistics are awesome: five million dead in the India famine of 1876-78, 9½ million dead in North China in the same period, and 12 million dead of starvation during the Russian Revolution.

The first written account of a drought remains one of the best. Two thousand years before the time of Abraham a drought struck Egypt. The king, Tosorthrus, left his report on it, and any Texas or Oklahoma farmer will know how he felt.

"I am mourning on my high throne for the vast misfortune, because the Nile flood has not come for seven years. Light is the grain; there is lack of crops and of all kinds of food.

"Each man has become a thief to his neighbor. They desire to hasten and cannot walk. The child cries, and the youth creeps along, and the old man; their souls are bowed down . . . "

And Tosorthrus ends on a note of almost complete desperation:

"Torn open are the chests of provisions, but instead of contents, there is air. Everything is exhausted."

Checker Champs Will Be Named

Checker and Chinese checker tournaments are being held on the city's 16 playgrounds early this week as champions are selected to compete for city championships.

Each playground will select six contestants in the intra-city tournament. Separate contests are held for boys and girls in the 9-12, 13-15 and 16 or over age groups, according to Robert E. Pence, city recreation director.

Divisional playoffs will be held Thursday. The Northern Division teams will play at Columbia Avenue Playground at 7 p. m. and the Southern Division at Penn Avenue Playground at 2 p. m.

The city champions will be select at the final tournament to be held Friday at 7 p. m. at Penn Avenue Playground.

Area Man Escapes Serious Injury When Tractor Upsets

A 40-year-old father of three children escaped with only minor injuries when a tractor overturned on him Monday night while working near his home on Brice Hollow Road.

The tractor, operated by Ralpn Hoover, was pulling a cutter up a steep grade when it turned turtle and tumbled backwards, pinning the driver underneath.

George Kriglein, 313 Dorn Avenue, and Peter Miller, a neighbor of Hoover, were standing nearby when the accident occurred. They managed to lift the front end of the 2,500-pound machine and Hoover crawled out.

The steering wheel of the tractor, which barely missed Hoover's chest, was twisted like a pretzel. Hoover suffered only brush burns of the arms, back and chest and after the accident operated another piece of farm equipment which was used to put the tractor back on its wheels.

The mishap was investigated by Trooper First Class William F. Baker of the State Police.

Police Boys Will Send 25 To Camp

Twenty-five boys will be selected to spend a week at camp at a meeting of the Police Boys Club today at 10 a. m. in Constitution Park.

Officer Harry A. Iser, recreation director of the club, said all boys interested in attending camp should attend tomorrow's meeting.

Prospective campers will be chosen on the basis of attendance at meetings, participation in club activities and general deportment.

The boys will leave Thursday morning for Camp Royal on Sideling Hill Mountain, which is operated by a minister. Iser will drive them to camp.

Officer Iser said the club wished to express its appreciation to those who contributed to the camp fund in a recent camapign. The camping program depends entirely on contributions, he said.

CD Fire Branch To Plan For State Alert

The Fire Branch of the county Civil Defense organization will meet Friday to make plans for participation in Operation Checkup, a statewide air raid alert to be held sometime in September.

The meeting is scheduled for 8 p. m. in City Hall Auditorium.

Assistant Fire Chief Alvey B. Poole asked that all members attend, since the surprise alert will require careful planning if the county is to prove itself ready for a sudden emergency.

Citizens Ask Oiling Of East End Areas

Seventy-six citizens who petitioned the Mayor and Council to have the Street Department scrape and oil Rizer Avenue and Reynolds Street extended were told Monday the work will be done if oil is left.

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, street commissioner, explained nobody lives on a section of the street and that residents have other means of access. She added, however, that the request will be granted if oil remains after the scheduled program is completed this week.

Eligible entries include stuffed animal toys and the like. Judges will be Miss Camille Cage and Miss Jane Ann Hausman.

The contest will be under direction of Jack Kelly, playground director, and Miss Betty Jane Clingerman, playleader.

The playground association's annual festival will be held Thursday night at the playground. The weekly movies will not be shown.

Resident Objects To Road Opening

The city will notify petitioners who asked that a passageway be opened between Fort and Pine Avenues that nothing can be done until an agreement is reached by residents of the area.

Opposition to the proposal was voiced on Monday by Blair Thompson, Pine Avenue, across whose property the passage runs. He said he spoke also for two other residents of the area.

DO YOU KNOW THE ADVANTAGES OF A NEW WILL?

A husband may be able, by making a new Will, to assure that his estate will provide more income for his widow than it would under his present Will. He may do this by qualifying part of his estate for the "marital deduction" now allowed by the Revenue Act, and exempting that part of his estate from federal estate tax at his death.

We will be glad to discuss with you the problems that your estate plan will involve, and explain the safeguards your estate will have if your Will names the Liberty Trust Company as Executor and Trustee.

Ask for our new booklet "Facts About Federal Estate And Gift Taxes" and talk over your estate plans now with one of our officers.

Twenty-five boys will be selected to spend a week at camp at a meeting of the Police Boys Club today at 10 a. m. in Constitution Park.

Officer Harry A. Iser, recreation director of the club, said all boys interested in attending camp should attend tomorrow's meeting.

Prospective campers will be chosen on the basis of attendance at meetings, participation in club activities and general deportment.

The boys will leave Thursday morning for Camp Royal on Sideling Hill Mountain, which is operated by a minister. Iser will drive them to camp.

Officer Iser said the club wished to express its appreciation to those who contributed to the camp fund in a recent camapign. The camping program depends entirely on contributions, he said.

CD Fire Branch To Plan For State Alert

The Fire Branch of the county Civil Defense organization will meet Friday to make plans for participation in Operation Checkup, a statewide air raid alert to be held sometime in September.

The meeting is scheduled for 8 p. m. in City Hall Auditorium.

Assistant Fire Chief Alvey B. Poole asked that all members attend, since the surprise alert will require careful planning if the county is to prove itself ready for a sudden emergency.

Citizens Ask Oiling Of East End Areas

Seventy-six citizens who petitioned the Mayor and Council to have the Street Department scrape and oil Rizer Avenue and Reynolds Street extended were told Monday the work will be done if oil is left.

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, street commissioner, explained nobody lives on a section of the street and that residents have other means of access. She added, however, that the request will be granted if oil remains after the scheduled program is completed this week.

Resident Objects To Road Opening

The city will notify petitioners who asked that a passageway be opened between Fort and Pine Avenues that nothing can be done until an agreement is reached by residents of the area.

Opposition to the proposal was voiced on Monday by Blair Thompson, Pine Avenue, across whose property the passage runs. He said he spoke also for two other residents of the area.

DO YOU KNOW THE ADVANTAGES OF A NEW WILL?

A husband may be able, by making a new Will, to assure that his estate will provide more income for his widow than it would under his present Will. He may do this by qualifying part of his estate for the "marital deduction" now allowed by the Revenue Act, and exempting that part of his estate from federal estate tax at his death.

We will be glad to discuss with you the problems that your estate plan will involve, and explain the safeguards your estate will have if your Will names the Liberty Trust Company as Executor and Trustee.

Ask for our new booklet "Facts About Federal Estate And Gift Taxes" and talk over your estate plans now with one of our officers.

Western Maryland Revenues In 1953 At All Time High

An all-time high in gross operating revenues and net income was set by the Western Maryland Railway during the first six months of this year.

Gross operating revenues for the six months were figured at $25,491,000, an increase of $1,481,000, or 6.17 per cent over the same period of last year.

Net income for the half year was tentatively put at $3,462,634, a gain of $1,415,000 over the net figure of $1,562,634 for the 1952 period.

In June the company bumped up against a comparative 1952 month when the steel industry was tied up by a strike. Consequently gross revenues of $4,384,000 scored an exceptionally wide gain of 63.52 per cent over the gross figure of $2,681,000 marked up last year.

Net income for June was estimated at approximately $790,000 as compared with $124,996 for 1952.

In the final week of June alone the company had an estimated gross of $1,527,000, up $629,000 over last year.

A heavy movement of grain and ore along with an exceptionally good volume of general business contributed to the good June showing, an official of the company stated.

In its estimate of gross revenues for the half year, the company noted that coal and coke freight accounted for $9,113,000 in the 1953 period against $8,864,000 in 1952. Other freight receipts came to $15,081,000 compared with $13,812,000 last year.

Local Cadet Tours Military Camps

West Point Cadet Joseph P. Franklin, son of Mrs. G. William Bibby, 11 Prospect Square, has arrived at Fort Bragg, N. C., for the last half of a two-month tour of military installations in southern and eastern states.

Cadet Franklin also will visit Fort Belvoir (Va.) Engineer School, the Army Chemical Center near Baltimore and the Fort Monmouth (N. J.) Signal Center before returning to the U. S. Military Academy July 29 in time to go on leave during August.

Appointed to the academy by Sen. J. Glenn Beall, Franklin was graduated from McDonogh High School in Baltimore in 1951. He formerly was employed by the Cumberland Contracting Company.

At the academy, he is a member of the golf, handball, pistol, Russian, sailing and ski clubs and the ring committee.

Scout Quarters Closed

Boy Scout headquarters in the Union Street County building will be closed until Monday due to vacations and summer activities.

Stadium Seats Will Be Replaced

The Allegany County Board of Education will seek bids for a new section of seats for Fort Hill Stadium until 2:30 p. m. Friday, July 24.

Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of schools, received permission from the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday to carry out a long-range program of seat replacement and additions on the side of the field with wooden stands.

Webster said the project will be financed from the Board of Education fund that comes from the percentage paid by each school for using the stadium.

This fund has accumulated to date to the extent that Webster feels a section of seats can be purchased. This money must also be used for stadium repairs and maintenance.

The board is advertising for a section such as the one constructed at Beall High School. Steel girder frame work is based in cement. The seats and treads will be of cypress wood.

The number of seats to be purchased will be determined by the cost per unit seat, Webster explained. It is hoped a 500-seat section will be possible, he added.

This will be the first step in a long range program to modernize the east side of the stadium.

The concrete stadium was built by WPA and county funds in 1936. Later "temporary" wooden stands were erected on the opposite side of the field.

The wooden stands are deteriorating, Webster noted, and will need replacement in the near future.

The school superintendent said the board plans to replace these stands section-by-section with steel bleachers.

The ones being advertised will be placed at one end of the wooden stands, he said. Eventually, through the use of this same percentage fund other sections will be purchased.

Hypostatical Union Will Be Discussed

The Laymen's Christian Fundamentalist Association will hold a seminar Thursday at 7:30 p. m., in the Malta Hall, 67 Prospect Square.

The subject will be "The Consequences of the Hypostatical Union and the Theanthropical Union."

W. Carl Richards, moderator, will preside and Dr. R. W. Trevaskis, Sr., secretary, will report on the seminar held in June.

Reports Wallet Theft

Howard Bowers, Baltimore Pike, notified police Monday night that his wallet containing about $16 was stolen in a Front Street tavern. No arrests have been made.

Emergency Fund May Aid Area Tots

Mrs. Elinor M. Westerfeld, director of the Allegany Welfare Board, yesterday expressed hope the local unit will benefit from a share of the emergency funds granted the State Welfare Department Monday.

Thomas J. S. Waxter, state welfare director, Monday in Baltimore talked the Board of Public Works out of an emergency appropriation of $88,016 for neglected and dependent children. It was his first official act since becoming director.

Waxter told the board the situation, caused by a cut in his department's budget by the Legislature, now represents "an emergency of the first order."

He argued that "A first responsibility of a civilized society is toward children otherwise helpless."

"Reducing funds for the foster care of helpless children was a shocking thing to do," he added.

Gov. McKeldin and the Board agreed with Waxter and authorized transfer of $88,016 from the emergency fund to the Department of Welfare budget to replace funds deleted by the 1953 General Assembly.

Mrs. Westerfeld explained the cut in the department's budget means that no new children may be added to the foster care rolls in Allegany County after July 1.

She said the list of those receiving state and county aid was reduced by three in June but that already the board has two new cases. Sixty-four are receiving aid.

The local director said the budget restrictions are so limited that at this time it is not even possible to add a child to replace one withdrawn.

She said she is considering a request to the Board of Allegany County Commissioners for additional funds so that new cases would be aided on a 100 per cent basis by the county, until the county and state have shared equally the cost.

Plans Progress For Firemen's Meet At Keyser

KEYSER—Officers of the Cumberland Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association laid plans for the annual convention to be held here August 20-22 at a meeting Sunday in Keyser.

The Cumberland Valley Association comprises volunteer fire companies from Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia.

Headed by Clyde Frankenberry, Martinsburg, president of the association, the following came from other points to join the local firemen and offered their assistance in planning the program.

L. R. Kramer, Harrisburg, Pa.; John Boyd, Winchester, Va.; Robert Jacobs, Waynesboro, Pa., and H. M. Layman, Winchester, all vice presidents; C. L. Jacobs, Winchester, secretary; George Ridgeley, Funkstown, Md., treasurer; Ralph Allsopp, Waynesboro, Pa., fire marshal; E. Wade Thomas, Keyser, assistant fire marshal, West Virginia.

The meeting was addressed by Rev. W. Cecil Shepherd, pastor of Grace Methodist Church, and E. L. Dayton, Potomac State College faculty, Keyser, on work of firemen everywhere.

Supper Postponed

KEYSER—The Semper Fidelis Sunday School Class of Calvary Evangelical United Brethren Church has announced that the covered dish supper originally scheduled for Thursday evening has been postponed to Tuesday, July 21. Mrs. Idella Krumpack, leader of the class, will be in charge.

Private Pilots Visit Keyser

KEYSER — The "Breakfast Flight," sponsored by the Keyser Flying Club on Sunday, brought 62 planes from various localities to the Keyser Airport. The planes came from points as far distant as Culpeper, Va., Chambersburg, Pa., Washington, and Ashtabula, Ohio.

Local port officials said that this year's breakfast was the most successful of any of the annual events in the history of the club. During the afternoon there were aero contests including spot bombing, ribbon cutting and others. Melvin Morton, Lonaconing, won the ribbon cutting contest and Lester Durst, Barton, was winner in the spot bombing test. Dick Hockman, Winchester, Va., made a parachute jump in the afternoon.

Supper Scheduled

PIEDMONT—A public spaghetti supper will be held at the Italian Hall, West Hampshire Street, Thursday from 5:30 to 7 p. m.

Services will be conducted tomorrow at 2 p. m. near Davis.

Hazelwood Bid Low For Road Project

The George F. Hazelwood Company was the low bidder on the project to resurface and relocate Winchester Road from National Highway at Six Mile House to McMullen Highway.

There were three bidders submitting offers to the State Roads Commission yesterday in Baltimore.

Bid 1 was for resurfacing and three-cable guard rails with steel posts; Hazelwood $787,388; Cumberland Contracting Company, $812,352, and S. T. Brotemarkle, $859,843.

Bids 2 and 3 were for resurfacing and steel beam guard fence and steel posts, and the same with wood posts. The bids are: Hazelwood, $792,104 each; Cumberland Contracting Company, $818,896, each, and Brotemarkle, $860,009 each.

Board Is Studying Equipment Bids

Bids on two pieces of equipment, a tractor and a dump truck, were taken under advisement yesterday by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

The commissioners opened bids on a light tractor, complete with cultivator, plow and harrow for use at the County Farm, and a three and one-half to four-ton dump truck for the County Roads Department.

Five firms submitting bids on the tractor were:

Light and Decker, this city, bid $1,780.38; C. C. Miller, Lonaconing, $1,800.89 for a tricycle type, and $1,657.26 for a standard model; A. M. Kight, Baltimore Pike, $2,286.56; Heiskell Motor Sales, Frostburg, $2,154.68, and Collins Motor Truck Company, this city, $2,089.

The truck bids were as follows: Collins, three types, $3,752.15, $4,698.97 and $4,780.22, and Light and Decker, $4,764.55.

Board Renews Pact

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners has renewed its annual contract with the Allegany County Welfare Board at a rate of $200 per month for the rental of the Cumberland Street School building.

Cadillac

It May Cost Less than the Car You Own!

Surprised by the statement above? Then listen, for a moment, to these amazing facts:

The beautiful motorcar pictured here is actually priced lower than twenty-two different models of other motorcars built and sold in America.

Its gasoline economy is so extraordinary that it will travel farther on a gallon of gasoline than many cars of far less stature and size.

Its dependability is so great that, over a normal span of ownership, it will probably cost as little to operate and maintain as any car you could buy. Records of certain fleet operators indicate this.

And authoritative records reveal that this Cadillac may be expected to return a greater percentage of its owner's investment, at the time of resale, than any other motorcar built in America.

Perhaps your surprise has changed to concern.

For if you happen to own one of the twenty-two cars priced higher than this magnificent Cadillac—or if you own one of the many, many other cars which are very close in price—then you've been needlessly depriving yourself of some of the greatest satisfactions in all the world of motordom.

You've been depriving yourself of Cadillac's brilliant performance . . . its superlative handling ease . . . its marvelous riding comfort . . . its great and inspiring beauty . . . and the deep and abiding pride which comes with ownership of so beloved and respected a possession.

You'll surely agree—that's a lot of things to miss . . . especially when it costs no more to have them in this wonderful, wonderful car!

If you think we might be talking about you—come in and see us. You've already waited too long!

Three officials of Local 26, United Rubber Workers Union (CIO), will attend union schools next week, according to William G. Rice, president.

A. E. Johnson, vice president, and George Simmons, Executive Board member, will attend a Rubber Workers Union school at Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio.

C. E. O'Baker, secretary, will represent the Kelly local at a CIO school to be held the week of July 19 in New Windsor.

The Local 26 Executive Board will meet Thursday at 7 p. m. at the union hall.

A membership meeting will be held Saturday at 7:30 p. m. at the union hall. The Wage Negotiating committee, which has scheduled a meeting Thursday morning, will present a report of the opening of negotiations for a general wage increase at Saturday's membership meeting.

Well To Be Dug Near Roads Garage

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday authorized J. Walker Chapman, county roads supervisor, to contact well diggers to obtain estimates on the cost of building a well at the County Roads Department garage on the Maniford Road near Oldtown.

A well is needed because the water supply there is inadequate, the commissioners were told.

Pet Show Set Today At East Side Ground

A Pet Show will be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock at East Side Playground. Children wishing to enter pets in the contest should register with play leaders.

The weekly motion picture will be shown tomorrow night, and at 7 p. m. Friday, interested persons will meet in the playground field house to discuss forming a twirling club.

Wheat Growers' Vote To Decide Crop Loan Rate

Wheat growers of Allegany County will help decide whether the Commodity Credit Corporation loan on the 1954 wheat crop will be 90 per cent or 50 per cent of parity.

This is one of the questions which will be answered in the coming wheat marketing quota referendum, according to George J. Martin, chairman of the Maryland Production and Marketing Administration State Committee.

As Martin explains, if two-thirds or more of the wheat growers voting in the referendum are in favor of it, the wheat marketing quota proclamation made July 1 by Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson will be in effect. The present 90 per cent of parity Commodity Credit Corporation wheat loan then will continue for the 1954 crop. If the vote is unfavorable, the loan will drop to 50 per cent of parity.

These support rates will be available, however, only to wheat growers who do not exceed their wheat acreage allotment, the chairman points out.

Lowe Released On Embezzling Charge

William H. Lowe, 148 North Mechanic Street, who was jailed here Sunday on a charge of embezzling $300 from Charles Town race track, was released yesterday.

State Police Cpl. C. A. Hehle of the Charles Town, W. Va., detachment, said Lowe was released yesterday after making restitution. Hehle said Prosecuting Attorney John Skinner dropped charges against Lowe after conferring with track officials.

Lowe had been returned from Cumberland to the West Virginia city Monday for trial.

Adult Swimming Class Opens Tonight

A new adult swimming class will get under way at the Constitution Park pool tonight at 7:30 o'clock, according to Robert E. Pence, city recreation director.

Nine adults have already enrolled for the class and at least 15 can be taken, Pence said. The course will be taught by James Hines.

The first adult swimming course was completed Monday night, when 18 of the 23 adults who enrolled graduated.

Pence said all of the 18 were successful in passing the deep water tests required for the completion of the course.

DAV Meets Thursday

Fort Washington Chapter No. 2, Disabled American Veterans, will meet Thursday at 7 p. m. at the chapter home, 113 South Centre Street. After a short meeting, members of the chapter will go to a local brewery for a feed.

Rainfall Below Normal For Past 6-Weeks Period

The Tri-State area has experienced one of the driest spells in several years during the past six weeks with only 2½ inches of rain since the first of June, Robert R. Golden, weather observer at Constitution Park, reports.

The first two weeks in July have been particularly dry with just a half inch of rainfall in the first 14 days of the month. The last rainfall was recorded on July 5 when 0.25 inches slightly dampened the area.

Normal rainfall for the month of July is 3.26 inches, Golden noted. For June the average supply of rain is 3.88 inches while 2.05 inches was recorded, a decrease of 1.83 inches below normal.

JC Directors Meet

The Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce board of directors will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the offices of Station WDYK.

Accident Victim Remains Critical

A 17-year-old boy remained in critical condition last night at Tucker County Hospital in Parsons, W. Va., as the result of an automobile accident Saturday night on West Virginia State Route 72.

The youth, James Auvil, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Auvil of near Parsons, was injured when a car driven by Dwain Poling, formerly of St. George, W. Va., missed a curve and overturned.

Poling was discharged from the hospital yesterday, and another passenger, Mrs. Cecelia Delaney, Parsons, was released Saturday night.

West Virginia State Police at Thomas investigated.

Slaughter And Reese Lead N.L. All-Stars To 5-1 Victory

Four Senior League Pitchers Hold Americans To Five Hits

Murry Dickson Nicked For Only Run In 9th; 30,846 At 20th Game

By JACK HAND

CINCINNATI, July 14 (AP) — Enos Slaughter and Pee Wee Reese, a pair of old hands at All-Star games, led the National League to its expected fourth straight over Casey Stengel's American Leaguers today, 5-1, as four pitchers teamed up for a five-hitter.

The muscular men of the National failed to batter down any fences, but they beat the American Leaguers to death with a steady patter of singles. Reese's double in the seventh was the only extra base hit of the game, watched by a capacity crowd of 30,846 at Crosley Field and millions more on television.

Avert Shutout In 9th

Shut out until the ninth when they got to Murry Dickson for one run on three hits, the Americans never were in the ball game after the fifth when a two-run burst broke open a scoreless tie.

Thus Stengel, all-winning manager of four straight American League pennants and four successive World Series, lost his fourth All-Star game in a row. While his hitters were falling weakly before the National pitchers, Stengel must have been strongly tempted to call on Capt. Ted Williams, the hero of so many All-Star games who was sitting on the bench as an honorary squad member, waiting to be detached from the Marines.

Slaughter, playing his 10th All-Star game at the age of 37, came through with the defensive play of the day, a diving catch on Pinch-hitter Harvey Kuenn of Detroit in the sixth. Earlier he had walked and scored the second National run in the fifth. The old country boy singled, stole second and came home with another run in the seventh and drove in another run with an eighth-inning single.

Reese Gets Two Hits

Reese, hitless in 13 at bats in eight previous All-Star games, broke his slump with a single and the double in the Nationls' 10-hit attack on four American League pitchers.

It was a scoreless battle for four innings until the Nationals climbed on New York's Allie Reynolds in the fifth. Ed Mathews of Milwaukee started it when he was hit on the foot by a pitched ball. This brought Stengel steaming from the dugout in protest but Umpire Bill McKinley's ruling stood.

With two gone, Reynolds walked Slaughter. Philadelphia's Richie Ashburn, batting for Milwaukee's Warren Spahn, bounced a pinch single into center, scoring Mathews with the first run.

Reese then reached out to punch an outside pitch into right field for a hit that brought Slaughter roaring around third to score.

Spahn Is Victor

That was more than enough to win, the way the National pitchers were going. Philadelphia's Robin Roberts, who started, worked three scoreless innings against Chicago's Billy Pierce, each allowing only one hit. Spahn, the eventual winner, didn't give up a hit in two innings.

Curt Simmons, second Philadelphia pitcher used by National Manager Chuck Dressen of Brooklyn, yielded only one hit in two innings. So it was a two-hitter going into the ninth when the Americans broke the shutout with three singles off Pittsburgh's Murry Dickson.

Despite the National's domination of this series since 1950, the American League still holds a 12-8 edge after 20 games. The last American victory was at Brooklyn in 1949.

Pierce Works Like Charm

Stengel's only lefthanded pitcher, Pierce, breezed past the Nationals like a charm. It was the righthanders who ran into trouble. Reynolds and St. Louis' old Satch Paige gave up two runs each and Cleveland's Mike Garcia was nicked for one.

Kluszewski came through with a single in the sixth, after Stan Musial rapped his second single of the game, but Mathews hit into a double play that got Garcia out of serious trouble.

In the seventh, Slaughter and Reese teamed up for a run. Slaughter singled and slid head first into second for a stolen base under Chico Carrasquel's attempted tag. Reese slammed the ball to left-center, beating Minnie Minoso's throw to second for a two-bagger.

Campy Gets First Hit

Paige, master of the hesitation pitch, gave up the last two runs in the eighth to the delight of the crowd. He threw up slow stuff, slower stuff and then almost bounced the ball to the plate. Roy Campanella, who knew Satch in the old Negro leagues, waited for his pitch and bounced a single past the box to center. It was Campy's first All-Star hit in 17 trips.

Old Satch fooled around with Pinch-hitter Snider of Brooklyn and finally lost him on a walk after he had retired two hitters. Slaughter followed Campanella's system of attack, timing his swing to a soft pitch to send a bounding single past the box into center, scoring Campanella. Dickson followed with another single that brought home Snider.

Dickson lost the chance for a National shutout victory in the ninth on Minoso's second single, with two out. Ferris Fain and Pinch-hitter Johnny Mize had opened the ninth with singles to stir hopes of a rally by the American. Larry Doby sent Snider to the base of the centerfield wall for his long fly and Rosen popped out before Minoso singled to center.

Bad Day For Yankees

It was a day of frustration for the world champion Yankees. Mickey Mantle, playing despite a pulled leg muscle, went hitless. So did Yogi Berra and Hank Bauer. Reynolds, second American League pitcher, was charged with the defeat, his first in All-Star play.

The crowd paid a gross of $155,654.00 or a net of $126,592.58, into the player pension fund. Another $110,000 went into the fund from the radio television rights.

Fort Cumberland Post's undefeated nine rolled to its seventh victory in the Mountain District American Legion Junior Baseball League yesterday when Harry Iser gained a 4-0 decision over Hugh Nolan of Farrady Post, Frostburg, at Fort Hill Field.

Iser and Nolan hooked up in a scoreless tie until the fourth inning when Bob Kirtley, first up, hit a home run. That tally proved sufficient to win the game but the locals added two runs in the fifth and a single tally in the sixth.

Walks to Lynn and Hoffman, Conroy's sacrifice and Dorcil Kline's timely double produced the two runs in the fifth. Breedlove's walk and Cecil's two base wallop netted the final tally in the sixth.

Beats Farrady 3rd Time

In posting his third straight win of the season, all at the expense of Frostburg, Iser gave up five hits, including triples by Walters and Blank, and struck out eight and walked eight. Iser had beaten Farrady in previous games by scores of 6-0 and 15-6.

Nolan held Cumberland to six hits, three for extra bases, fanned seven and issued six bases on balls.

Midland Gets 19 Hits

Midland Post scored 14 runs in the first two innings and walloped Garntsville Post by the score of 14-7 at the Midland Ball Park.

By winning Midland tied Farrady Post for second place, each team having won three games and lost four.

Ted Colaw, Grantsville starter, yielded 12 hits in 1⅓ innings and Sweitzer, his successor, gave up seven safeties in the remaining 4⅔ frames. Grantsville batted Winters out of the box in the first inning and Tod Cuthbertson, who replaced him, finished and got credit for the win.

Midland chalked up 19 hits and twelve of the blows were shared by Mundeno, Johnson, Yantz and Cuthbertson. Morgan and Cuthbertson pounded two doubles each for the victors. Fred Colaw accounted for two of Grantsville's eight hits. The boxes:

Mims Is Outstanding
Former Dux Star Dies
Local Golfers Fail
Morris Frock Is 15-0

By C. V. BURNS

VIC RICKER, Fort Cumberland Hotel tonsorial artist, promoted his last pro boxing show here April 25, 1949, and one of the stars of that fistic program is now rated No. 6 among the outstanding boxers in the middleweight division by the National Boxing Association.

He is Holly Mims, of Washington, D. C., who decisioned Marion Klingensmith, the "Fighting Cop" from Brownsville, Pa., in a six round match at the State Armory four years ago.

Randy Turpin and Bobo Olson are listed as logical contenders for the title while outstanding boxers in order are Paddy Young, Charles Humez, Joey Giambra, Joe Giardello, Ernie Durando and Mims.

THOMAS EARL HOBROCK, 55, of Holland Street, who died last week, was one of Cumberland's good bowlers almost a quarter of a century ago.

Familiarly known as "Plug," he was a member of several topnotch teams that represented the Liberty Alleys in South End.

He was a leading pin spiller in the days when such bowlers as Griffin "Mac" McGinn, Charley Hare, the Campbell brothers—"Mossie" and "Granny" — Tommy Stakem, "Derby" Stakem, Ben Trail, "Buck" Wishmyer, Clarence Brant, W. A. Coughenour and John Pettingall were grabbing the local spotlight.

In later years he bowled in the Church League and the Fraternal League.

Many persons pronounced his name as "Holbrook" but the correct spelling was Hobrock.

Final rites were held Monday with interment in Hillcrest Burial Park.

WILLIE HARTACK, the clever apprentice rider, who piloted 74 winners in the first 36 days at Waterford Park, W. Va., now ranks 4th nationally with 134 triumphant mounts.

Hartack is a native of Ebensburg, near Johnstown, Pa.

The only races that Willie had seen were in the news reels until introduced to Norman (Junie) Corbin at Charles Town, W. Va., in the spring of 1951. His first mount, believe it or not, was Hal's Play in a race at Charles Town, October 11, 1952. Several days later Hartack scored his first win aboard Nickleby, owned by Corbin.

Willie weighs only 107 pounds with his hat on.

HORSES owned by Allegany countians have done exceptionally well this season.

The latest winner was Route Four which copped the 7th at Charles Town Saturday and returned $9.40.

Route Four, owned by Mrs. M. F. Howell, of Cumberland, was ridden by Anthony Russo, Baltimore jockey.

CUMBERLAND'S entries in the Maryland State Junior Chamber of Commerce junior golf tournament at Bethesda on Monday failed to make the grade for the third straight year.

Pete Loda, Bethesda, was medalist with a one-over-par 73. Deane Beman, Bethesda, and Larry Burns, Baltimore, were one stroke back of Loda, and Jack Rites, Baltimore, was another stroke behind at 75.

The four qualified for the national tourney at Ann Harbor, Mich., next month.

JIMMY MCGUIRE, one-time Cumberland baseball leader, and one of the organizers of the Middle Atlantic Baseball League in 1925, is spending the summer in the Deep Creek Lake section of Garrett County.

McGuire played with and managed baseball teams in Allegany County from 1910 through 1929.

In recent years he has lived with his daughters in Washington, D. C.

FORT CUMBERLAND POST is now leading the Mountain District American Legion Junior Baseball League with a 7-0 record but Morris Frock Post, Hagerstown, always a leading contender for Western Maryland honors, boasts a 15-0 record to date.

The Hub City youngsters notched their 15th Saturday whipping Waverly Post of Baltimore, 11 to 6.

WE LIKE the yarn about the manager of a Long Branch (N. J.) theater who got an alarming call from one of his ushers. The usher gasped that he had just seen a man with a horse in tow, and that they were now occupying two seats in the loges. The manager rushed out of his swank office and found the man and the horse just as the usher described them.

"Sir," said the manager, "what is the idea of this?"

"Why not?" the man shrugged. "He enjoyed the book so much I thought he'd like the picture."

Outdoor Club Blanks Eagles

Jim Morrison Posts 9th Triumph, 4 To 0

Jim Morrison tossed his second straight two-hitter and notched his 9th win of the Rocking Chair Softball League season as the Outdoor Club beat the Fraternal Order of Eagles yesterday at Allegany Field by the score of 4-0.

Vern Penner's homer with a mate aboard in the first inning featured a three-run rally. Brady homered in the fourth stanza and also had a single to his credit.

"Butch" Johnson, Durbin, Cubbage and Hixenbaugh starred in the ODC outfield with several nice catches.

The Amvets defeated the Moose 5-3 with Gaffney gaining the nod over Jim Roby. The Elks won over the K. of C. but the score was not reported.

Today the Elks play the Moose at Stitcher Field at 6 p. m. Score of the ODC-Eagles game:

Hercules Powder Kegs extended their winning streak to ten games by defeating Stringtown in a 3-2 thriller, the Potomac Valley Cubs trimmed Central Lunch for the third straight time this season, 8-2, and Cunningham's Grocery took the Sports Shoppe into camp, 9-6, in County Softball League games played yesterday.

Successive doubles by Frank Urbas and Joe Wolfe in the fifth inning broke a 2-2 deadlock and gave Kenny Carter of Hercules the decision over Glen Kauffman in a pitching duel at Stringtown.

Hercules failed to get a hit in the first inning but manufactured five bases on balls into two runs.

Johnny Price of Stringtown led the hitters with a double and two singles while Lou Baker of Hercules and Len Emerick of Stringtown garnered two hits each.

The league's top pitchers hooked up in battle at Triple Lakes and for the third time Hayden Phillips of Potomac Valley was returned the winner over Claget McAlister of Central Lunch. The win was the 14th for Phillips against a single loss. McAlister has won 13 and lost three.

"Bee" Scarpelli homered and singled, Pete Cecil and Phillips rapped a double and single each and Donnie Lease garnered two singles for the Cubs. McAlister hit a four-bagger and Basilio got a double and single to pace the losers.

Potomac Valley and Central are now tied for the runner-up position one and a half games back of Hercules.

At Taylor Field, the Sports Shoppe outhit Cunningham's 13 to 8 but finished on the short end of the score.

Rolling Road Pro's 216 Gets Him $250

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP) — Charley Bassler, pro at the Rolling Road Club in Catonsville, Md., overcame a horrible eight on the fourth hole—where he hit two balls out of bounds—to win his third Maryland Open golf title today.

Bassler, in second place after yesterday's first 18 with a 68, had 74 for both rounds today for a 216 total, even par for 54 holes at Prince Georges Country Club.

Bassler received $250 and a silver plate for his third Maryland Open triumph. He also holds the Middle Atlantic PGA title.

Little Dan Herring of Petersburg, Va., playing a few minutes behind Bassler, took nine on the 485-yard hole where Bassler took eight, and Herring still finished second with 71-72-75 for 218. He received $200.

John O'Donnell, the Norfolk pro who hoped to add the Maryland title to his Virginia Open crown, slipped badly today after leading with 67 the first round and finished third with 67-75-77 for 219.

Slaughter And Reese Lead N.L. All-Stars To 5-1 Victory

Four Senior League Pitchers Hold Americans To Five Hits

By JACK HAND

CINCINNATI, July 14 (AP) — Enos Slaughter and Pee Wee Reese, a pair of old hands at All-Star games, led the National League to its expected fourth straight over Casey Stengel's American Leaguers today, 5-1, as four pitchers teamed up for a five-hitter.

The muscular men of the National failed to batter down any fences, but they beat the American Leaguers to death with a steady patter of singles. Reese's double in the seventh was the only extra base hit of the game, watched by a capacity crowd of 30,846 at Crosley Field and millions more on television.

Avert Shutout In 9th

Shut out until the ninth when they got to Murry Dickson for one run on three hits, the Americans never were in the ball game after the fifth when a two-run burst broke open a scoreless tie.

Thus Stengel, all-winning manager of four straight American League pennants and four successive World Series, lost his fourth All-Star game in a row. While his hitters were falling weakly before the National pitchers, Stengel must have been strongly tempted to call on Capt. Ted Williams, the hero of so many All-Star games who was sitting on the bench as an honorary squad member, waiting to be detached from the Marines.

Slaughter, playing his 10th All-Star-game at the age of 37, came through with the defensive play of the day, a diving catch on Pinch-hitter Harvey Kuenn of Detroit in the sixth. Earlier he had walked and scored the second National run in the fifth. The old country boy singled, stole second and came home with another run in the seventh and drove in another run with an eighth-inning single.

Reese Gets Two Hits

Reese, hitless in 13 at bats in eight previous All-Star games, broke his slump with a single and the double in the Nationls' 10-hit attack on four American League pitchers.

It was a scoreless battle for four innings until the Nationals climbed on New York's Allie Reynolds in the fifth. Ed Mathews of Milwaukee started it when he was hit on the foot by a pitched ball. This brought Stengel steaming from the dugout in protest but Umpire Bill McKinley's ruling stood.

With two gone, Reynolds walked Slaughter. Philadelphia's Richie Ashburn, batting for Milwaukee's Warren Spahn, bounced a pinch single into center, scoring Mathews with the first run.

Reese then reached out to punch an outside pitch into right field for a hit that brought Slaughter roaring around third to score.

Spahn Is Victor

That was more than enough to win, the way the National pitchers were going. Philadelphia's Robin Roberts, who started, worked three scoreless innings against Chicago's Billy Pierce, each allowing only one hit. Spahn, the eventual winner, didn't give up a hit in two innings.

Curt Simmons, second Philadelphia pitcher used by National Manager Chuck Dressen of Brooklyn, yielded only one hit in two innings. So it was a two-hitter going into the ninth when the Americans broke the shutout with three singles off Pittsburgh's Murry Dickson.

Despite the National's domination of this series since 1950, the American League still holds a 12-8 edge after 20 games. The last American victory was at Brooklyn in 1949.

Pierce Works Like Charm

Stengel's only lefthanded pitcher, Pierce, breezed past the Nationals like a charm. It was the righthanders who ran into trouble. Reynolds and St. Louis' old Satch Paige gave up two runs each and Cleveland's Mike Garcia was nicked for one.

Kluszewski came through with a single in the sixth, after Stan Musial rapped his second single of the game, but Mathews hit into a double play that got Garcia out of serious trouble.

In the seventh, Slaughter and Reese teamed up for a run. Slaughter singled and slid head first into second for a stolen base under Chico Carrasquel's attempted tag. Reese slammed the ball to left-center, beating Minnie Minoso's throw to second for a two-bagger.

Campy Gets First Hit

Paige, master of the hesitation pitch, gave up the last two runs in the eighth to the delight of the crowd. He threw up slow stuff, slower stuff and then almost bounced the ball to the plate. Roy Campanella, who knew Satch in the old Negro leagues, waited for his pitch and bounced a single past the box to center. It was Campy's first All-Star hit in 17 trips.

Old Satch fooled around with Pinch-hitter Snider of Brooklyn and finally lost him on a walk after he had retired two hitters. Slaughter followed Campanella's system of attack, timing his swing to a soft pitch to send a bounding single past the box into center, scoring Campanella. Dickson followed with another single that brought home Snider.

Dickson lost the chance for a National shutout victory in the ninth on Minoso's second single, with two out. Ferris Fain and Pinch-hitter Johnny Mize had opened the ninth with singles to stir hopes of a rally by the American. Larry Doby sent Snider to the base of the centerfield wall for his long fly and Rosen popped out before Minoso singled to center.

Bad Day For Yankees

It was a day of frustration for the world champion Yankees. Mickey Mantle, playing despite a pulled leg muscle, went hitless. So did Yogi Berra and Hank Bauer. Reynolds, second American League pitcher, was charged with the defeat, his first in All-Star play.

The crowd paid a gross of $155,654.00 or a net of $126,592.58, into the player pension fund. Another $110,000 went into the fund from the radio television rights.

In posting his third straight win of the season, all at the expense of Frostburg, Iser gave up five hits, including triples by Walters and Blank, and struck out eight and walked eight. Iser had beaten Farrady in previous games by scores of 6-0 and 15-6.

Nolan held Cumberland to six hits, three for extra bases, fanned seven and issued six bases on balls.

Midland Gets 19 Hits

Midland Post scored 14 runs in the first two innings and walloped Garntsville Post by the score of 14-7 at the Midland Ball Park.

By winning Midland tied Farrady Post for second place, each team having won three games and lost four.

Ted Colaw, Grantsville starter, yielded 12 hits in 1⅓ innings and Sweitzer, his successor, gave up seven safeties in the remaining 4⅔ frames. Grantsville batted Winters out of the box in the first inning and Tod Cuthbertson, who replaced him, finished and got credit for the win.

Midland chalked up 19 hits and twelve of the blows were shared by Mundeno, Johnson, Yantz and Cuthbertson. Morgan and Cuthertson pounded two doubles each for the victors. Fred Colaw accounted for two of Grantsville's eight hits. The boxes:

Mims Is Outstanding Former Dux Star Dies

Local Golfers Fail Morris Frock Is 15-0

By C. V. BURNS

VIC RICKER, Fort Cumberland Hotel tonsorial artist, promoted his last pro boxing show here April 25, 1949, and one of the stars of that fistic program is now rated No. 6 among the outstanding boxers in the middleweight division by the National Boxing Association.

He is Holly Mims, of Washington, D. C., who decisioned Marion Klingensmith, the "Fighting Cop" from Brownsville, Pa., in a six round match at the State Armory four years ago.

Randy Turpin and Bobo Olson are listed as logical contenders for the title while outstanding boxers in order are Paddy Young, Charles Humez, Joey Giambra, Joe Giardello, Ernie Durando and Mims.

THOMAS EARL HOBROCK, 55, of Holland Street, who died last week, was one of Cumberland's good bowlers almost a quarter of a century ago.

Familiarly known as "Plug," he was a member of several topnotch teams that represented the Liberty Alleys in South End.

He was a leading pin spiller in the days when such bowlers as Griffin "Mac" McGinn, Charley Hare, the Campbell brothers—"Mossie" and "Granny" — Tommy Stakem, "Derby" Stakem, Ben Trail, "Buck" Wishmyer, Clarence Brant, W. A. Coughenour and John Pettingall were grabbing the local spotlight.

In later years he bowled in the Church League and the Fraternal League.

Many persons pronounced his name as "Holbrook" but the correct spelling was Hobrock.

Final rites were held Monday with interment in Hillcrest Burial Park.

WILLIE HARTACK, the clever apprentice rider, who piloted 74 winners in the first 36 days at Waterford Park, W. Va., now ranks 4th nationally with 134 triumphant mounts.

Hartack is a native of Ebensburg, near Johnstown, Pa.

The only races that Willie had seen were in the news reels until introduced to Norman (Junie) Corbin at Charles Town, W. Va., in the spring of 1951. His first mount, believe it or not, was Hal's Play in a race at Charles Town, October 11, 1952. Several days later Hartack scored his first win aboard Nickleby, owned by Corbin.

Willie weighs only 107 pounds with his hat on.

HORSES owned by Allegany countians have done exceptionally well this season.

The latest winner was Route Four which copped the 7th at Charles Town Saturday and returned $9.40.

Route Four, owned by Mrs. M. F. Howell, of Cumberland, was ridden by Anthony Russo, Baltimore jockey.

CUMBERLAND'S entries in the Maryland State Junior Chamber of Commerce junior golf tournament at Bethesda on Monday failed to make the grade for the third straight year.

Pete Loda, Bethesda, was medalist with a one-over-par 73. Deane Beman, Bethesda, and Larry Burns, Baltimore, were one stroke back of Loda, and Jack Rites, Baltimore, was another stroke behind at 75.

The four qualified for the national tourney at Ann Harbor, Mich., next month.

JIMMY MCGUIRE, one-time Cumberland baseball leader, and one of the organizers of the Middle Atlantic Baseball League in 1925, is spending the summer in the Deep Creek Lake section of Garrett County.

McGuire played with and managed baseball teams in Allegany County from 1910 through 1929.

In recent years he has lived with his daughters in Washington, D. C.

FORT CUMBERLAND POST is now leading the Mountain District American Legion Junior Baseball League with a 7-0 record but Morris Frock Post, Hagerstown, always a leading contender for Western Maryland honors, boasts a 15-0 record to date.

The Hub City youngsters notched their 15th Saturday whipping Waverly Post of Baltimore, 11 to 6.

WE LIKE the yarn about the manager of a Long Branch (N. J.) theater who got an alarming call from one of his ushers. The usher gasped that he had just seen a man with a horse in tow, and that they were now occupying two seats in the loges. The manager rushed out of his swank office and found the man and the horse just as the usher described them.

"Sir," said the manager, "what is the idea of this?"

"Why not?" the man shrugged. "He enjoyed the book so much I thought he'd like the picture."

Outdoor Club Blanks Eagles

Jim Morrison Posts 9th Triumph, 4 To 0

Jim Morrison tossed his second straight two-hitter and notched his 9th win of the Rocking Chair Softball League season as the Outdoor Club beat the Fraternal Order of Eagles yesterday at Allegany Field by the score of 4-0.

Vern Penner's homer with a mate aboard in the first inning featured a three-run rally. Brady homered in the fourth stanza and also had a single to his credit.

"Butch" Johnson, Durbin, Cubbage and Hixenbaugh starred in the ODC outfield with several nice catches.

The Amvets defeated the Moose 5-3 with Gaffney gaining the nod over Jim Roby. The Elks won over the K. of C. but the score was not reported.

Today the Elks play the Moose at Stitcher Field at 6 p. m. Score of the ODC-Eagles game:

OUTDOOR	300 100 0—4	4	1
EAGLES	000 000 0—0	2	3

Morrison and Brady. Sheetz and Riebl. HR—Brady, Penner (Outdoor Club).

Hercules Powder Kegs extended their winning streak to ten games by defeating Stringtown in a 3-2 thriller, the Potomac Valley Cubs trimmed Central Lunch for the third straight time this season, 8-2, and Cunningham's Grocery took the Sports Shoppe into camp, 9-6, in County Softball League games played yesterday.

Successive doubles by Frank Urbas and Joe Wolfe in the fifth inning broke a 2-2 deadlock and gave Kenny Carter of Hercules the decision over Glen Kauffman in a pitching duel at Stringtown.

Hercules failed to get a hit in the first inning but manufactured five bases on balls into two runs.

Johnny Price of Stringtown led the hitters with a double and two singles while Lou Baker of Hercules and Len Emerick of Stringtown garnered two hits each.

The league's top pitchers hooked up in battle at Triple Lakes and for the third time Hayden Phillips of Potomac Valley was returned the winner over Claget McAlister of Central Lunch. The win was the 14th for Phillips against a single loss. McAlister has won 13 and lost three.

"Bee" Scarpelli homered and singled, Pete Cecil and Phillips rapped a double and single each and Donnie Lease garnered two singles for the Cubs. McAlister hit a four-bagger and Basilio got a double and single to pace the losers.

Potomac Valley and Central are now tied for the runner-up position one and a half games back of Hercules.

At Taylor Field, the Sports Shoppe outhit Cunningham's 13 to 8 but finished on the short end of the score.

Reuschel socked a home run for the Grocers and Don Decker collected three of the Sports Shoppe's safeties. Scores:

Rolling Road Pro's 216 Gets Him $250

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP) — Charley Bassler, pro at the Rolling Road Club in Catonsville, Md., overcame a horrible eight on the fourth hole—where he hit two balls out of bounds—to win his third Maryland Open golf title today.

Bassler, in second place after yesterday's first 18 with a 68, had 74 for both rounds today for a 216 total, even par for 54 holes at Prince Georges Country Club.

Bassler received $250 and a silver plate for his third Maryland Open triumph. He also holds the Middle Atlantic PGA title.

Little Dan Herring of Petersburg, Va., playing a few minutes behind Bassler, took nine on the 485-yard hole where Bassler took eight, and Herring still finished second with 71-72-75 for 218. He received $200.

John O'Donnell, the Norfolk pro who hoped to add the Maryland title to his Virginia Open crown, slipped badly today after leading with 67 the first round and finished third with 67-75-77 for 219.

Lions Defeat B'nai B'rith

The Lions Club eked out a 4-3 decision over B'nai B'rith in a Hot Stove Baseball League game last night at Penn Avenue Field.

Johnson singled home the winning run to climax a three-run rally in the sixth inning.

Valentine held B'nai B'rith to three hits and fired the third strike past eight batsmen.

Dick and Johnson shared four of the Lions' seven hits while Powell tripled and also turned in a nice running catch in right field for the losers. Score:

Parsons, Valley Head Lead Mountain State Baseball Loop Race

PARSONS, W. Va., July 14 — Valley Head and Parsons are now deadlocked for first place in the Mountain State Baseball League with 5-2 records.

Parsons was rained out over the weekend but Elkins Moose trimmed Belington Merchants, 4-2. Ten Mile defeated Diana, 7-3, and the Medium Security Prison team of Huttonsville took the measure of the Pickens Hilltoppers, 17-1.

The hitting star in the weekend contests was Johnson of M.S.P. who collected five safeties in six trips to the plate.

Games scheduled Sunday, July 19, are as follows:

Diana at Elkins, M.S.P. at Pickens, Parsons at Valley Head and Ten Mile at Belington.

The standings:

	W.	L.	Pct.

Central-East Side Clash In Crucial Queens Loop Game

Central Quick Lunch will attempt to capture the first half championship of the Queens Softball League when it does battle with the East Side Maids today at 5:25 p. m. at East Side Field.

A victory would bring Central first half honors but a defeat for the current leaders would tie up the race. Central's record is now 12-1 while East Side has 11 wins and two losses.

Central takes an eight-game winning streak into today's game and will rely on Rosalie Bowers to make it nine in a row. Miss Bowers holds 9-3 and 3-0 decisions over the Maids who copped the opening game of the series. Doris Adams is slated to pitch for East Side.

The Maids are the defending champions, having won both halves of the split season race in 1952.

Boshamer Quits Pimlico; Cohen Named President

BALTIMORE, July 14 (AP) — Another fast change in Maryland race track administration was made today with Cary Boshamer quitting as president of Pimlico.

He was succeeded by Herman Cohen to put Baltimoreans in all top positions. Cohen and his brother, Baltimore television owners, were among the biggest investors in a syndicate which bought Pimlico last November.

Boshamer was made president. He gave press of personal business as his reason for resigning. Boshamer lives in Gastonia, N. C., and has textile mills in Clover, S. C.

Cohen's brother, Ben, is secretary-treasurer of Pimlico. Another Baltimorean, Louis Pondfield, is vice president and executive director.

There had been reports in recent months that Boshamer and the Baltimoreans weren't seeing eye to eye over plans to modernize Pimlico. Today's announcement of the change in presidents emphasized there will be no change in the plans.

Marciano To Sign For LaStarza Bout

NEW YORK, July 14 (AP)—Heavyweight Champion Rocky Marciano will sign formally tomorrow to defend his crown against Roland LaStarza in New York in the fall. The International Boxing Club said the ceremonies would take place at the office of the State Athletic Commission.

No date has been announced but it's expected the 15-round title bout will take place Sept. 24 at Yankee Stadium. Rocky won a split decision from LaStarza in 1950 before Marciano became champion.

Parsons, Valley Head Lead Mountain State Baseball Loop Race

PARSONS, W. Va., July 14 — Valley Head and Parsons are now deadlocked for first place in the Mountain State Baseball League with 5-2 records.

Parsons was rained out over the weekend but Elkins Moose trimmed Belington Merchants, 4-2. Ten Mile defeated Diana, 7-3, and the Medium Security Prison team of Huttonsville took the measure of the Pickens Hilltoppers, 17-1.

The hitting star in the weekend contests was Johnson of M.S.P. who collected five safeties in six trips to the plate.

Games scheduled Sunday, July 19, are as follows:

Diana at Elkins, M.S.P. at Pickens, Parsons at Valley Head and Ten Mile at Belington.

The standings:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Parsons	5	2	.714
Valley Head	5	2	.714
Belington	6	3	.667
Ten Mile	6	3	.677
Elkins	4	3	.517

Central-East Side Clash In Crucial Queens Loop Game

Central Quick Lunch will attempt to capture the first half championship of the Queens Softball League when it does battle with the East Side Maids today at 5:25 p. m. at East Side Field.

A victory would bring Central first half honors but a defeat for the current leaders would tie up the race. Central's record is now 12-1 while East Side has 11 wins and two losses.

Central takes an eight-game winning streak into today's game and will rely on Rosalie Bowers to make it nine in a row. Miss Bowers holds 9-3 and 3-0 decisions over the Maids who copped the opening game of the series. Doris Adams is slated to pitch for East Side.

The Maids are the defending champions, having won both halves of the split season race in 1952.

Boshamer Quits Pimlico; Cohen Named President

BALTIMORE, July 14 (AP) — Another fast change in Maryland race track administration was made today with Cary Boshamer quitting as president of Pimlico.

He was succeeded by Herman Cohen to put Baltimoreans in all top positions. Cohen and his brother, Baltimore television owners, were among the biggest investors in a syndicate which bought Pimlico last November.

Boshamer was made president. He gave press of personal business as his reason for resigning. Boshamer lives in Gastonia, N. C., and has textile mills in Clover, S. C.

Cohen's brother, Ben, is secretary-treasurer of Pimlico. Another Baltimorean, Louis Pondfield, is vice president and executive director.

There had been reports in recent months that Boshamer and the Baltimoreans weren't seeing eye to eye over plans to modernize Pimlico. Today's announcement of the change in presidents emphasized there will be no change in the plans.

Marciano To Sign For LaStarza Bout

NEW YORK, July 14 (AP)—Heavyweight Champion Rocky Marciano will sign formally tomorrow to defend his crown against Roland LaStarza in New York in the fall. The International Boxing Club said the ceremonies would take place at the office of the State Athletic Commission.

No date has been announced but it's expected the 15-round title bout will take place Sept. 24 at Yankee Stadium. Rocky won a split decision from LaStarza in 1950 before Marciano became champion.

Stranahan To Wed

CHICAGO, July 14 (INS)—Frank Stranahan, wealthy amateur golfer from Toledo, O., and Ann Williams, 23-year-old Dallas, Tex., model, obtained a marriage license in Chicago today.

Stranahan gave his age as 30. He said they would be married at 5 p. m. Friday at the Fourth Presbyterian Church.

Ellerslie, Barrelville Score In Pen-Mar Loop

Ellerslie nosed out Hyndman by the score of 5-4 and Barrelville trounced the LaVale Maroons, 14-5, in Pen-Mar Little League games played yesterday at Hyndman and Barrelville.

Ellerslie took advantage of Hyndman errors to chase four runs over the platter to win the game in the final inning. K. Willison homered for Ellerslie in the 5th while Billy Feichtner and Geisler hit round-trippers for Hyndman, the latter's coming with a mate aboard. Geisler, Hyndman hurler, struck out eight.

Ronald Neubiser smashed a homer and triple and Eddie Trimble hit a four-bagger in Barrelville's triumph. The scores:

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, July 14 (INS)—The talk of the 20th Century-Fox lot is a newcomer named Jay Robinson. He's a very exciting actor and was brought here originally to play Caligula in "The Robe," and he also plays the same role in "The Gladiators."

Darryl Zanuck called Jay into the office today and told him that he would play Pharaoh in "The Egyptian," which is the only personally produced picture Darryl will make this coming year.

Robinson, who was with the Zanucks' young daughter, Susan, at a party the other evening, played his last stage engagement with Katharine Hepburn—and that isn't bad.

Once more I hear from New York that Joe Mankiewicz is again planning to forsake our town. He bowed out of his lucrative MGM contract after there was a difference over the treatment of the script based on the novel "Jefferson Selleck."

Now Joe has established offices in Rockefeller Center, where he is preparing the script of "The Barefoot Countess" which will be filmed independently in New York. James Mason, I hear tell, is being paged and is expected to put his name on the dotted line any day now.

There's a story of real sentiment behind Guy Cherney singing "My Mother's Eyes" when he opens next Friday at the Chez Paree in Chicago. (Guy, incidentally is San Francisco Attorney Jake Erlich's son-in-law).

Years ago when little Bobby Frank was slain by the ruthless Leopold and Loeb, Bobby's father died shortly afterward, leaving $100,000 to some boy's club to be selected by his widow.

Mrs. Frank visited a West Side youth organization where Guy, no bigger than a minute, sang "My Mother's Eyes" in a quavering childish voice. That decided Mrs. Frank; she donated the money to Guy's club.

Gene Tierney confided to one of her close friends that she will not make any more pictures, at least for the time being. She is much too busy with Prince Aly Khan.

There's no doubt that the charming prince wants to marry Gene, but Papa Aga Khan has put his foot down, saying one motion picture actress in the family was enough. The Aga was much upset over all the publicity that followed Aly's divorce from Rita Hayworth.

If Aly goes against Papa's wishes he stands to lose his leadership of the Moslems, to say nothing of his vast inheritance. Well, the Aga has always liked beautiful women, and there's nothing to prevent his changing his mind.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Here's some very special news about two very good friends of mine. In the early winter, Randolph Hearst, son of the late William Randolph Hearst, and his charming wife, Katherine, will welcome their third child. They already have two daughters.

The Jules Steins, who have been in Europe and New York for months, are at their Beverly Hills home. They return to Paris in September to put their daughter, Jean, in the Sorbonne.

Brad Dexter, who, rumor says, had a big misunderstanding with Peggy Lee, came in to see her at Ciro's closing night. All seems well at this writing.

Marilyn Cantor, Eddie's youngest, is preparing a night club act with a couple of male singers. She'll dance with them.

Julie Kline's friends are keeping her telephone busy getting the latest news of her condition. Last report, I'm happy to say, is that she's better.

At the Gourmet-Beverly, Bob Calhoun was whispering his usual line of patter in Elaine White's ear. She was once Clark Gable's big moment.

Betty Hutton sent to Kay Nelson for duplicates of three of her dresses Kay designed. Betty had practically worn them out in Las Vegas with the heat and the exertion she puts in her act.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

(Copyright, 1953, by INS)

In 1650, Indians snared rabbits and dug oysters on the beach of Coney Island, Brooklyn, which was a true island in those days. Silting of a creek turned it into a peninsula.

A well-chosen book can provide wonderful hours of companionship on any vacation.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Rating high on the list of charmers among my acquaintances is a woman who returns from her vacation each year radiant as a newly-crowned queen. She has a contagious zest for life that spreads to all who are so fortunate as to know her. It is a privilege to count her as a friend, and I am happy to tell you the secret of her vacation magic.

Wherever she goes, she enters into the local life with a wholeheartedness that enables her to get the most out of her travels. Impressing others is not her goal. She puts herself in a receptive state of mind so that she can store away memories and impressions of the new contacts that she makes. And in so doing, she impresses fellow-vacationists more than could be done in any other way.

Restful Restoration

Believing that racing around and expecting a show-per-minute on vacation leaves the vacationist merely worn out, this charmer schedules a rest period in each day. And while she rests, she delights her mind with books she takes with her. Her reading is as carefully planned as her traveling wardrobe.

I have noted that the most interesting people generally are those who take a book with them most of the time. Far from being "grinds," they are always discovering something new and fascinating about the world in which we live. They know people in a deeper sense and their impressions are never superficial. Odd moments in anyone's life can best be filled with a perusal of another's thoughtful ideas.

Choice Companionship

Choosing your authors with some awareness, books can provide you with most exciting and rewarding companionship. And, now and then, just by scanning the offerings on the tables of a book store, you will pick up a book that will become a lifelong treasure. Such finds are thrilling discoveries.

If you are out of the habit of reading, this is an excellent time of year to get reacquainted with the joys it provides. Anything that appeals to your particular appetite will prove of some value.

As for myself, I'm currently enjoying working through the "Maugham Reader." Somerset Maugham has long been one of my favorite authors and in re-reading this particular collection, I'm having what is to me a real treat.

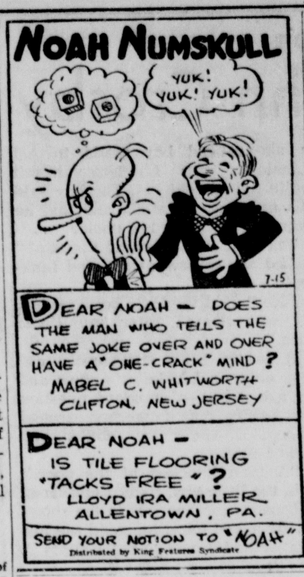
Youth Is Located

Earl R. Nixon, 15, of 1008 Glenwood Street, who disappeared Sunday evening, was located yesterday at the home of a cousin on Christie Road. Police had been asked to find the youth.



Will Is Filed

The will of Mrs. Charlotte Weigand, late of Lonaconing who died June 19, was admitted to probate yesterday in Allegany County Orphans Court.

A sister, Miss Edith Holder, of Lonaconing, was named administratrix with bond set at $4,000. Mrs. Weigand left her government bonds to Miss Holder.

Her furniture in Lonaconing, and property in LaVale, she bequeathed to Miss Holder and another sister, Mrs. Ella M. Braznell.

Upon their death Mrs. Weigand stipulated the estate shall go to her son, Harry H. Weigand, and daughter, Mrs. Nona Elizabeth Hodgson.

Jeanne Geniveve Garnerin of France made the first feminine solo balloon ascent in 1799.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, July 14 (INS)—The talk of the 20th Century-Fox lot is a newcomer named Jay Robinson. He's a very exciting actor and was brought here originally to play Caligula in "The Robe," and he also plays the same role in "The Gladiators."

Darryl Zanuck called Jay into the office today and told him that he would play Pharaoh in "The Egyptian," which is the only personally produced picture Darryl will make this coming year.

Robinson, who was with the Zanucks' young daughter, Susan, at a party the other evening, played his last stage engagement with Katharine Hepburn—and that isn't bad.

Once more I hear from New York that Joe Mankiewicz is again planning to foresake our town. He bowed out of his lucrative MGM contract after there was a difference over the treatment of the script based on the novel "Jefferson Selleck."

Now Joe has established offices in Rockefeller Center, where he is preparing the script of "The Barefoot Countess" which will be filmed independently in New York. James Mason, I hear tell, is being paged and is expected to put his name on the dotted line any day now.

There's a story of real sentiment behind Guy Cherney singing "My Mother's Eyes" when he opens next Friday at the Chez Paree in Chicago. (Guy, incidentally is San Francisco Attorney Jake Erlich's son-in-law).

Years ago when little Bobby Frank was slain by the ruthless Leopold and Loeb, Bobby's father died shortly afterward, leaving $100,000 to some boy's club to be selected by his widow.

Mrs. Frank visited a West Side youth organization where Guy, no bigger than a minute, sang "My Mother's Eyes" in a quavering childish voice. That decided Mrs. Frank; she donated the money to Guy's club.

Gene Tierney confided to one of her close friends that she will not make any more pictures, at least for the time being. She is much too busy with Prince Aly Khan.

There's no doubt that the charming prince wants to marry Gene, but Papa Aga Khan has put his foot down, saying one motion picture actress in the family was enough. The Aga was much upset over all the publicity that followed Aly's divorce from Rita Hayworth.

If Aly goes against Papa's wishes he stands to lose his leadership of the Moslems, to say nothing of his vast inheritance. Well, the Aga has always liked beautiful women, and there's nothing to prevent his changing his mind.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Here's some very special news about two very good friends of mine. In the early winter, Randolph Hearst, son of the late William Randolph Hearst, and his charming wife, Katherine, will welcome their third child. They already have two daughters.

The Jules Steins, who have been in Europe and New York for months, are at their Beverly Hills home. They return to Paris in September to put their daughter, Jean, in the Sorbonne.

Brad Dexter, who, rumor says, had a big misunderstanding with Peggy Lee, came in to see her at Ciro's closing night. All seems well at this writing.

Marilyn Cantor, Eddie's youngest, is preparing a night club act with a couple of male singers. She'll dance with them.

Julie Kline's friends are keeping her telephone busy getting the latest news of her condition. Last report, I'm happy to say, is that she's better.

At the Gourmet-Beverly, Bob Calhoun was whispering his usual line of patter in Elaine White's ear. She was once Clark Gable's big moment.

Betty Hutton sent to Kay Nelson for duplicates of three of her dresses Kay designed. Betty had practically worn them out in Las Vegas with the heat and the exertion she puts in her act.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

(Copyright, 1953, by INS)

In 1650, Indians snared rabbits and dug oysters on the beach of Coney Island, Brooklyn, which was a true island in those days. Silting of a creek turned it into a peninsula.

Radio And Television
by John Crosby

From The Lips Of Babes

I suppose the most famous story now doing the rounds about children's ad libs on the air was the one that took place on "Strike It Rich" a short while ago. I'm afraid it can't be scrubbed up for a family newspaper. This one has now been attributed to practically every show on the air with such frequency that all the other shows are now swearing that it never took place—at least on their show. If you haven't heard it, never mind. You'll survive.

The kids do come out with some lulus, though, a mixture of candor and confusion and simple direct honesty, that we corrupt adults can't approach. One of my all time favorites came from an eight-year-old boy on a CBS-TV show called "Give and Take." The emcee, John Reed King, asked him why he wasn't in school. "I couldn't go today," said the little boy. "I've got the measles."

Then there was the remark that a six-year-old boy made to Art Linkletter that Linkletter hasn't quite figured out yet. The boy said his name was Claudia and that he was named after his uncle.

"Is your uncle's name Claudia?" asked the somewhat startled Linkletter.

"No," said the little boy gravely, "I was named after my Uncle Gus."

A pretty little six-year-old girl was once on Linkletter's show and he asked her—a standard question for adults but dangerous around youngsters—how her mother and father met.

"A man knocked at the door," said the little girl, "and I answered it because mother was in the shower. He asked me if he could see my mother and I said 'Yes.' I guess it was love at first sight."

Children, in fact, have some very strange and candid impressions of their parents—sometimes because of a literal misunderstanding of what their elders say, sometimes because of rather too much understanding of what they say. One lad was asked by Linkletter—another standard question—what his father did for a living.

"He steals money," said the boy.

Linkletter had to get at the bottom of that one so he probed a little deeper. It seems the boy's father had a new job that was so easy, he reported to his wife that "it was like stealing the money."

Another youngster, much closer to the mark, was asked the same question and said candidly: "I don't know: It's something he does in the basement called poker."

The son of a movie producer was asked by Linkletter what his mother did:

"She used to be a movie star," said the boy.

"What does she do now?"

"Now she's just a woman," sighed the boy.

That's what I love about children—they can insult you with the most trusting straight-forward eyes. Al Capp, the perpetrator of "L'il Abner," was once approached by a little girl after a quiz show for his autograph.

"What do you want my autograph for?" said Capp. "I'm not Roy Rogers."

"We're from Cleveland," said the little girl sadly. "We'll take anything."

Now to progress to a slightly older age-group—the bobby-soxer. A group of bobbysoxers was being interviewed about their mania for Eddie Fisher. Their interviewer was a ripe 24 years old.

"Well, how would you say Eddie Fisher stacks up with Frank Sinatra?" asked the 24-year-old.

The bobbysoxers went totally blank. Finally, one of them said quietly: "We've never seen Frank Sinatra."

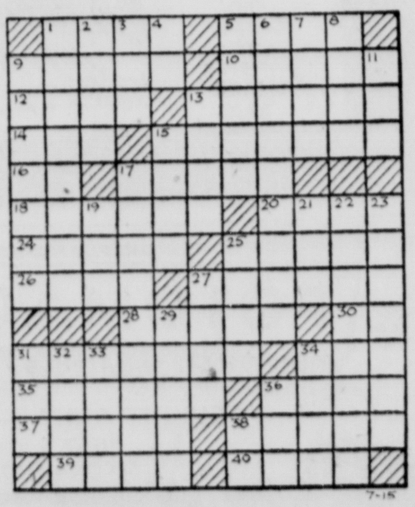
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

J Z P K P X M P A X F F P Q J Z P T B W S K N M X S Q K W N N M B P U Q K Z B T — N B P F Q B U D.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: THEY MUST OFTEN CHANGE, SAYS CONFUCIUS, WHO WOULD BE CONSTANT IN HAPPINESS OR WISDOM—GOLDSMITH.

Radio And Television

From The Lips Of Babes

I suppose the most famous story now doing the rounds about children's ad libs on the air was the one that took place on "Strike It Rich" a short while ago. I'm afraid it can't be scrubbed up for a family newspaper. This one has now been attributed to practically every show on the air with such frequency that all the other shows are now swearing that it never took place—at least on their show. If you haven't heard it, never mind. You'll survive.

John Crosby

The kids do come out with some lulus, though, a mixture of candor and confusion and simple direct honesty, that we corrupt adults can't approach. One of my all time favorites came from an eight-year-old boy on a CBS-TV show called "Give and Take." The emcee, John Reed King, asked him why he wasn't in school. "I couldn't go today," said the little boy. "I've got the measles."

Then there was the remark that a six-year-old boy made to Art Linkletter that Linkletter hasn't quite figured out yet. The boy said his name was Claudia and that he was named after his uncle.

"Is your uncle's name Claudia?" asked the somewhat startled Linkletter.

"No," said the little boy gravely, "I was named after my Uncle Gus."

A pretty little six-year-old girl was once on Linkletter's show and he asked her—a standard question for adults but dangerous around youngsters—how her mother and father met.

"A man knocked at the door," said the little girl, "and I answered it because mother was in the shower. He asked me if he could see my mother and I said 'Yes.' I guess it was love at first sight."

Children, in fact, have some very strange and candid impressions of their parents—sometimes because of a literal misunderstanding of what their elders say, sometimes because of rather too much understanding of what they say. One lad was asked by Linkletter—another standard question—what his father did for a living.

"He steals money," said the boy.

Linkletter had to get at the bottom of that one so he probed a little deeper. It seems the boy's father had a new job that was so easy, he reported to his wife that "it was like stealing the money."

Another youngster, much closer to the mark, was asked the same question and said candidly: "I don't know: It's something he does in the basement called poker."

The son of a movie producer was asked by Linkletter what his mother did:

"She used to be a movie star," said the boy.

"What does she do now?"

"Now she's just a woman," sighed the boy.

That's what I love about children—they can insult you with the most trusting straight-forward eyes. Al Capp, the perpetrator of "L'il Abner," was once approached by a little girl after a quiz show for his autograph.

"What do you want my autograph for?" said Capp. "I'm not Roy Rogers."

"We're from Cleveland," said the little girl sadly. "We'll take anything."

Now to progress to a slightly older age-group—the bobby-soxer. A group of bobbysoxers was being interviewed about their mania for Eddie Fisher. Their interviewer was a ripe 24 years old.

"Well, how would you say Eddie Fisher stacks up with Frank Sinatra?" asked the 24-year-old.

The bobbysoxers went totally blank. Finally, one of them said quietly: "We've never seen Frank Sinatra."

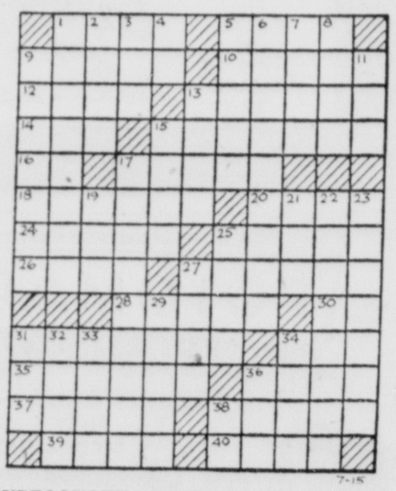
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

J Z P K P X M P A X F F P Q J Z P T B W S K N M X S Q K W N N M B P U Q K Z B T — N B P F Q B U D.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: THEY MUST OFTEN CHANGE, SAYS CONFUCIUS, WHO WOULD BE CONSTANT IN HAPPINESS OR WISDOM—GOLDSMITH.

That's What Writer Calls America's Overseas Libraries

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON—More than 35 million people in 67 countries continue to throng America's overseas libraries as Congress debates their value. Those who have seen them in operation say they provide America's best show-window to the world.

Senator Joseph McCarthy (R), Wisconsin, chairman of the Senate permanent investigating subcommittee, contends the libraries contain numerous books portraying the Soviet Union in a favorable light while criticizing the United States.

However, regardless of the merits of the controversy, one fact is undisputed and that is that the libraries have proven the most popular of all of America's free world propaganda efforts.

In some 200 cities throughout the world, men, women and children visit the libraries in ever-increasing numbers, to read the books and magazines, to attend lectures, and to view films. Many of the libraries send out bookmobiles which reach rural communities whose contact with the United States is otherwise small.

THE LIBRARIES, known officially as International Information Centers, are operated by the State department's International Information Administration. They are the product, however, of many different hands.

The first three were established in Montevideo, Uruguay; Mexico City, and Managua, Nicaragua, by the State department's now-defunct Division of Cultural Relations. They were supplied and administered by the American Library association.

With the outbreak of World War II, the Office of War Information established similar centers in Allied and neutral nations in an effort to present a true picture of the American war effort. The OWI centers were stocked originally by the American Library association and the Council of Learned Societies. Additional books and documents were added by the OWI.

STILL ADDITIONAL libraries were set up during and after the war by the Army in occupied areas. Their purpose was to re-educate the people in the ways of democracy. Another group of libraries, some 34 in all, is operated in Latin American countries on a co-operative basis.

Regardless of their origin, all have proven exceedingly popular abroad. When a budget cut forced the closing of a library in Hakodate, in northern Japan, 40,000 natives signed a petition requesting that it be kept open.

In Germany, when some of the libraries were closed for the same reason, American High Commissioner John J. McCloy was flooded with letters of protests. An aide said it was the greatest outpouring of letters from German residents that he could recall.

The American Information Centers have proven singularly more successful than those established by the Communists. A center which was opened in Cairo by Romania proved a flop, because the Communist satellite stocked it only with literature praising the Soviets.

INTERESTINGLY enough, one of the most sought after pieces of literature in the Soviet Union itself was, for many years, the magazine Amerika, printed and distributed by the United States in the Russian language. Congress finally cut off its funds on the ground its printing and distribution was too costly.

The libraries are only one part of America's ever-growing propaganda effort to line up other peoples on the side of the free world.

The International Broadcasting Service, popularly known as the Voice of America, is probably the best known in the United States. It broadcasts approximately 42 hours of programs daily, some of them overlapping. Its transmitters are situated in the United States and overseas, including some on ships at sea.

THE IMPS—International Motion Picture Service—another unit of the State department's International Information Administration, is also very popular abroad. It prepares for showing in some 86 countries news reels, feature films, documentary pictures, and cartoons. They are made up in 29 foreign languages.

The International Press Service distributes to foreign newspapers and magazines, through the information centers, news and pictures. This service is widely used overseas.

The International Education Exchange Service operates a student exchange program. In 1952, approximately 4,900 foreigners were brought to this country to study, while 1,550 Americans were educated abroad.

The United States also has several other agencies which engage in transmitting information about this country abroad. The Technical Co-operation Administration seeks to explain the purpose and achievements of the American Point Four program of aid to economically backward areas.

THE DEFENSE department also has a foreign information service, while the Mutual Security Agency spends millions explaining to recipients the purpose behind America's economic and military aid program.

About $145 million is being spent this year by the United States in these varied efforts to "sell" America abroad. Close to $100 million of this goes to the State department's IIA, headed by Dr. Robert L. Johnson, of Philadelphia. Of this sum, less than $5 million is being used to operate the overseas libraries.

Under a reorganization plan submitted by President Eisenhower, an independent agency, the United States Information Agency, would take over the information functions of the State department and other agencies.

The secretary of state would have the ultimate say on establishing policy, but the State department would have no voice in actual operations. Dr. Johnson will head the new agency, which becomes effective Aug. 1, unless the House or Senate disapproves, which was considered unlikely.

Martin Is Elected To Druggist Post

Lester R. Martin, 207 Washington Street, secretary of Ford's Drug Stores Inc. here, has been elected first vice president of the Maryland Pharmaceutical Association.

Members of the executive committee include Carleton W. Hanks, 457 Williams Street, proprietor of Hanks Pharmacy on Maryland Avenue.

The election was held at the recent MPA convention in Ocean City.

Wonder Drug's Failure Is Utilized To Produce Valuable New Vaccine

By RENNIE TAYLOR
AP Science Reporter

BERKELEY, Calif., July 13 (AP) — A wonder drug's failure against a certain disease microbe has been utilized, apparently for the first time, to produce a vaccine of great potential benefit to man and animal.

The result is a vaccine designed to protect sheep and goats against brucellosis, which causes the loss of their young by natural abortion.

The tricky method by which the substance was produced may open the way toward the development of other new vaccines, giving medical science some disease preventatives which it now lacks.

Two University of California bacteriologists did the work. They are Dr. Sanford Elberg and Dr. Mendel Herzberg.

They started by putting the disease microbe on a diet containing streptomycin, the very antibiotic "wonder drug" used to combat the strain of this same germ which causes brucellosis in humans.

Most of the brucellosis germs were killed by the antibiotic but a few survived. The survivors were cultured in another test tube containing a little stronger dose of the wonder drug. Still more germs survived this ordeal.

The experimenters kept repeating the process until they had a colony of germs which not only flourished on streptomycin but actually couldn't get along without it.

They planned to inoculate animals with these microbes and give just enough streptomycin with the injection to keep the germs alive a little while. Then they expected to cut off the streptomycin and stop the growth of the microbes, supposedly after the germs had caused the animals to develop antibodies against the disease. The cutoff plan was counted on to prevent the germs from multiplying greatly and causing disease in the animals.

Then Elberg and Herzberg got a surprise. When injected into the animals the microbes didn't need streptomycin to grow. However, they flourished only long enough to produce a mild infection. This usually is a sign that immunity has been produced.

The new vaccine has been tried experimentally only thus far on mice, guinea pigs and goats, and is not yet ready for livestock raisers. It is counted upon to work in sheep because this same strain of microbes is the one that causes the disease in the woolly flocks.

Turpentine was one of the first export products of the Jamestown colony in Virginia.

LUCKY OIL RIG GOING TO ISRAEL

By CENTRAL PRESS

WICHITA FALLS, Tex.—A Texas oil rig and its crew this summer may alter the social, economic and political structure of the Middle East.

A contract has been granted to Pontiac Petroleum, Inc., to ship its No. 1 rig and a full operating crew to Israel to drill on 700,000 acres of concessions granted to New Continental Oil Co., Ltd., of Canada by the Israel government. Pontiac is operating in Texas oil fields through Pontiac Drilling company, Texas, U. S. subsidiary.

The concessions are in the Jordan valley, bordering on the Dead sea and Sea of Galilee, and in other areas rich in Biblical lore.

The No. 1 rig is called "Lucky." It has brought in seven Texas wells with seven tries. Its shipment via New Orleans will cost an estimated $100,000 and will require 30 trailer trucks.

Results of American and British geological surveys during the past 100 years indicate all factors are favorable for production of petroleum in Israel.

Concessions also have been granted to six other American, Canadian and European companies.

EVER "STEAL" A CAR?

AT THESE PRICES these late-model Safe Buy Used Cars are a "steal" if we ever saw one!

There aren't very many used cars that look and drive like new—just barely broken in. But we've been getting some lately. And only the best of these beauties get the SAFE-BUY sticker right on the windshield for all to see. Yet this doesn't mean these cars are sky-high in price. On the contrary—the price tags are surprisingly low. Here's why:

Our biggest year yet on new Lincolns and Mercurys means more trade-ins—lower used car prices

We have literally sold new cars faster than we could get them. And because we didn't have to make sacrifice deals and discounts to sell new cars—we don't have to make up for lost profits by jacking up prices on used cars. We can let these late-model "Safe-Buys" go for very little more than we paid for them.

Safe Buy Used Cars are guaranteed—backed by our long reputation for fair dealing

When we put that Safe-Buy sticker on a car—we mean just what we say. That car is guaranteed to give you long miles of trouble-free driving. For each "Safe-Buy" has been fully checked and reconditioned by experts for your driving satisfaction. Shop with us, and get a guaranteed SAFE-BUY!

That's What Writer Calls America's Overseas Libraries

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON—More than 35 million people in 67 countries continue to throng America's overseas libraries as Congress debates their value. Those who have seen them in operation say they provide America's best show-window to the world.

Senator Joseph McCarthy (R), Wisconsin, chairman of the Senate permanent investigating subcommittee, contends the libraries contain numerous books portraying the Soviet Union in a favorable light while criticizing the United States.

However, regardless of the merits of the controversy, one fact is undisputed and that is that the libraries have proven the most popular of all of America's free world propaganda efforts.

In some 200 cities throughout the world, men, women and children visit the libraries in ever-increasing numbers, to read the books and magazines, to attend lectures, and to view films. Many of the libraries send out bookmobiles which reach rural communities whose contact with the United States is otherwise small.

THE LIBRARIES, known officially as International Information Centers, are operated by the State department's International Information Administration. They are the product, however, of many different hands.

The first three were established in Montevideo, Uruguay; Mexico City, and Managua, Nicaragua, by the State department's now-defunct Division of Cultural Relations. They were supplied and administered by the American Library association.

With the outbreak of World War II, the Office of War Information established similar centers in Allied and neutral nations in an effort to present a true picture of the American war effort. The OWI centers were stocked originally by the American Library association and the Council of Learned Societies. Additional books and documents were added by the OWI.

STILL ADDITIONAL libraries were set up during and after the war by the Army in occupied areas. Their purpose was to re-educate the people in the ways of democracy. Another group of libraries, some 34 in all, is operated in Latin American countries on a co-operative basis.

Regardless of their origin, all have proven exceedingly popular abroad. When a budget cut forced the closing of a library in Hakodate, in northern Japan, 40,000 natives signed a petition requesting that it be kept open.

In Germany, when some of the libraries were closed for the same reason, American High Commissioner John J. McCloy was flooded with letters of protests. An aide said it was the greatest outpouring of letters from German residents that he could recall.

The American Information Centers have proven singularly more successful than those established by the Communists. A center which was opened in Cairo by Romania proved a flop, because the Communist satellite stocked it only with literature praising the Soviets.

INTERESTINGLY enough, one of the most sought after pieces of literature in the Soviet Union itself was, for many years, the magazine Amerika, printed and distributed by the United States in the Russian language. Congress finally cut off its funds on the ground its printing and distribution was too costly.

The libraries are only one part of America's ever-growing propaganda effort to line up other peoples on the side of the free world.

The International Broadcasting Service, popularly known as the Voice of America, is probably the best known in the United States. It broadcasts approximately 42 hours of programs daily, some of them overlapping. Its transmitters are situated in the United States and overseas, including some on ships at sea.

THE IMPS—International Motion Picture Service—another unit of the State department's International Information Administration, is also very popular abroad. It prepares for showing in some 86 countries news reels, feature films, documentary pictures, and cartoons. They are made up in 29 foreign languages.

The International Press Service distributes to foreign newspapers and magazines, through the information centers, news and pictures. This service is widely used overseas.

The International Education Exchange Service operates a student exchange program. In 1952, approximately 4,900 foreigners were brought to this country to study, while 1,550 Americans were educated abroad.

The United States also has several other agencies which engage in transmitting information about this country abroad. The Technical Co-operation Administration seeks to explain the purpose and achievements of the American Point Four program of aid to economically backward areas.

THE DEFENSE department also has a foreign information service, while the Mutual Security Agency spends millions explaining to recipients the purpose behind America's economic and military aid program.

About $145 million is being spent this year by the United States in these varied efforts to "sell" America abroad. Close to $100 million of this goes to the State department's IIA, headed by Dr. Robert L. Johnson, of Philadelphia. Of this sum, less than $5 million is being used to operate the overseas libraries.

Under a reorganization plan submitted by President Eisenhower, an independent agency, the United States Information Agency, would take over the information functions of the State department and other agencies.

The secretary of state would have the ultimate say on establishing policy, but the State department would have no voice in actual operations. Dr. Johnson will head the new agency, which becomes effective Aug. 1, unless the House or Senate disapproves, which was considered unlikely.

Wonder Drug's Failure Is Utilized To Produce Valuable New Vaccine

By RENNIE TAYLOR
AP Science Reporter

BERKELEY, Calif., July 13 (AP) — A wonder drug's failure against a certain disease microbe has been utilized, apparently for the first time, to produce a vaccine of great potential benefit to man and animal.

The result is a vaccine designed to protect sheep and goats against brucellosis, which causes the loss of their young by natural abortion.

The tricky method by which the substance was produced may open the way toward the development of other new vaccines, giving medical science some disease preventatives which it now lacks.

Two University of California bacteriologists did the work. They are Dr. Sanford Elberg and Dr. Mendel Herzberg.

They started by putting the disease microbe on a diet containing streptomycin, the very antibiotic "wonder drug" used to combat the strain of this same germ which causes brucellosis in humans.

Most of the brucellosis germs were killed by the antibiotic but a few survived. The survivors were cultured in another test tube containing a little stronger dose of the wonder drug. Still more germs survived this ordeal.

The experimenters kept repeating the process until they had a colony of germs which not only flourished on streptomycin but actually couldn't get along without it.

They planned to inoculate animals with these microbes and give just enough streptomycin with the injection to keep the germs alive a little while. Then they expected to cut off the streptomycin and stop the growth of the microbes, supposedly after the germs had caused the animals to develop antibodies against the disease. The cutoff plan was counted on to prevent the germs from multiplying greatly and causing disease in the animals.

Then Elberg and Herzberg got a surprise. When injected into the animals the microbes didn't need streptomycin to grow. However, they flourished only long enough to produce a mild infection. This usually is a sign that immunity has been produced.

The new vaccine has been tried experimentally only thus far on mice, guinea pigs and goats, and is not yet ready for livestock raisers. It is counted upon to work in sheep because this same strain of microbes is the one that causes the disease in the woolly flocks.

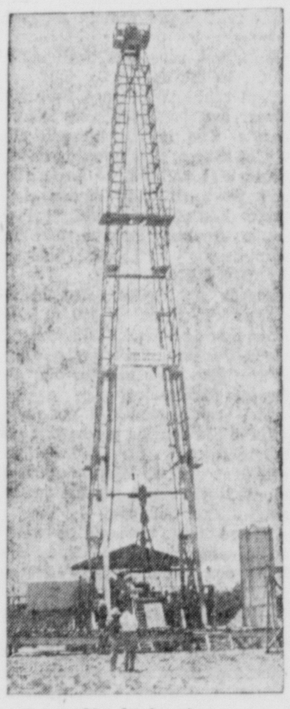
LUCKY OIL RIG GOING TO ISRAEL



The Lucky rig

By CENTRAL PRESS

WICHITA FALLS, Tex.—A Texas oil rig and its crew this summer may alter the social, economic and political structure of the Middle East.

A contract has been granted to Pontiac Petroleum, Inc., to ship its No. 1 rig and a full operating crew to Israel to drill on 700,000 acres of concessions granted to New Continental Oil Co., Ltd., of Canada by the Israel government. Pontiac is operating in Texas oil fields through Pontiac Drilling company, Texas, U. S. subsidiary.

The concessions are in the Jordan valley, bordering on the Dead sea and Sea of Galilee, and in other areas rich in Biblical lore.

The No. 1 rig is called "Lucky." It has brought in seven Texas wells with seven tries. Its shipment via New Orleans will cost an estimated $100,000 and will require 30 trailer trucks.

Results of American and British geological surveys during the past 100 years indicate all factors are favorable for production of petroleum in Israel.

Concessions also have been granted to six other American, Canadian and European companies.

Burglars Lock Elderly Man In Room, Get $158

'Big Lou' Riley Victim Of Thieves

Thieves early yesterday morning took approximately $158 from the cash drawer of 'Big Lou' Riley's beer establishment on East Mechanic Street in Frostburg after locking the owner in the washroom.

Riley, who is 71, and confined to a wheelchair by the loss of his right arm and left leg, reported the theft to Frostburg City Police after freeing himself following the burglary which occurred about 5 a. m.

Police who are investigating the theft reported at least three persons were involved and stated the culprits entered the bedroom of the well-known tavern proprietor by climbing a canopy over a kitchen door in the rear of the building.

Barricaded Door

Riley, who has been in business at the East Mechanic Street address since 1910, told authorities he normally sleeps in his upstairs bedroom but lately had been sleeping downstairs. He was awakened early yesterday morning by a commotion in the room above his business place, he stated.

He entered the downstairs washroom and again heard a noise. Calling out, "Who's there?" Riley prepared to investigate.

The elderly man, who moves about in a chair with coaster wheels, said whoever had entered the upstairs bedroom came down and shoved a chair in front of the washroom door, making it impossible for him to get out.

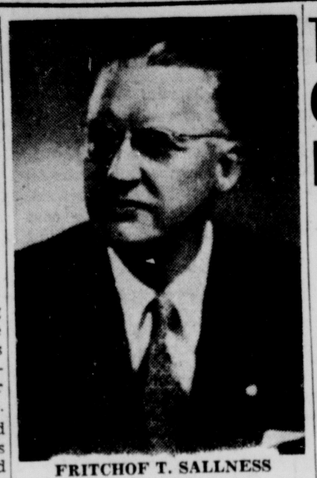
Darkened Building

While he was locked in the culprits ransacked the cash drawer of his business place and made off with the money. Before leaving they darkened the building by turning out the one light which Riley kept on downstairs.

After some time Riley freed himself and made his way to the phone to notify police of the robbery.

A native of Port Deposit, Riley came to Frostburg many years ago while working with the State Roads Commission. He then began working in the Eckhart coal mines where he lost his arm in a mine accident in 1907.

Years later he lost his leg because of illness and went into business at his present establishment.



FRITCHOF T. SALLNESS

Moose Lodge To Initiate Class Of 25

Ceremony Thursday Honors Supreme Head

Cumberland Loyal Order of Moose Lodge 271 will initiate a class of 25 new members Thursday at 8 p. m. at the lodge home in honor of the supreme governor of the order, Fritchof T. Sallness.

Sallness, a prominent Michigan attorney, was named national head of the organization at the 1952 International Convention and is past governor of Saginaw, Mich., lodge.

The supreme governor will attend the initiation ceremonies of the Fritchof T. Sallness class, making his first visitation to this area. He will arrive here from Hagerstown.

The ritual team of the Cumberland lodge will conduct the initiation of the new class with C. Bernard Tasker, governor of the Cumberland lodge, in charge of the program.

Born in Two Harbors, Minn., November 29, 1900, Sallness was educated in the public schools of that city. He was graduated from the Literary College of the University of Michigan and the university's Law School.

He is a member of the Michigan Bar Association, University of Michigan Club, American Judicature Society, the Colony Club and the Saginaw County Bar Association. He lives in Saginaw with his wife, Marion.

Three Architects Get Contracts For School Jobs

D. C. Area Firms To Draw Three Plans

Three architects, two of them in suburban Washington, were awarded contracts yesterday by the Allegany County Board of Education to prepare plans for four of the remaining jobs in Allegany County's $3,500,000 school construction program.

S. Russ Minter, local architect, was awarded the contract for the new Bruce High School in Westernport, the largest project in the program. Minter also is revising plans he prepared several years ago for an addition to the Flintstone High School.

Other Projects

The local architect also has prepared plans for the two smaller jobs, a new Lincoln Elementary School in Frostburg and an addition to the McCoole Elementary School, both of which are now under construction.

Johannes and Murray, a Silver Spring firm, was given the architectural contract for the new La-Vale Elementary School.

Walter and Madden of Mt. Rainier, in Prince George's County, was awarded the contract to prepare plans for the Oldtown and Carver High School additions.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster said the only project not contracted was the addition to Johnson Heights School. The ninth job, reconditioning of the old Central High School building in Lonaconing, requires no architectural work.

Rewiring Bids Approved

The board yesterday also approved the low bid on the rewiring of Pennsylvania Avenue and East Side schools. The Maryland Electric Company, 174 North Centre Street, submitted the low bids.

With incandescent fixtures Maryland Electric bid $15,818.80, $11,128.70 at Pennsylvania Avenue and $4,690.10 at East Side. With fluorescent fixtures the same company bid $30,362.10, $21,892.40 at Pennsylvania Avenue and $8,469.70 at East Side. Both proposals were lower than those offered by two other local firms.

The board left with Webster and Joseph T. Downey, supervisor of maintenance, the decision as to which type of fixtures should be used. The superintendent seems inclined to favor the cheaper bids.

Yesterday morning Webster appeared before the Allegany County Board of Commissioners to request the final state aid due in the county's first three construction projects, the Mt. Savage School, Valley High School at Lonaconing and the new Ellerslie School.

The commissioners certified the application for $46,687. Through various bond issues the county has supplied $2,800,000 for construction of the three schools. The state furnishes an additional $1 for each $3 spent by the county, bringing the state's total to $924,180.

Repair Severed Phone Cable

These C&P Telephone Company workmen are shown performing the tedious work of reconnecting some 102 wires in the company's main cable which was broken by C&A Gas Company employes about 11:30 a. m. yesterday while digging in Broadway at Woodside Avenue. The C&P men are, left to right, Joseph Liller, construction foreman-supervisor; James Miller, cable helper, and W. O. Orndorff, cable splicer, all of Cumberland. The cable carries long distance messages, some of the teletype news for the Times-News, network programs for the local radio stations and other special communications. Within an hour the network radio programs and long distance calls were being rerouted via Pittsburgh. Two hours after the break occurred some of the circuits were being spliced back together again. The teletype was back in normal operation about 5:15 p. m.

Medical Care Unit Probes Doctor Bills

County Physician Quits State Program

BALTIMORE, July 14 (AP)—The bills of 49 doctors participating in Maryland's free medical care for the poor were investigated last year, the State Department of Health reported today.

The results:

1. Two doctors quit the program after being notified their bills showed an unusually high number of treatments per person. One was in Allegany County and other in Worcester.

2. One was dropped from the program because he had misrepresented information on his bills to the state. The Baltimore County Medical Association ended his membership.

3. Three agreed to accept payments on the basis of the average for their county instead of the higher bills they submitted. Two were in Carroll County and one in Charles.

4. One doctor returned $117. He was censured in a letter by the Baltimore County Medical Association.

The 49 cases studied were from among 852 doctors participating in the program.

The county health departments certify the patients eligible for free medical service. The doctors submit their bills and are paid by the state.

The Medical Care program is now operating on a patient quota throughout the state as the result of a $50,000 cut in appropriations voted by the recent General Assembly.

Last year, the program went $25,000 in the red, when care was provided for 25,491 persons at an average patient cost of $25.62.

The deficit was met by prorating doctor's bills for one month at about 60 cents on the dollar.

Last year, the Medical Aid Program spent $95,850.07 in Allegany County to provide free medical care to 2,750 persons.

Those aided varied from month to month, according to need. Last month, the rolls included 2,311 indigent persons and 331 medical indigents—those who had some income but could not stretch it enough to meet medical costs.

Program Listed For Sports Car Races July 19

Four Individual Events Outlined

The program for the sports car races to be held at the Cumberland Municipal Airport July 19 was announced yesterday by the Cumberland Lions Club.

The races are being held by the Lions Club and the Steel City section of the Sports Car Club of America. Proceeds will go for the benefit of the Children's Sight Conservation program in Allegany County.

The first race will begin at 11 a. m. on the one and a half mile closed course which has six sharp turns, one about 40 feet from a ravine. The first event will consist of 25 laps or approximately 40 miles and will be for production and modified cars under 1,500 cubic centimeters engine displacement. Novices receive one lap start.

To Award Prizes

Prizes will be awarded in the categories: Class G, 750 to 1,100 cc.; Stock M.G., M.G. MK II, Stock Porsche, Volkswagen, Class F modified, 1,100 to 1,500 cc.; and for the best novice.

The second race will get under way at 12 noon for production and modified cars over 1,500 cc. and will consist of 25 laps or about 40 miles. Novices will receive one lap start in this race also.

Prizes in this race will be awarded in categories: Class E, 1,500 to 2,000 cc.; Stock XK-120 Jaguar, Class C Modified, 3,000 to 5,000 cc.; Class B, 5,000 to 5,500 cc.; and for best beginner.

The third race, a powder puff race for ladies only, will begin at 1 p. m. and will run for 10 laps or a distance of about 16 miles. Production and modified cars of all classes will be in the ladies' event.

The final race will begin at 2 p. m. This event, the Cumberland Cup race, will be the feature event and will consist of 60 laps on the hazardous course running approximately 96 miles. Entries include production and modified cars of all classes.

Prizes will be given in categories: Class H, Stock M.G., M.G. MK II and Stock Prosche Class, Class F Modified, Class E, Class D, Stock XK-120 Jaguar, XK-120M Jaguar Class and Class B. The Steel Cities Region's Regional Team Trophy will also be awarded at this race.

Car Sizes

Classes are determined by the cubic centimeters engine displacement of the cars. Production cars are autos that conform to sports car specifications and are produced in quantities greater than 500. Such cars must run precisely in the state in which sold.

Modified sports are autos that conform to sports car specifications but are produced in non-commercial quantities or are "souped-up" production cars.

The cars in the race will be matched according to their engine size or piston displacement. The bigger cars are able to attain 150 miles per hour or more on straight stretches, while the smallest can hit 85 miles per hour.

Alert Sends Firemen To Luke Plant

Eight Tri-Towns area volunteer fire companies last evening participated in a Civil Defense practice alert involving an imaginary fire call to the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company plant at Luke.

David E. Kirk, coordinator for the Tri-Towns District of the Civil Defense Fire Branch Unit, was in charge of the practice. He was assisted by Clyde Blantz, chief of the Luke Fire Company, and William Smith Jr., also of the Luke Fire Company.

When the alert sounded at 6:45 p. m., firemen from Luke, Bloomington, Piedmont, Westernport and Barton responded to various assigned positions around the Luke plant. Keyser firemen went to Piedmont and stood by while McCoole firemen advanced from their fire hall to Westernport and filled in there. Beryl firemen rushed to their own fire hall and stood by awaiting further orders.

Kirk, who is secretary of the Barton Fire Company, said all of the firemen were in their assigned positions 15 minutes after the alert was sounded. About 35 men were at the mill and about 100 men participated in the practice.

Maryland Will Prohibit Feeding Of Untreated Garbage To Swine

New Regulation To Be Enforced

Enforcement of a new regulation which prohibits the feeding of untreated garbage to swine has been started by the Maryland State Board of Agriculture.

The regulation, designed to prevent the transmission of viral, bacterial and parasitic diseases to animals or man, became effective July 1.

Dr. W. R. Teeter, Hagerstown, area laboratory supervisor for the State Board of Agriculture, was here yesterday to get the program underway in Allegany County.

The regulation, he said, affects those who collect garbage from eating establishments and feed it to hogs, but does not apply to farmers who feed their own table scraps to swine being raised for the family's use.

Must Secure Permit

Under the regulation, those who intend to feed garbage to swine must secure a permit from the Maryland State Board of Agriculture, Baltimore, by September 28.

Premises on which garbage feeding is permitted must be equipped with easily cleaned feeding platforms and all garbage must be boiled for at least 30 minutes.

Dr. Teeter said the premises will be inspected to see that cooking facilities are available before permits are issued.

And the farms will be checked at irregular intervals by the Board of Agriculture to see that the sanitary rules are being kept.

Officials were busy yesterday checking the names of some seven who are known to be feeding raw garbage to swine, Dr. Teeter said.

Sufficient time will be given, he added, for all to comply with the regulations.

Federal regulations now effective also require that the state supervise and control the use of garbage in hog feeding.

May Affect Sale

In states where no control over feeding is exercised, interstate shipment of swine and swine products may be hampered or prevented.

There is also federal regulation, Dr. Teeter said, that garbage cannot be moved from one state to another. This could halt the movement of restaurant garbage from Cumberland to nearby tri-state farms, unless approval were granted by West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

Under the new setup, it will be necessary to secure certificates from an official veterinarian when hogs are consigned to slaughter.

RESIGNS POST — Ralph L. Lewis, program director at Central YMCA the past two years, has resigned to become associate pastor of St. Paul's Methodist Church, Lincoln, Neb. Lewis will take charge of youth work at the Lincoln church. He will remain here through the rest of the summer and will assume his new duties in September.

Carver Playlot Association Elects Officers

Mrs. Naomi Redman was elected president of the Carver Playground Association at an election held last night.

Other officers elected were Mrs. Juanita Smith, vice president; Miss Evelyn Powell, secretary, and Mrs. Ella Beckward, treasurer.

Mrs. Jean Etta Beckward, playground director, announced winners of the Carver Hat Show last night. Prizes were awarded to Kenneth Keyes, for largest hat; Janet Bates, smallest hat; Debbie Washington, prettiest; Gary Beckward, most unusual, and Florence Younger, most becoming.

Awards were also given to all of tht 15 contestants in the show.

Judges for the event were Mrs. Irene Keyes, Miss Evelyn Powell and Hank Page.

Monday night a cracker eating contest was held with Dwight Younger copping the prize.

M. M. Corrigan Dies Following Lengthy Illness

Martin M. Corrigan, 68, of 110 Greene Street, former superintendent of streets here for many years, died last night in Memorial Hospital where he was admitted yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Corrigan had been superintendent of streets for the City of Cumberland for over 10 years and last year retired from that capacity because of illness. He had been in failing health for about a year.

Before being made superintendent of streets, Mr. Corrigan had worked with the City of Cumberland in other capacities. In the early 1930s he was one of the city's superintendents in charge of the WPA work here.

For approximately 12 years prior to his employment with the city, Mr. Corrigan was a partner with Thomas Kane in the Kane-Corrigan Contracting Company. The company contracted primarily street jobs.

A native of Somerset County, Pa., he was born June 7, 1885, a son of the late Michael J. and Emma (Nahar) Corrigan. Mr. Corrigan's grandfather was the late Matthew Corrigan, for whom Corriganville is named.

He came to Cumberland when a child and had lived here most of his life. One of his first employers was the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. He received his education at St. Patrick's High School here.

He was a member of Cumberland Council 586, Knights of Columbus; Cumberland Lodge 63, Benevolent Protective Order of Elks, and Cumberland Lodge 271, Loyal Order of Moose.

Surviving are his sister, Miss Anne S. Corrigan, at home, and an aunt, Miss Catherine J. Corrigan, Corriganville.

The body will be taken to the residence today.

Hite Commended For Assisting Bank Customers

City Policeman Gordon Hite yesterday was commended by John J. Robinson, vice president of Liberty Trust Company, for assistance he gave to bank customers while on duty Saturday at Baltimore and Centre streets.

In a letter to Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn, Robinson stated "One of your officers, a Mr. Hite, assisted some of our night depository customers, Saturday, July 11, when they had difficulty operating the night depository chute. He also kept a watchful eye for any other customers who might have difficulty while he was on duty at the corner of Baltimore and Centre streets."

Robinson went on to explain he wished Flynn to extend the bank's sincere thanks and appreciation for the officer's courtesy and cooperation.

52 Firemen To Get Advanced Training Course Cards Today

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long will present diplomas and cards today to 52 Cumberland firemen who recently completed an advanced fire fighting course given by the University of Maryland.

Graduation exercises for the group, the only paid fire department members in Maryland to complete the studies, will be conducted at the plaza in front of Central Fire Station at 4 p. m. today.

Robert C. Byrus, director of the fire extension course from the state university, will be on hand for the exercises. Assistant Fire Chief Robert C. Long conducted the classes.

Chamber Names 20 Candidates

Twenty nominees for ten expiring terms on the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce were named last night as ballots in the annual nominating primary were counted.

Ballots, which had been out for two weeks, were counted after voting closed at 5 p. m. Names of nominees will be placed on general election ballots which will be mailed soon to all members.

Burglars Lock Elderly Man In Room, Get $158

'Big Lou' Riley Victim Of Thieves

Thieves early yesterday morning took approximately $158 from the cash drawer of 'Big Lou' Riley's beer establishment on East Mechanic Street in Frostburg after locking the owner in the washroom.

Riley, who is 71, and confined to a wheelchair by the loss of his right arm and left leg, reported the theft to Frostburg City Police after freeing himself following the burglary which occurred about 5 a. m.

Police who are investigating the theft reported at least three persons were involved and stated the culprits entered the bedroom of the well-known tavern proprietor by climbing a canopy over a kitchen door in the rear of the building.

Barricaded Door

Riley, who has been in business at the East Mechanic Street address since 1910, told authorities he normally sleeps in his upstairs bedroom but lately had been sleeping downstairs. He was awakened early yesterday morning by a commotion in the room above his business place, he stated.

He entered the downstairs washroom and again heard a noise. Calling out, "Who's there?" Riley prepared to investigate.

The elderly man, who moves about in a chair with coaster wheels, said whoever had entered the upstairs bedroom came down and shoved a chair in front of the washroom door, making it impossible for him to get out.

Darkened Building

While he was locked in the culprits ransacked the cash drawer of his business place and made off with the money. Before leaving they darkened the building by turning out the one light which Riley kept on downstairs.

After some time Riley freed himself and made his way to the phone to notify police of the robbery.

A native of Port Deposit, Riley came to Frostburg many years ago while working with the State Roads Commission. He then began working in the Eckhart coal mines where he lost his arm in a mine accident in 1907.

Years later he lost his leg because of illness and went into business at his present establishment.

M. M. Corrigan Dies Following Lengthy Illness

Martin M. Corrigan, 68, of 110 Greene Street, former superintendent of streets here for many years, died last night in Memorial Hospital where he was admitted yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Corrigan had been superintendent of streets for the City of Cumberland for over 10 years and last year retired from that capacity because of illness. He had been in failing health for about a year.

Before being made superintendent of streets, Mr. Corrigan had worked with the City of Cumberland in other capacities. In the early 1930s he was one of the city's superintendents in charge of the WPA work here.

For approximately 12 years prior to his employment with the city, Mr. Corrigan was a partner with Thomas Kane in the Kane-Corrigan Contracting Company. The company contracted primarily street jobs.

A native of Somerset County, Pa., he was born June 7, 1885, a son of the late Michael J. and Emma (Nahar) Corrigan. Mr. Corrigan's grandfather was the late Matthew Corrigan, for whom Corriganville is named.

He came to Cumberland when a child and had lived here most of his life. One of his first employers was the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. He received his education at St. Patrick's High School here.

He was a member of Cumberland Council 586, Knights of Columbus; Cumberland Lodge 63, Benevolent Protective Order of Elks, and Cumberland Lodge 271, Loyal Order of Moose.

Surviving are his sister, Miss Anne S. Corrigan, at home, and an aunt, Miss Catherine J. Corrigan, Corriganville.

The body will be taken to the residence today.

FRITCHOF T. SALLNESS

Moose Lodge To Initiate Class Of 25

Ceremony Thursday Honors Supreme Head

Cumberland Loyal Order of Moose Lodge 271 will initiate a class of 25 new members Thursday at 8 p. m. at the lodge home in honor of the supreme governor of the order, Fritchof T. Sallness.

Sallness, a prominent Michigan attorney, was named national head of the organization at the 1952 International Convention and is past governor of Saginaw, Mich., lodge.

The supreme governor will attend the initiation ceremonies of the Fritchof T. Sallness class, making his first visitation to this area. He will arrive here from Hagerstown.

The ritual team of the Cumberland lodge will conduct the initiation of the new class with C. Bernard Tasker, governor of the Cumberland lodge, in charge of the program.

Born in Two Harbors, Minn., November 29, 1900, Sallness was educated in the public schools of that city. He was graduated from the Literary College of the University of Michigan and the university's Law School.

He is a member of the Michigan Bar Association, University of Michigan Club, American Judicature Society, the Colony Club and the Saginaw County Bar Association. He lives in Saginaw with his wife, Marion.

Hite Commended For Assisting Bank Customers

City Policeman Gordon Hite yesterday was commended by John J. Robinson, vice president of Liberty Trust Company, for assistance he gave to bank customers while on duty Saturday at Baltimore and Centre streets.

In a letter to Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn, Robinson stated "One of your officers, a Mr. Hite, assisted some of our night depository customers, Saturday, July 11, when they had difficulty operating the night depository chute. He also kept a watchful eye for any other customers who might have difficulty while he was on duty at the corner of Baltimore and Centre streets."

Robinson went on to explain he wished Flynn to extend the bank's sincere thanks and appreciation for the officer's courtesy and cooperation.

52 Firemen To Get Advanced Training Course Cards Today

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long will present diplomas and cards today to 52 Cumberland firemen who recently completed an advanced fire fighting course given by the University of Maryland.

Graduation exercises for the group, the only paid fire department members in Maryland to complete the studies, will be conducted at the plaza in front of Central Fire Station at 4 p. m. today.

Robert C. Byrus, director of the fire extension course from the state university, will be on hand for the exercises. Assistant Fire Chief Robert C. Long conducted the classes.

Three Architects Get Contracts For School Jobs

D. C. Area Firms To Draw Three Plans

Three architects, two of them in suburban Washington, were awarded contracts yesterday by the Allegany County Board of Education to prepare plans for four of the remaining jobs in Allegany County's $3,500,000 school construction program.

S. Russ Minter, local architect, was awarded the contract for the new Bruce High School in Westernport, the largest project in the program. Minter also is revising plans he prepared several years ago for an addition to the Flintstone High School.

Other Projects

The local architect also has prepared plans for the two smaller jobs, a new Lincoln Elementary School in Frostburg and an addition to the McCoole Elementary School, both of which are now under construction.

Johannes and Murray, a Silver Spring firm, was given the architectural contract for the new LaVale Elementary School.

Walter and Madden of Mt. Rainier, in Prince George's County, was awarded the contract to prepare plans for the Oldtown and Carver High School additions.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster said the only project not contracted was the addition to Johnson Heights School. The ninth job, reconditioning of the old Central High School building in Lonaconing, requires no architectural work.

Rewiring Bids Approved

The board yesterday also approved the low bid on the rewiring of Pennsylvania Avenue and East Side schools. The Maryland Electric Company, 174 North Centre Street, submitted the low bids.

With incandescent fixtures Maryland Electric bid $15,818.80, $11,128.70 at Pennsylvania Avenue and $4,690.10 at East Side. With fluorescent fixtures the same company bid $30,362.10, $21,892.40 at Pennsylvania Avenue and $8,469.70 at East Side. Both proposals were lower than those offered by two other local firms.

The board left with Webster and Joseph T. Downey, supervisor of maintenance, the decision as to which type of fixtures should be used. The superintendent seems inclined to favor the cheaper bids.

Yesterday morning Webster appeared before the Allegany County Board of Commissioners to request the final state aid due in the county's first three construction projects, the Mt. Savage School, Valley High School at Lonaconing and the new Ellerslie School.

The commissioners certified the application for $46,687. Through various bond issues the county has supplied $2,800,000 for construction of the three schools. The state furnishes an additional $1 for each $3 spent by the county, bringing the state's total to $924,180.

Chamber Names 20 Candidates

Twenty nominees for ten expiring terms on the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce were named last night as ballots in the annual nominating primary were counted.

Ballots, which had been out for two weeks, were counted after voting closed at 5 p. m. Names of nominees will be placed on general election ballots which will be mailed soon to all members.

Voting will close at 5 p. m. July 28.

Nominees, listed in alphabetical order, are:

G. William Bibby, George L. Buchanan, Robert Little Ebert, C. William Gilchrist, Thomas E. Gilchrist, Benjamen M. Kamens, John A. Kreiling, Lester R. Martin, J. Kenneth Morgan, Rev. Seth C. Morrow, Joseph M. Naughton, Lewis J. Ort, Robert W. Richardson, Charles E. Smith, Harry I. Stegmaier, R. Finley Thompson, Albert W. Tindal, J. L. Towler, Chester T. Williams and John F. Workmeister.

Repair Severed Phone Cable

These C&P Telephone Company workmen are shown performing the tedious work of reconnecting some 102 wires in the company's main cable which was broken by C&A Gas Company employes about 11:30 a. m. yesterday while digging in Broadway at Woodside Avenue. The C&P men are, left to right, Joseph Liller, construction foreman-supervisor; James Miller, cable helper, and W. O. Orndorff, cable splicer, all of Cumberland. The cable carries long distance messages, some of the teletype news for the Times-News, network programs for the local radio stations and other special communications. Within an hour the network radio programs and long distance calls were being rerouted via Pittsburgh. Two hours after the break occurred some of the circuits were being spliced back together again. The teletype was back in normal operation about 5:15 p. m.

Program Listed For Sports Car Races July 19

Four Individual Events Outlined

The program for the sports car races to be held at the Cumberland Municipal Airport July 19 was announced yesterday by the Cumberland Lions Club.

The races are being held by the Lions Club and the Steel City section of the Sports Car Club of America. Proceeds will go for the benefit of the Children's Sight Conservation program in Allegany County.

The first race will begin at 11 a. m. on the one and a half mile closed course which has six sharp turns, one about 40 feet from a ravine. The first event will consist of 25 laps or approximately 40 miles and will be for production and modified cars under 1,500 cubic centimeters engine displacement. Novices receive one lap start.

To Award Prizes

Prizes will be awarded in the categories: Class G, 750 to 1,100 cc.; Stock M.G., M.G. MK II, Stock Porsche, Volkswagen, Class F modified, 1,100 to 1,500 cc.; and for the best novice.

The second race will get under way at 12 noon for production and modified cars over 1,500 cc. and will consist of 25 laps or about 40 miles. Novices will receive one lap start in this race also.

Prizes in this race will be awarded in categories: Class E, 1,500 to 2,000 cc.; Stock XK-120 Jaguar, Class C Modified, 3,000 to 5,000 cc.; Class B, 5,000 to 5,500 cc.; and for best beginner.

The third race, a powder puff race for ladies only, will begin at 1 p. m. and will run for 10 laps or a distance of about 16 miles. Production and modified cars of all classes will be in the ladies' event.

The final race will begin at 2 p. m. This event, the Cumberland Cup race, will be the feature event and will consist of 60 laps on the hazardous course running approximately 96 miles. Entries include production and modified cars of all classes.

Prizes will be given in categories: Class H, Stock M.G., M.G. MK II and Stock Prosche Class, Class F Modified, Class E, Class D, Stock XK-120 Jaguar, XK-120M Jaguar Class and Class B. The Steel Cities Region's Regional Team Trophy will also be awarded at this race.

Car Sizes

Classes are determined by the cubic centimeters engine displacement of the cars. Production cars are autos that conform to sports car specifications and are produced in quantities greater than 500. Such cars must run precisely in the state in which sold.

Modified sports are autos that conform to sports car specifications but are produced in non-commercial quantities or are "souped-up" production cars.

The cars in the race will be matched according to their engine size or piston displacement. The bigger cars are able to attain 150 miles per hour or more on straight stretches, while the smallest can hit 85 miles per hour.

Fight Brush Fire

East Side firemen extinguished a brush fire between Cromwell Terrace and Pine Avenue yesterday after answering an alarm at 5:19 p. m. from 545 Cromwell Terrace. Firemen reported no damage.

Alert Sends Firemen To Luke Plant

Eight Tri-Towns area volunteer fire companies last evening participated in a Civil Defense practice alert involving an imaginary fire call to the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company plant at Luke.

David E. Kirk, coordinator for the Tri-Towns District of the Civil Defense Fire Branch Unit, was in charge of the practice. He was assisted by Clyde Blantz, chief of the Luke Fire Company, and William Smith Jr., also of the Luke Fire Company.

When the alert sounded at 6:45 p. m., firemen from Luke, Bloomington, Piedmont, Westernport and Barton responded to various assigned positions around the Luke plant. Keyser firemen went to Piedmont and stood by while McCoole firemen advanced from their fire hall to Westernport and filled in there. Beryl firemen rushed to their own fire hall and stood by awaiting further orders.

Kirk, who is secretary of the Barton Fire Company, said all of the firemen were in their assigned positions 15 minutes after the alert was sounded. About 35 men were at the mill and about 100 men participated in the practice.

Lt. Johnston said he was working that day but was not in charge of the platoon.

Maryland Will Prohibit Feeding Of Untreated Garbage To Swine

New Regulation To Be Enforced

Enforcement of a new regulation which prohibits the feeding of untreated garbage to swine has been started by the Maryland State Board of Agriculture.

The regulation, designed to prevent the transmission of viral, bacterial and parasitic diseases to animals or man, became effective July 1.

Dr. W. R. Teeter, Hagerstown, area laboratory supervisor for the State Board of Agriculture, was here yesterday to get the program underway in Allegany County.

The regulation, he said, affects those who collect garbage from eating establishments and feed it to hogs, but does not apply to farmers who feed their own table scraps to swine being raised for the family's use.

Must Secure Permit

Under the regulation, those who intend to feed garbage to swine must secure a permit from the Maryland State Board of Agriculture, Baltimore, by September 28.

Premises on which garbage feeding is permitted must be equipped with easily cleaned feeding platforms and all garbage must be boiled for at least 30 minutes.

Dr. Teeter said the premises will be inspected to see that cooking facilities are available before permits are issued.

And the farms will be checked at irregular intervals by the Board of Agriculture to see that the sanitary rules are being kept.

Officials were busy yesterday checking the names of some seven who are known to be feeding raw garbage to swine, Dr. Teeter said.

Sufficient time will be given, he added, for all to comply with the regulations.

Federal regulations now effective also require that the state supervise and control the use of garbage in hog feeding.

May Affect Sale

In states where no control over feeding is exercised, interstate shipment of swine and swine products may be hampered or prevented.

There is also federal regulation, Dr. Teeter said, that garbage cannot be moved from one state to another. This could halt the movement of restaurant garbage from Cumberland to nearby tri-state farms, unless approval were granted by West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

Under the new setup, it will be necessary to secure certificates from an official veterinarian when hogs are consigned to slaughter.

RESIGNS POST — Ralph L. Lewis, program director at Central YMCA the past two years, has resigned to become associate pastor of St. Paul's Methodist Church, Lincoln, Neb. Lewis will take charge of youth work at the Lincoln church. He will remain here through the rest of the summer and will assume his new duties in September.

Medical Care Unit Probes Doctor Bills

County Physician Quits State Program

BALTIMORE, July 14 (AP)—The bills of 49 doctors participating in Maryland's free medical care for the poor were investigated last year, the State Department of Health reported today.

The results:

1. Two doctors quit the program after being notified their bills showed an unusually high number of treatments per person. One was in Allegany County and other in Worcester.

2. One was dropped from the program because he had misrepresented information on his bills to the state. The Baltimore County Medical Association ended his membership.

3. Three agreed to accept payments on the basis of the average for their county instead of the higher bills they submitted. Two were in Carroll County and one in Charles.

4. One doctor returned $117. He was censured in a letter by the Baltimore County Medical Association.

The 49 cases studied were from among 852 doctors participating in the program.

The county health departments certify the patients eligible for free medical service. The doctors submit their bills and are paid by the state.

The Medical Care program is now operating on a patient quota throughout the state as the result of a $50,000 cut in appropriations voted by the recent General Assembly.

Last year, the program went $25,000 in the red, when care was provided for 25,491 persons at an average patient cost of $25.62.

The deficit was met by prorating doctor's bills for one month at about 60 cents on the dollar.

Last year, the Medical Aid Program spent $95,850.07 in Allegany County to provide free medical care to 2,750 persons.

Those aided varied from month to month, according to need. Last month, the rolls included 2,311 indigent persons and 331 medical indigents—those who had some income but could not stretch it enough to meet medical costs.

Carver Playlot Association Elects Officers

Mrs. Naomi Redman was elected president of the Carver Playground Association at an election held last night.

Other officers elected were Mrs. Juanita Smith, vice president; Miss Evelyn Powell, secretary, and Mrs. Ella Beckward, treasurer.

Mrs. Jean Etta Beckward, playground director, announced winners of the Carver Hat Show last night. Prizes were awarded to Kenneth Keyes, for largest hat; Janet Bates, smallest hat; Debbie Washington, prettiest; Gary Beckward, most unusual, and Florence Younger, most becoming.

Awards were also given to all of tht 15 contestants in the show.

Judges for the event were Mrs. Irene Keyes, Miss Evelyn Powell and Hank Page.

Monday night a cracker eating contest was held with Dwight Younger copping the prize.
